PUBLIC LAWS

OF THE

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA,

PASSED BY

THE FIFTY-SIXTH CONGRESS.

1899-1901.

PUBLIC ACTS OF THE FIFTY-SIXTH CONGRESS

OF THE

UNITED STATES

Passed at the first session, which was begun and held at the city of Washington, in the District of Columbia, on Monday the fourth day of December, 1899, and was adjourned without day on Thursday the seventh day of June, 1900.

WILLIAM MCKINLEY, President; WILLIAM P. FRYE, President of the Senate, pro tempore; DAVID B. HENDERSON, Speaker of the House of Representatives.

CHAP. 1.—An Act To extend the time for examination of monthly accounts by bureaus and offices of the War Department. December 20, 1899.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That the time for examination of monthly accounts by the bureaus and offices of the War Department after the date of actual receipt and before transmitting the same to the Auditor for the War Department, as limited by section twelve of the legislative, executive, and judicial appropriation Act, approved July thirty-first, eighteen hundred and ninety-four, is hereby extended from twenty days to sixty days for the period of one year from the date of the passage of this Act.

War Department.

That all suits not of a local nature in said circuit and district courts against a single defendant, inhabitant of said State, must be brought in the division of the district where he resides; but if there are two or more defendants residing in different divisions of the district, such suits may be brought in either division.

SEC. 5. That all prosecutions for crimes or offenses hereafter committed in either of the divisions of said district shall be cognizable within such division, and all prosecutions for crimes or offenses heretofore committed in the eastern district as heretofore constituted shall be commenced and proceeded with as if this Act had not been passed.

SEC. 6. That all grand and petit jurors summoned for service in each division shall be residents of such division. All mesne and final process subject to the provisions hereinbefore contained, issued in either of said divisions, may be served and executed in either or both of the divisions.

SEC. 7. That in all cases of removal of suits from the courts of the State of Tennessee to the courts of the United States in the eastern district of Tennessee such removal shall be to the United States courts in the division in which the county is situated from which the removal is made, and the time within which the removal shall be perfected, in so far as it refers to or is regulated by the terms of the United States courts, shall be deemed to refer to the terms of the United States courts held in said northeastern judicial district.

SEC. 8. That each of said courts shall be held in a building to be provided for that purpose by the county or municipal authorities and without expense to the United States.

SEC. 9. That this Act shall be in force from and after the thirtieth day of June, anno Domini nineteen hundred, and all Acts and parts of Acts so far as inconsistent herewith are hereby repealed.

Army.
Suspension of certain provisions of law.
Vol. 30, p. 1350.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That an Act entitled "An Act to amend an Act entitled 'An Act to suspend the operation of certain provisions of law relating to the War Department, and for other purposes,'" approved March third, eighteen hundred and ninety-nine, is hereby amended so as to read as follows:

"That the operation of the following provisions of law be, and is hereby, continued suspended for such further time as, in the discretion of the Secretary of War, may be found necessary, or until otherwise provided by Congress, not longer, however, than June thirtieth, nineteen hundred and one:

"First. The provision of the first section of the Act entitled 'An Act making appropriations for the support of the Army for the fiscal year ending June thirtieth, eighteen hundred and eighty-nine, and for other purposes,' in the following words:

Provisos.
Limit of draft animals.
Vol. 25, p. 486.

"Provided, That hereafter no part of this appropriation shall be expended in the purchase for the Army of draft animals until the number on hand shall be reduced to five thousand, and thereafter shall only be expended for the purchase of a number sufficient to keep the supply up to five thousand."

Vol. 30, p. 323.

"Second. The provisions of the first section of the Act entitled 'An Act making appropriations for the support of the Army for the fiscal year ending June thirtieth, eighteen hundred and ninety-nine, and for other purposes,' in the following words:

Quartermaster's Department.
—printing for, etc.

"Provided, That hereafter no part of the appropriations for the Quartermaster's Department shall be expended on printing unless the same shall be done by contract, after due notice and competition, except in such cases as the emergency will not admit of the giving notice for competition: Provided further, That after advertisement, all the supplies for the use of the various departments and posts of the Army and of the branches of the army service shall hereafter be purchased where the same can be purchased the cheapest in the markets of the United States, quality and cost of transportation and the interest of the Government considered, except that purchases may be made in open market, in the manner common among business men, when the aggregate amount required does not exceed two hundred dollars, but every such purchase shall be immediately reported to the Secretary of War."

—purchases where cheapest, etc.

"And the words:

—purchase of horses; limit, etc.

"Provided, That the number of horses purchased under this appropriation, added to the number on hand, shall not at any time exceed the number of enlisted men and Indian scouts in the mounted service, and that no part of this appropriation shall be paid out for horses not purchased by contract, after competition duly invited by the Quartermaster's Department and an inspection by such department, all under the direction and authority of the Secretary of War.'

"And the words:

"Provided, That not more than one million dollars of the sums appropriated by this Act shall be paid out for the services of civilian employees in the Quartermaster's Department, including those heretofore paid out of the funds appropriated for regular supplies, incidental expenses, barracks and quarters, army transportation, clothing, camp and garrison equipage; that no employee paid therefrom shall receive a salary more than one hundred and fifty dollars per month unless the same be specially fixed by law.'

—civilian employees;
limit.

"Third. So much of the Act approved March fifteenth, eighteen hundred and ninety-eight, entitled 'An Act making appropriations for the support of the Army for the fiscal year ending June thirtieth, eighteen hundred and ninety-nine,' under the heading 'Ordnance Department,' as provides that not more than sixty-five thousand dollars of the money appropriated for the Ordnance Department in all its branches shall be applied to the payment of civilian clerks in said department."

Ordnance Department.
Civilian clerks;
limit.

SEC. 2. That during the time the operation of the foregoing provisions of law shall remain so suspended pursuant to this Act, materials required by the War Department may, in the discretion of the Secretary of War, be purchased abroad and shall be admitted free of duty.

Admission free of duty of war materials.

SEC. 3. That during the same time the Bureau of Ordnance of the War Department is authorized to purchase, without advertisement, such ordnance and ordnance stores as are needed for immediate use; and when such ordnance and ordnance stores are to be manufactured, then to make contracts without advertisement for such stores, to be delivered as rapidly as manufactured.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That the council of the city of Drayton, county of Pembina, State of North Dakota, be, and are hereby, authorized to construct and maintain a pontoon bridge and approaches thereto across the Red River of the North, between the State of North Dakota and the State of Minnesota, extending from the foot of Almeron or Grant streets in said town of Drayton to a point opposite, in the State of Minnesota. Said bridge shall be constructed so as to provide for the passage of wagons and vehicles of all kinds, animals, and foot passengers, and for all road travel, for such reasonable rates of toll and under such rules and regulations as may be prescribed by said council and approved from time to time by the Secretary of War.

SEC. 2. That any bridge built under this Act and subject to its limitations shall be a lawful structure, and shall be recognized and known as a post route, upon which also no higher charge shall be made for the transmission over the same of the mails, the troops, and the munitions of war of the United States than is charged other parties for like privileges; and it shall enjoy the rights and privileges of other post roads in the United States, and the United States shall have the right of way across said bridge and its approaches for postal-telegraph purposes. And equal rights as to constructing and maintaining their lines over said bridge shall be granted to all telephone and telegraph companies desiring to use the same.

SEC. 3. That said bridge shall be constructed as a pontoon drawspan bridge, and shall contain a pontoon drawspan of such dimensions as the Secretary of War shall prescribe, which said drawspan shall be maintained on the main channel of the river at an accessible and navigable point; and the piers of said bridge shall be parallel with, and the bridge itself at right angles to, the current of the river: Provided, That said draw shall be opened promptly, upon reasonable signal, for the passage of boats and rafts; and said council of the city of Drayton shall maintain, at the expense of the said city, from sunset to sunrise, such lights or other signals on said bridge as the Light-House Board shall prescribe. No bridge shall be constructed or maintained under the authority of this Act which shall at any time substantially or materially obstruct the free navigation of said river; and if any bridge erected under said authority shall, in the opinion of the Secretary of War, obstruct such navigation, he is hereby authorized to cause such change or alteration of said bridge to be made as will effectually obviate such obstruction, and all such alterations shall be made and all such obstructions be removed at the expense of the said city of Drayton; and in case of any litigation arising from any obstruction or alleged obstruction to the free navigation of said river, caused or alleged to be caused by said bridge, suit may be brought in any circuit court of the United States for the circuit in which said bridge or any part thereof is located to remove or remedy the same: Provided further, That nothing in this Act shall be so construed as to repeal or modify any of the provisions of law now existing in reference to the protection of the navigation of rivers, or to exempt this bridge from the operations of the same.

SEC. 4. That any bridge authorized to be constructed under this Act shall be built and located under and subject to such regulations for the security of navigation of said river as the Secretary of War shall prescribe; and to secure that object the said city or council shall submit to the Secretary of War, for his examination and approval, a design and drawings of the said bridge, and a map of the location, giving, for the space of one-half mile above and one-half mile below the proposed location, the high and low water lines upon the banks of the river, the direction and strength of the currents at all stages, with the soundings accurately showing the bed of the stream, and the location of any other bridge or bridges, such map to be sufficiently in detail to enable the Secretary of War to judge of the proper location of said bridge, and shall furnish such other information as may be required for a full and satisfactory understanding of the subject; and until such plan and location of the bridge are approved by the Secretary of War the bridge shall not be built; and should any change be made in the plan of said bridge during the progress of construction or after completion, such change shall be subject to the approval of the Secretary of War.

Secretary of War to approve plans, changes, etc.

SEC. 5. That the right to alter, amend, or repeal this Act is hereby expressly reserved.

R. S., sec. 3694, p. 730.

Issue of bonds to be at par, etc.

And provided further, That the two per centum bonds to be issued under the provisions of this Act shall be issued at not less than par, and they shall be numbered consecutively in the order of their issue, and when payment is made the last numbers issued shall be first paid, and this order shall be followed until all the bonds are paid, and whenever any of the outstanding bonds are called for payment interest thereon shall cease three months after such call; and there is hereby appropriated out of any money in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated, to effect the exchanges of bonds provided for in this Act, a sum not exceeding one-fifteenth of one per centum of the face value of said bonds, to pay the expense of preparing and issuing the same and other expenses incident thereto.

SEC. 12. That upon the deposit with the Treasurer of the United States, by any national banking association, of any bonds of the United States in the manner provided by existing law, such association shall be entitled to receive from the Comptroller of the Currency circulating notes in blank, registered and countersigned as provided by law, equal in amount to the par value of the bonds so deposited; and any national banking association now having bonds on deposit for the security of circulating notes, and upon which an amount of circulating notes has been issued less than the par value of the bonds, shall be entitled, upon due application to the Comptroller of the Currency, to receive additional circulating notes in blank to an amount which will increase the circulating notes held by such association to the par value of the bonds deposited, such additional notes to be held and treated in the same way as circulating notes of national banking associations heretofore issued, and subject to all the provisions of law affecting such notes: Provided, That nothing herein contained shall be construed to modify or repeal the provisions of section fifty-one hundred and sixty-seven of the Revised Statutes of the United States, authorizing the Comptroller of the Currency to require additional deposits of bonds or of lawful money in case the market value of the bonds held to secure the circulating notes shall fall below the par value of the circulating notes outstanding for which such bonds may be deposited as security: And provided further, That the circulating notes furnished to national banking associations under the provisions of this Act shall be of the denominations prescribed by law, except that no national banking association shall, after the passage of this Act, be entitled to receive from the Comptroller of the Currency, or to issue or reissue or place in circulation, more than one-third in amount of its circulating notes of the denomination of five dollars: And provided further, That the total amount of such notes issued to any such association may equal at any time but shall not exceed the amount at such time of its capital stock actually paid in: And provided further, That under regulations to be prescribed by the Secretary of the Treasury any national banking association may substitute the two per centum bonds issued under the provisions of this Act for any of the bonds deposited with the Treasurer to secure circulation or to secure deposits of public money; and so much of an Act entitled "An Act to enable national banking associations to extend their corporate existence, and for other purposes," approved July twelfth, eighteen hundred and eighty-two, as prohibits any national bank which makes any deposit of lawful money in order to withdraw its circulating notes from receiving any increase of its circulation for the period of six months from the time it made such deposit of lawful money for the purpose aforesaid, is hereby repealed, and all other Acts or parts of Acts inconsistent with the provisions of this section are hereby repealed.

SEC. 13. That every national banking association having on deposit, as provided by law, bonds of the United States bearing interest at the rate of two per centum per annum, issued under the provisions of this Act, to secure its circulating notes, shall pay to the Treasurer of the United States, in the months of January and July, a tax of one-fourth of one per centum each half year upon the average amount of such of its notes in circulation as are based upon the deposit of said two per centum bonds; and such taxes shall be in lieu of existing taxes on its notes in circulation imposed by section fifty-two hundred and fourteen of the Revised Statutes.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That the Shreveport and Red River Valley Railway Company, a corporation duly incorporated and existing under and by virtue of the laws of the State of Louisiana, be, and is hereby, authorized to construct and maintain, by itself or through its assignees, a railway bridge across Red River at a point suitable to the interest of navigation, at or near the town of Alexandria, in the parish of Rapides, State of Louisiana. Said bridge shall be constructed to provide for passage of railway trains, and for transmission of the mails at such legal rates of toll as may be fixed by said railway company, or its transferees, and approved by the Secretary of War.

SEC. 2. That said bridge, built under this Act and subject to its limitations, shall be a lawful structure, and shall be recognized and known as a post route, upon which also no higher charge shall be made for the transmission over the same of the mails, the troops, and munitions of war of the United States than the rate per mile paid for the transportation over the railroad or public highways leading to the said bridge, and shall enjoy the rights and privileges of other post-roads in the United States; and equal privileges in the use of said bridge shall be granted to all telegraph and telephone companies; and the United States shall have the right of way across said bridge and its approaches for postal telegraph purposes: Provided, That the bridge herein authorized to be constructed shall be so kept and managed by the company owning or operating it as to afford proper ways and means for the passage through or under it of vessels, barges, or rafts at all times, both by day and by night; and if said bridge be constructed as a drawbridge, the draw shall be opened promptly upon reasonable signal for the passage of boats; and upon whatever kind of bridge is built there shall be displayed on said bridge from sunset to sunrise, at the expense of said company, such lights and signals as the Light-House Board shall prescribe.

SEC. 3. That if said bridge, erected and maintained under the authority of this Act, shall at any time substantially or materially obstruct the free navigation of said river, or shall, in the opinion of the Secretary of War, obstruct such navigation, he is hereby authorized to cause such change or alteration of said bridge to be made as will effectually obviate such obstruction; and such alteration shall be made and all such obstructions be removed at the expense of the owners or operators of said bridge; and in case of any litigation arising from the obstruction or alleged obstruction to the free navigation of said river, the case may be brought in the district court of the United States for the western district of Louisiana: Provided, That nothing in this Act shall be so construed as to repeal or modify any of the provisions of law now existing in reference to the protection of the navigation of rivers, or to exempt said bridge from the operation of same.

SEC. 4. That all railroad companies desiring to use the said bridge shall have and be entitled to equal rights and privileges relative to the passage of railway trains over the same and the approaches thereto upon the payment of a reasonable compensation for such use, which compensation may be different in case of different railways. In case of disagreement as to compensation for the use of said bridge, the difference shall be determined by the Secretary of War upon hearing the allegations and proof of the parties in interest.

SEC. 5. That the bridge authorized to be constructed under this Act shall be built and located under and subject to such regulations for the security of navigation of said river as the Secretary of War shall prescribe; and to secure that object the said company or corporation shall submit to the Secretary of War, for his examination and approval, a design and drawing of said bridge, and a map of the location, prepared with reference to known datum plane upon prescribed scales furnished by the engineer officer having supervision of said river, and giving, for the space of two miles above and two miles below the proposed location of the bridge, the topography of the banks of the river, with shore lines at high and low water, the direction and strength of the currents at all stages, and the soundings accurately showing the bed of the stream, the location of any other bridge or bridges, and shall furnish such other information as may be required for a full and satisfactory understanding of the subject. And until said plans and location of the bridge are approved by the Secretary of War the bridge shall not be built; and should any change be made in the plan of the said bridge during the process of construction, such change shall be subject to the approval of the Secretary of War, and said structure shall be changed at the cost and expense of the owners thereof, from time to time, as the Secretary of War may direct, so as to preserve the free and convenient navigation of said river.

SEC. 6. That this Act shall be null and void if actual construction of the bridge herein authorized be not commenced within one year and completed within three years from the date hereof.

SEC. 7. That the right to alter, amend, or repeal this Act is hereby expressly reserved.

Approved, April 12, 1900.

secretary shall exercise all the powers and perform all the duties of the governor during such vacancy, disability, or absence.

Attorney-general.

SEC. 21. That the attorney-general shall have all the powers and discharge all the duties provided by law for an attorney of a Territory of the United States in so far as the same are not locally inapplicable, and he shall perform such other duties as may be prescribed by law, and make such reports, through the governor, to the Attorney-General of the United States as he may require, which shall annually be transmitted to Congress.

Treasurer

SEC. 22. That the treasurer shall give bond, approved as to form by the attorney-general of Porto Rico, in such sum as the executive council may require, not less, however, than the sum of one hundred thousand dollars, with surety approved by the governor, and he shall collect and be the custodian of the public funds, and shall disburse the same when appropriated by law, on warrants signed by the auditor and countersigned by the governor, and shall perform such other duties as may be prescribed by law, and make, through the governor, such reports to the Secretary of the Treasury of the United States as he may require, which shall annually be transmitted to Congress.

Auditor.

SEC. 23. That the auditor shall keep full and accurate accounts, showing all receipts and disbursements, and perform such other duties as may be prescribed by law, and make, through the governor, such reports to the Secretary of the Treasury of the United States as he may require, which shall annually be transmitted to Congress.

Commissioner of the interior.

SEC. 24. That the commissioner of the interior shall superintend all works of a public nature, and shall have charge of all public buildings, grounds, and lands, except those belonging to the United States, and shall execute such requirements as may be imposed by law with respect thereto, and shall perform such other duties as may be prescribed by law, and make such reports through the governor to the Secretary of the Interior of the United States as he may require, which shall annually be transmitted to Congress.

Commissioner of education.

SEC. 25. That the commissioner of education shall superintend public instruction throughout Porto Rico, and all disbursements on account thereof must be approved by him; and he shall perform such other duties as may be prescribed by law, and make such reports through the governor as may be required by the Commissioner of Education of the United States, which shall annually be transmitted to Congress.

Other members of executive council; duties, etc.

SEC. 26. That the other five members of the executive council, to be appointed as hereinbefore provided, shall attend all meetings of the executive council and participate in all business of every character that may be transacted by it; and they shall receive as compensation for their services such annual salaries as may be provided by the legislative assembly.

HOUSE OF DELEGATES.

Legislative assembly of Porto Rico to consist of executive council and house of delegates.

SEC. 27. That all local legislative powers hereby granted shall be vested in a legislative assembly which shall consist of two houses; one the executive council, as hereinbefore constituted, and the other a house of delegates, to consist of thirty-five members elected biennially by the qualified voters as hereinafter provided; and the two houses thus constituted shall be designated "The legislative assembly of Porto Rico."

Election districts.

SEC. 28. That for the purposes of such elections Porto Rico shall be divided by the executive council into seven districts, composed of contiguous territory and as nearly equal as may be in population, and each district shall be entitled to five members of the house of delegates.

ELECTION OF DELEGATES.

Election of delegates.

SEC. 29. That the first election for delegates shall be held on such date and under such regulations as to ballots and voting as the executive council may prescribe; and at such elections the voters of each legislative district shall choose five delegates to represent them in the house of delegates from the date of their election and qualification until two years from and after the first day of January next ensuing; of all which thirty days' notice shall be given by publication in the Official Gazette, or by printed notices distributed and posted throughout the district, or by both, as the executive council may prescribe. At such elections all citizens of Porto Rico shall be allowed to vote who have been bona fide residents for one year and who possess the other qualifications of voters under the laws and military orders in force on the first day of March, nineteen hundred, subject to such modifications and additional qualifications and such regulations and restrictions as to registration as may be prescribed by the executive council. The house of delegates so chosen shall convene at the capital and organize by the election of a speaker, a clerk, a sergeant-at-arms, and such other officers and assistants as it may require; at such time as may be designated by the executive council; but it shall not continue in session longer than sixty days in any one year, unless called by the governor to meet in extraordinary session. The enacting clause of the laws shall be, "Be it enacted by the legislative assembly of Porto Rico;" and each member of the house of delegates shall be paid for his services at the rate of five dollars per day for each day's attendance while the house is in session, and mileage at the rate of ten cents per mile for each mile necessarily traveled each way to and from each session of the legislative assembly.

All future elections of delegates shall be governed by the provisions hereof, so far as they are applicable, until the legislative assembly shall otherwise provide.

SEC. 30. That the house of delegates shall be the sole judge of the elections, returns, and qualifications of its members, and shall have and exercise all the powers with respect to the conduct of its proceedings that usually appertain to parliamentary legislative bodies. No person shall be eligible to membership in the house of delegates who is not twenty-five years of age and able to read and write either the Spanish or the English language, or who is not possessed in his own right of taxable property, real or personal, situated in Porto Rico.

SEC. 31. That all bills may originate in either house, but no bill shall become a law unless it be passed in each house by a majority vote of all the members belonging to such house and be approved by the governor within ten days thereafter. If, when a bill that has been passed is presented to the governor for signature, he approves the same, he shall sign it, or if not he shall return it, with his objections, to that house in which it originated, which house shall enter his objections at large on its journal, and proceed to reconsider the bill. If, after such reconsideration, two-thirds of that house shall agree to pass the bill, it shall be sent, together with the objections, to the other house, by which it shall likewise be considered, and if approved by two-thirds of that house it shall become a law. But in all such cases the votes of both houses shall be determined by yeas and nays, and the names of the persons voting for and against the bill shall be entered upon the journal of each house, respectively. If any bill shall not be returned by the governor within ten days (Sundays excepted) after it shall have been presented to him, the same shall be a law in like manner as if he had signed it, unless the legislative assembly by adjournment prevent its return, in which case it shall not be a law: Provided, however, That all laws enacted by the legislative assembly shall be reported to the Congress of the United States, which hereby reserves the power and authority, if deemed advisable, to annul the same.

The President, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, shall appoint a district judge, a district attorney, and a marshal for said district, each for a term of four years, unless sooner removed by the President. The district court for said district shall be called the district court of the United States for Porto Rico and shall have power to appoint all necessary officials and assistants, including a clerk, an interpreter, and such commissioners as may be necessary, who shall have like power and duties as are exercised and performed by commissioners of the circuit courts of the United States, and shall have, in addition to the ordinary jurisdiction of district courts of the United States, jurisdiction of all cases cognizant in the circuit courts of the United States, and shall proceed therein in the same manner as a circuit court. The laws of the United States relating to appeals, writs of error and certiorari, removal of causes, and other matters and proceedings as between the courts of the United States and the courts of the several States shall govern in such matters and proceedings as between the district court of the United States and the courts of Porto Rico. Regular terms of said court shall be held at San Juan, commencing on the second Monday in April and October of each year, and also at Ponce on the second Monday in January of each year, and special terms may be held at Mayaguez at such other stated times as said judge may deem expedient. All pleadings and proceedings in said court shall be conducted in the English language.

Proceedings to be in English.

The United States district court hereby established shall be the successor to the United States provisional court established by General Orders, Numbered Eighty-eight, promulgated by Brigadier-General Davis, United States Volunteers, and shall take possession of all records of that court, and take jurisdiction of all cases and proceedings pending therein, and said United States provisional court is hereby discontinued.

District court to succeed provisional court, etc.

SEC. 35. That writs of error and appeals from the final decisions of the supreme court of Porto Rico and the district court of the United States shall be allowed and may be taken to the Supreme Court of the United States in the same manner and under the same regulations and in the same cases as from the supreme courts of the Territories of the United States; and such writs of error and appeal shall be allowed in all cases where the Constitution of the United States, or a treaty thereof, or an Act of Congress is brought in question and the right claimed thereunder is denied; and the supreme and district courts of Porto Rico and the respective judges thereof may grant writs of habeas corpus in all cases in which the same are grantable by the judges of the district and circuit courts of the United States. PROCEDURE UPON RECEIPT OF VETO.

SEC. 50. That upon the receipt of a veto message from the governor each house of the legislature shall enter the same at large upon its journal and proceed to reconsider such bill, or part of a bill, and again vote upon it by ayes and noes, which shall be entered upon its journal.

Procedure upon receipt of veto.

If after such reconsideration such bill, or part of a bill, shall be approved by a two-thirds vote of all the members to which each house is entitled, it shall thereby become law.

FAILURE TO SIGN OR VETO.

SEC. 51. That if the governor neither signs nor vetoes a bill within ten days after it is delivered to him it shall become a law without his signature, unless the legislature adjourns sine die prior to the expiration of such ten days.

Failure to sign or veto.

If any bill shall not be returned by the governor within ten days (Sundays excepted) after it shall have been presented to him, the same shall be a law in like manner as if he had signed it, unless the legislature by their adjournment prevents its return, in which case it shall not be a law.

APPROPRIATIONS.

SEC. 52. That appropriations, except as otherwise herein provided, shall be made biennially by the legislature: Provided, however, That pending the time when this Act shall take effect and until a session of the legislature of the Territory of Hawaii shall be held, the President may, in his discretion, authorize and direct the use of such money in the treasury of the Republic of Hawaii as well as of the Territory of Hawaii, as he shall think requisite and proper for carrying on the government of the Territory of Hawaii, the preservation of the public health, the completion of the sewerage system of the city of Honolulu, and such other expenditures as in the President's judgment shall seem to be appropriate.

CHAPTER 3.—THE EXECUTIVE.

The Executive.

THE EXECUTIVE POWER.

SEC. 66. That the executive power of the government of the Territory of Hawaii shall be vested in a governor, who shall be appointed by the President, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate of the United States, and shall hold office for four years and until his successor shall be appointed and qualified, unless sooner removed by the President. He shall be not less than thirty-five years of age; shall be a citizen of the Territory of Hawaii; shall be commander in chief of the militia thereof; may grant pardons or reprieves for offenses against the laws of the said Territory and reprieves for offenses against the laws of the United States until the decision of the President is made known thereon.

Governor.

ENFORCEMENT OF LAW.

SEC. 67. That the governor shall be responsible for the faithful execution of the laws of the United States and of the Territory of Hawaii within the said Territory, and whenever it becomes necessary he may call upon the commanders of the military and naval forces of the United States in the Territory of Hawaii, or summon the posse comitatus, or call out the militia of the Territory to prevent or suppress lawless violence, invasion, insurrection, or rebellion in said Territory, and he may, in case of rebellion or invasion, or imminent danger thereof, when the public safety requires it, suspend the privilege of the writ of habeas corpus, or place the Territory, or any part thereof, under martial law until communication can be had with the President and his decision thereon made known.

Powers of governor.

GENERAL POWERS OF THE GOVERNOR.

SEC. 68. That all the powers and duties which, by the laws of Hawaii, are conferred upon or required of the President or any minister of the Republic of Hawaii (acting alone or in connection with any other officer or person or body) or the cabinet or executive council, and not inconsistent with the Constitution or laws of the United States, ficers.

SEC. 80. That the President shall nominate and, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, appoint the chief justice and justices of the supreme court, the judges of the circuit courts, who shall hold their respective offices for the term of four years, unless sooner removed by the President; and the governor shall nominate and, by and with the advice and consent of the senate of the Territory of Hawaii, appoint the attorney-general, treasurer, commissioner of public lands, commissioner of agriculture and forestry, superintendent of public works, superintendent of public instruction, auditor, deputy auditor, surveyor, high sheriff, members of the board of health, commissioners of public instruction, board of prison inspectors, board of registration and inspectors of election, and any other boards of a public character that may be created by law; and he may make such appointments when the senate is not in session by granting commissions, which shall, unless such appointments are confirmed, expire at the end of the next session of the senate. He may, by and with the advice and consent of the senate of the Territory of Hawaii, remove from office any of such officers. All such officers shall hold office for four years and until their successors are appointed and qualified, unless sooner removed, except the commissioners of public instruction and the members of said boards, whose terms of office shall be as provided by the laws of the Territory of Hawaii.

Term of office.

Appointment, etc,
of unspecified officers.

The manner of appointment and removal and the tenure of all other officers shall be as provided by law; and the governor may appoint or remove any officer whose appointment or removal is not otherwise provided for.

Salaries.

The salaries of all officers other than those appointed by the President shall be as provided by the legislature, but those of the chief justice and the justices of the supreme court and judges of the circuit courts shall not be diminished during their term of office.

All officers appointed under the provisions of this section shall be citizens of the Territory of Hawaii.

Officers to be citizens.

All persons holding office in the Hawaiian Islands at the time this Act takes effect shall continue to hold their respective offices until their successors are appointed and qualified, but not beyond the end of the first session of the senate of the Territory of Hawaii unless reappointed as herein provided.

Present incumbents to hold until successor appointed.

CHAPTER IV.

THE JUDICIARY.

SEC. 81. That the judicial power of the Territory shall be vested in one supreme court, circuit courts, and in such inferior courts as the legislature may from time to time establish. And until the legislature shall otherwise provide, the laws of Hawaii heretofore in force concerning the several courts and their jurisdiction and procedure shall continue in force except as herein otherwise provided.

LAWS CONTINUED IN FORCE.

SEC. 83. That the laws of Hawaii relative to the judicial department, including civil and criminal procedure, except as amended by this Act, are continued in force, subject to modification by Congress, or the legislature. The provisions of said laws or any laws of the Republic of Hawaii which require juries to be composed of aliens or foreigners only, or to be constituted by impaneling natives of Hawaii only, in civil and criminal cases specified in said laws, are repealed, and all juries shall hereafter be constituted without reference to the race or place of nativity of the jurors; but no person who is not a male citizen of the United States and twenty-one years of age and who can not understandingly speak, read, and write the English language shall be a qualified juror or grand juror in the Territory of Hawaii. No person shall be convicted in any criminal case except by unanimous verdict of the jury. No plaintiff or defendant in any suit or proceeding in a court of the Territory of Hawaii shall be entitled to a trial by a jury impaneled exclusively from persons of any race. Until otherwise provided by the legislature of the Territory, grand juries may be drawn in the manner provided by the Hawaiian statutes for drawing petty juries, and shall sit at such times as the circuit judges of the respective circuits shall direct; the number of grand jurors in each circuit shall be not less than thirteen, and the method of the presentation of cases to said grand jurors shall be prescribed by the supreme court of the Territory of Hawaii. The several circuit courts may subpoena witnesses to appear before the grand jury in like manner as they subpoena witnesses to appear before their respective courts.

CHAPTER 6.—MISCELLANEOUS.

REVENUES FROM WHARVES.

SEC. 89. That until further provision is made by Congress the wharves and landings constructed or controlled by the Republic of Hawaii on any seacoast, bay, roadstead, or harbor shall remain under the control of the government of the Territory of Hawaii, which shall receive and enjoy all revenues derived therefrom, on condition that said property shall be kept in good condition for the use and convenience of commerce, but no tolls or charges shall be made by the government of the Territory of Hawaii for the use of any such property by the United States, or by any vessel of war, tug, revenue cutter, or other boat or transport in the service of the United States.

Revenues from wharves.

SEC. 90. That Hawaiian postage stamps, postal cards, and stamped envelopes at the post-offices of the Hawaiian Islands when this Act takes effect shall not be sold, but, together with those that shall thereafter be received at such offices as herein provided, shall be canceled under the direction of the Postmaster-General of the United States; those previously sold and uncanceled shall, if presented at such offices within six months after this Act takes effect, be received at their face value in exchange for postage stamps, postal cards, and stamped envelopes of the United States of the same aggregate face value and, so far as may be, of such denominations as desired.

Disposition of Hawaiian postage stamps.

SEC. 91. That the public property ceded and transferred to the United States by the Republic of Hawaii under the joint resolution of annexation, approved July seventh, eighteen hundred and ninety-eight, shall be and remain in the possession, use, and control of the government of the Territory of Hawaii, and shall be maintained, managed, and cared for by it, at its own expense, until otherwise provided for by Congress, or taken for the uses and purposes of the United States by direction of the President or of the governor of Hawaii. And all moneys in the Hawaiian treasury, and all the revenues and other property acquired by the Republic of Hawaii since said cession shall be and remain the property of the Territory of Hawaii.

Disposition of public property ceded to the United States.
Vol. 30, p. 750.

SEC. 92. That the following officers shall receive the following annual salaries, to be paid by the United States: The governor, five thousand dollars; the secretary of the Territory, three thousand dollars; the chief justice of the supreme court of the Territory, five thousand five hundred dollars, and the associate justices of the supreme court, five thousand dollars each, and the judges of the circuit courts, three thousand dollars each. CHAP. 340.—An Act To authorize the construction of a bridge across Tallahatchie River, in Tallahatchie County, Mississippi.

Tallahatchie county, Miss., may bridge Tallahatchie River, etc.

Transit, toll, etc.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That the board of supervisors of Tallahatchie County, in the State of Mississippi, be, and is hereby, authorized to construct and maintain a bridge and approaches thereto across the Tallahatchie River at or within one mile above or below Swan Lake, in the State of Mississippi. Said bridge shall be constructed to provide for the passage of wagons and vehicles of all kinds, animals, foot passengers, and for all road travel, for such reasonable rates of toll and under such reasonable rules and regulations as may be prescribed by said board of supervisors and approved by the Secretary of War.

To be lawful structure and post route.

Telegraph, etc., companies.

SEC. 2. That any bridge built under this Act and subject to its limitations shall be a lawful structure, and shall be recognized and known as a post route, upon which no charge shall be made for the transmission over the same of the mails, the troops, and munitions of war of the United States; and equal privileges in the use of said bridge shall be granted to all telegraph and telephone companies; and the United States shall have the right of way across said bridge and its approaches for postal-telegraph purposes.

Draw, etc.

SEC. 3. That the said bridge shall be constructed as a wagon bridge, and shall contain a drawspan giving a clear opening of a width to be determined by the Secretary of War, which drawspan shall be maintained over the main channel of the river at an accessible and navigable point; and said bridge other than the drawspan shall be at right angles to the current of the river at high water: Provided, That the said draw shall be opened promptly, upon reasonable signal, for the passage of boats and rafts; and said board of supervisors shall maintain, at its own expense, from sunset to sunrise, such lights or other signals on said bridge as the Light-House Board shall prescribe. No bridge shall be erected or maintained under the authority of this Act which shall at any time unreasonably obstruct the free navigation of said river; and if any bridge erected under such authority shall, in the opinion of the Secretary of War, unreasonably obstruct navigation, he is hereby authorized to cause the entire removal thereof or such changes or alterations of said bridge to be made as will obviate such obstruction; and all such alterations shall be made and all such obstructions shall be removed at the expense of the owner or owners of said bridge; and in case of any litigation arising from any obstruction or alleged obstruction to the free navigation of said river, caused or alleged to be caused by said bridge, the case may be brought in the district court of the United States of the State of Mississippi, in whose Existing law protecting navigation of rivers unchanged.

SEC. 4. That any bridge authorized to be constructed under this Act shall be built and located under and subject to such regulations for the security of navigation of the said river as the Secretary of War shall prescribe; and to secure that object the said board of supervisors shall submit to the Secretary of War, for his examination and approval, a design and drawing of the bridge, and a map of the location, giving, for the space of one-half mile above and one-half mile below the proposed location, the high and low water lines upon the banks of the river, the direction and strength of the currents at low and at high water, with the soundings accurately showing the bed of the stream, and the location of any other bridge or bridges, such maps to be sufficiently in detail to enable the Secretary of War to judge of the proper location of said bridge, and shall furnish such other information as shall be required for a full and satisfactory understanding of the subject; and until the said plan and location of the bridge are approved by the Secretary of War the bridge shall not be commenced or built; and should any change be made in the plans of said bridge during the progress of its construction, or after completion, such changes shall be subject to the approval of the Secretary of War.

Secretary of War to approve plans, etc.

SEC. 5. That this Act shall be null and void if actual construction of the bridge herein authorized be not commenced within one year and completed within three years from the date thereof: Provided, That Congress reserves the right to alter, amend, or repeal this Act whenever the public interests so require.

CHAP. 341.—An Act To authorize the Ohio Valley Electric Railway Company to construct a bridge over the Big Sandy River from Kenova, West Virginia, to Catlettsburg, Kentucky.

April 30, 1900.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That it shall be lawful for the Ohio Valley Electric Railway Company, a corporation organized under the laws of the State of West Virginia, to construct and maintain a bridge, and approaches thereto, over the Big Sandy River from a point in the town of Kenova, West Virginia, to a point in the town of Catlettsburg, Kentucky.

Ohio Valley Electric Railway may bridge Big Sandy River.

SEC. 2. That said bridge may be constructed to provide for the passage of railroad cars, wagons, and vehicles of all kinds, for the transit of animals, foot passengers, and all kinds of commerce, travel, or communication; and said corporation may charge and receive reasonable tolls therefor, subject to the approval of the Secretary of War, and to such changes as he may think proper from time to time.

Transit, toll, etc.

SEC. 3. That said bridge shall have its piers parallel to the current at high water due to a rise in the Big Sandy River; that all of its spans shall be through spans; that it shall have a clear channel way of at least one hundred and eighty-three feet, measured at the low-water level and perpendicular to the current at that stage; that said clear channel way shall be located over the main channel of the river; that none of the spans lying between the shore lines of the river at a bank-full stage shall have less than one hundred and eighty-three feet clear opening between piers; and that all such spans shall give a clear headroom of not less than sixty-nine and five-tenths feet, measured from low water to the lowest point of the superstructure, or of anything thereto attached.

Piers, spans, etc.

Secretary of War to approve plans, etc.

SEC. 4. That said Ohio Valley Electric Railway Company shall submit in triplicate to the Secretary of War, for his examination and approval, a design and drawings of the bridge, piers, approaches, and accessory works, and a map of the location, giving, for the space of at least one mile above and one mile below the proposed site, the topography of the banks of the river and the shore lines at high and low water, the direction and strength of the currents at low water and at high water, the location of all bridges, locks and dams, coal tipples, cribs, and all other structures projecting into the river at bank-full stage, in the vicinity, and such other information as the Secretary of War may require for a full and satisfactory understanding of the subject; and until such plan and location of the bridge and accessory works are approved by the Secretary of War the bridge shall not be commenced or built; and should any change be made in the plan of said bridge during the progress of construction, or after completion, such change shall be subject to the approval of the Secretary of War.

SEC. 5. That said bridge herein authorized to be constructed shall be so kept and managed at all times as to afford proper means and ways for the passage of vessels, barges, or rafts, both by day and by night; and there shall be displayed on said bridge by the owners thereof, from sunset to sunrise, such lights or other signals as the Light-House Board may prescribe; and such indications of the stage of water and the headroom under the bridge as the Secretary of War may direct shall be displayed by the owners thereof; and such changes shall be made from time to time in the structure of said bridge as the Secretary of War may direct, at the expense of the said company, in order the more effectually to preserve the free navigation of said river.

SEC. 6. That said bridge shall be a lawful structure and shall be recognized and known as a post route, upon which also no higher charge shall be made for the transportation over the same of the mails, the troops, and the munitions of war of the United States than the rate per mile paid for the transportation of said mails, troops, and munitions over the railroads and public highways leading to said bridge; and the United States shall have the right of way for postal-telegraph and telephone purposes over said bridge.

to use.

SEC. 7. That all railway companies desiring the use of said bridge shall have and be entitled to equal rights and privileges relative to the passage of railway trains or cars over the same and over the approaches thereto, upon payment of a reasonable compensation for such use; and in case the parties interested shall fail to agree upon the sum or sums to be paid, and upon the rules and conditions to which each shall conform in using said bridge, all matters at issue between them shall, upon the application of either party, be determined by the Secretary of War upon a hearing of the allegations and proofs of the parties.

Navigable channel
during construction,
etc.

SEC. 8. That during the original construction of said bridge, or in carrying out any authorized changes or repairs of said bridge, a navigable channel sufficient to accommodate the commerce of the river shall be preserved at all times at the site of said bridge, and the waterway of the river shall not be obstructed to a greater extent than is absolutely necessary, and such lights and buoys shall be kept on all cofferdams, piles, and other structures as may be necessary for the security of navigation; and that any temporary obstruction or closing of any channel in customary use shall not be commenced until after due notice to navigation; and all cofferdams, piles, and other structures used in the construction or repair of said bridge shall be removed within a reasonable time after the completion or repair of said bridge.

Commencement and completion.

SEC. 9. That this Act shall be null and void if actual construction of the bridge herein authorized be not commenced within one year and completed within three years from the date hereof.

SEC. 10. That the right to alter, amend, or repeal this Act is hereby expressly reserved. Amendment.

in streams navigated by steamboats.
Vol. 30, p. 1152.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That the prohibition contained in section fifteen of the river and harbor Act, approved March third, eighteen hundred and ninety-nine, against floating loose timber and logs, or sack rafts, so called, of timber and logs in streams or channels actually navigated by steamboats, shall not apply to any navigable river or waterway of the United States or any part thereof whereon the floating of loose timber and logs and sack rafts of timber and logs is the principal method of navigation. But such method of navigation on such river or waterway or part thereof shall be subject to the rules and regulations prescribed by the Secretary of War as hereinafter provided.

Secretary of War to make regulations for floating logs, rafts, etc.

SEC. 2. That the Secretary of War shall have power, and he is hereby authorized and directed, within the shortest practicable time after the passage hereof, to prescribe rules and regulations, which he may at any time modify, to govern and regulate the floating of loose timber and logs, and sack rafts, (so called) of timber and logs and other methods of navigation on the streams and waterways, or any thereof, of the character, as to navigation, in section one hereof described. The said rules and regulations shall be so framed as to equitably adjust conflicting interests between the different methods or forms of navigation; and the said rules and regulations shall be published at least once in such newspaper or newspapers of general circulation as in the opinion of the Secretary of War shall be best adapted to give notice of said rules and regulations to persons affected thereby and locally interested therein. And all modifications of said rules and regulations shall be similarly published. And such rules and regulations when so prescribed and published as to any such stream or waterway shall have the force of law, and any violation thereof shall be a misdemeanor, and every person convicted of such violation shall be punished by a fine of not exceeding two thousand five hundred dollars nor less than five hundred dollars, or by imprisonment (in case of a natural person) for not less than thirty days nor more than one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment, in the discretion of the court: Provided, That the proper action to enforce the provisions of this section may be commenced before any commissioner, judge, or court of the United States, and such commissioner, judge or court shall proceed in respect thereto as authorized by law in the case of crimes or misdemeanors committed against the United States.

CHAP. 388.—An Act To authorize the construction of a bridge across the Back Bay, at Biloxi, Mississippi.

Biloxi, Miss., may bridge Back Bay, etc.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That the mayor and board of aldermen of the town of Biloxi, in the State of Mississippi, be, and hereby are, authorized to construct and maintain a bridge and approaches thereto across the bay, commonly known as the Back Bay, at or near the town of Biloxi, Mississippi, between the said town of Biloxi, situated on the south side of said bay, to a point on the north side of said bay, said bridge to start at or near what is known as the old ferry point, on the south shore of said bay, running thence north twenty-two degrees east to the south side of the channel or to the marsh; thence north nineteen degrees east to mainland, or said location to be selected consistent with the interests of navigation. Said bridge shall be built to provide for the passage of wagons and vehicles of all kinds, and animals, and for all road travel, for such reasonable rates of toll and under such reasonable rules and regulations as may be prescribed by the said parties, or their successors and assigns, and to be approved from time to time by the Secretary of War:

Transit; toll.

SEC. 2. That said bridge shall not be commenced or built until the plans and specifications for its construction have been submitted to the Secretary of War for his approval, nor until he shall approve the plan and location of said bridge; and if any change be made in the plan or construction of said bridge at any time, such change shall be subject to the approval of the Secretary of War; and any change in the construction or any alteration of said bridge that may be directed at any time by Congress or the Secretary of War shall be made at the cost and expense of the owners thereof; that said bridge shall be constructed without interference with the security and convenience of navigation of said bay beyond what is necessary to carry out effectually the rights and privileges hereby granted, and in order to secure that object the said parties shall submit to the Secretary of War, for his examination and approval, a design of and drawings of said bridge and accessory works and a map of the proposed location, giving, for the space of three hundred yards above and below such proposed location, the topography of the banks of the bay, with shore lines and soundings and directions of currents at medium high-tide water, and such other information as may be required for a full understanding of the subject.

Secretary of War to approve plans, etc.

Changes.

No obstruction to navigation.

SEC. 3. That said bridge shall be built as a low bridge, and shall have one drawspan of such width of openings as may be prescribed by the Secretary of War, which drawspan shall be maintained over the main channel of said bay at an accessible and navigable point, and the piers of said bridge at said channel shall be parallel with, and the bridge itself at right angles to, the current of said channel. Said drawspan shall be opened promptly by said parties or their successors and assigns, upon reasonable signal, for the passage of boats and rafts: Provided, That the said parties, or their successors and assigns, shall, at their own expense, under the direction and supervision of the Secretary of War, when so required, do and perform such necessary work to maintain the channel within the drawspan of said bridge, and shall, at their own expense, maintain a depth of water through said span not less than now existing, as shown by the records of the War Department: And provided further, That said parties, or their successors and assigns, shall maintain, at their own expense, from sunset to sunrise, such lights or other signals on said bridge as the Light-House Board shall prescribe.

CHAP. 553.—An Act To enlarge the powers of the Department of Agriculture, prohibit the transportation by interstate commerce of game killed in violation of local laws, and for other purposes.

May 25, 1900.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That the duties and powers of the Department of Agriculture are hereby enlarged so as to include the preservation, distribution, introduction, and restoration of game birds and other wild birds. The Secretary of Agriculture is hereby Department of Agriculture.

Powers enlarged to include preservation, etc., of game birds, etc.

Purpose of act.	authorized to adopt such measures as may be necessary to carry out the purposes of this Act and to purchase such game birds and other wild birds as may be required therefor, subject, however, to the laws of the various States and Territories. The object and purpose of this Act is to aid in the restoration of such birds in those parts of the United States adapted thereto where the same have become scarce or extinct, and also to regulate the introduction of American or foreign birds or animals in localities where they have not heretofore existed.
Publication of information.	The Secretary of Agriculture shall from time to time collect and publish useful information as to the propagation, uses, and preservation of such birds.
Regulations.	And the Secretary of Agriculture shall make and publish all needful rules and regulations for carrying out the purposes of this Act, and shall expend for said purposes such sums as Congress may appropriate therefor.
Permits required to import wild animals and birds.	SEC. 2. That it shall be unlawful for any person or persons to import into the United States any foreign wild animal or bird except under special permit from the United States Department of Agriculture: Provided , That nothing in this section shall restrict the importation of natural history specimens for museums or scientific collections, or the importation of certain cage birds, such as domesticated canaries, parrots, or such other species as the Secretary of Agriculture may designate.
Proviso. —exceptions.	The importation of the mongoose, the so-called “flying foxes” or fruit bats, the English sparrow, the starling, or such other birds or animals as the Secretary of Agriculture may from time to time declare injurious to the interest of agriculture or horticulture is hereby prohibited, and such species upon arrival at any of the ports of the United States shall be destroyed or returned at the expense of the owner. The Secretary of the Treasury is hereby authorized to make regulations for carrying into effect the provisions of this section.
Importation of mongoose, English sparrow, etc., prohibited.
Transportation of prohibited animals forbidden.	SEC. 3. That it shall be unlawful for any person or persons to deliver to any common carrier, or for any common carrier to transport from one State or Territory to another State or Territory, or from the District of Columbia or Alaska to any State or Territory, or from any State or Territory to the District of Columbia or Alaska, any foreign animals or birds the importation of which is prohibited, or the dead bodies or parts thereof of any wild animals or birds, where such animals or birds have been killed in violation of the laws of the State, Territory, or District in which the same were killed: Provided , That nothing herein shall prevent the transportation of any dead birds or animals killed during the season when the same may be lawfully captured, and the export of which is not prohibited by law in the State, Territory, or District in which the same are killed.
Proviso. —when lawfully killed during season, etc.
Marking of packages.	SEC. 4. That all packages containing such dead animals, birds, or parts thereof, when shipped by interstate commerce, as provided in section one of this Act, shall be plainly and clearly marked, so that the name and address of the shipper and the nature of the contents may be readily ascertained on inspection of the outside of such packages. For each evasion or violation of this Act the shipper shall, upon conviction, pay a fine of not exceeding two hundred dollars; and the consignee knowingly receiving such articles so shipped and transported in violation of this Act shall, upon conviction, pay a fine of not exceeding two hundred dollars; and the carrier knowingly carrying or transporting the same shall, upon conviction, pay a fine of not exceeding two hundred dollars.
Penalty.
Bodies of animals subject to laws of State into which transported.	SEC. 5. That all dead bodies, or parts thereof, of any foreign game animals, or game or song birds, the importation of which is prohibited, or the dead bodies, or parts thereof, of any wild game animals, or game or song birds transported into any State or Territory, or remaining therein for use, consumption, sale, or storage therein, shall upon arrival in such State or Territory be subject to the operation and effect of the laws of such State or Territory enacted in the exercise of its police powers, to the same extent and in the same manner as though such animals or birds had been produced in such State or Territory, and shall not be exempt therefrom by reason of being introduced therein in original packages or otherwise. This Act shall not prevent the importation, transportation, or sale of birds or bird plumage manufactured from the feathers of barnyard fowl.

Bird plumage manufactured from feathers of barnyard fowl.

Purchase, distribution, etc.

PURCHASE AND DISTRIBUTION OF VALUABLE SEEDS: For the purchase, propagation, and distribution of valuable seeds, bulbs, trees, shrubs, vines, cuttings, and plants; the employment of local and special agents, clerks, assistants, and other labor required, in the city of Washington and elsewhere; transportation, paper, twine, gum, printing, postal cards, and all necessary material and repairs for putting up and distributing the same, and to be distributed in localities adapted to their culture, one hundred and seventy thousand dollars, of which amount not more than twenty-eight thousand dollars shall be expended for labor in the city of Washington, District of Columbia, and not less than ninety thousand dollars shall be allotted for Congressional distribution.

And the Secretary of Agriculture is hereby directed to expend the said sum, as nearly as practicable, in the purchase and distribution of such valuable seeds, bulbs, trees, shrubs, vines, cuttings, and plants, the best he can obtain at public or private sale, and such as shall be suitable for the respective localities to which the same are to be apportioned, and in which same are to be distributed as hereinafter stated, and such seed so purchased shall include a variety of vegetable and flower seeds, suitable for planting and culture in the various sections of the United States. An equal proportion of two-thirds of all seeds, bulbs, trees, shrubs, vines, cuttings, and plants shall, upon their request, after due notification by the Secretary of Agriculture that the allotment to their respective districts is ready for distribution, be supplied to Senators, Representatives, and Delegates in Congress for distribution among their constituents, or mailed by the Department upon the receipt of their addressed franks; and the person receiving such seeds shall be requested to inform the Department of the results of the experiments therewith: Provided, That all seeds, bulbs, plants, and cuttings herein allotted to Senators, Representatives, and Delegates in Congress for distribution remaining uncalled for on the first of April shall be distributed by the Secretary of Agriculture, giving preference to those persons whose names and addresses have been furnished by Senators and Representatives in Congress, and who have not before, during the same season, been supplied by the Department: And provided also, That the Secretary shall report, as provided in this Act, the place, quantity, and price of seeds purchased, and the date of purchase; but nothing in this paragraph shall be construed to prevent the Secretary of Agriculture from sending seeds to those who apply for the same. And the amount herein appropriated shall not be diverted or used for any other purpose but for the purchase, propagation, and distribution of valuable seeds, bulbs, trees, shrubs, vines, cuttings, and plants: Provided, however, That upon each envelope or wrapper containing packages of seeds the contents thereof shall be plainly indicated, and the Secretary shall not distribute to any Senator, Representative, or Delegate seeds entirely unfit for the climate and locality he represents, but shall distribute the same so that each member may have seeds of equal value, as near as may be, and the best adapted to the locality he represents: Provided also, That the seeds allotted to Senators and Representatives for distribution in the districts embraced within the twenty-fifth and thirty-second parallels of latitude shall be ready for delivery on the tenth day of January, or at the earliest practicable time thereafter: Provided further, That twenty thousand dollars of the sum thus appropriated, or so much thereof as the Secretary of Agriculture shall direct, may be used to collect, purchase, test, propagate, and distribute rare and valuable seeds, bulbs, trees, shrubs, vines, cuttings, and plants, from foreign countries for experiments with reference to their introduction into this country; and the seeds, bulbs, trees, shrubs, vines, cuttings, and plants thus collected, purchased, tested, and propagated shall not be included in general distribution, but shall be used for experimental tests, to be carried on with the cooperation of the agricultural experimental stations.

INVESTIGATING PRODUCTION OF DOMESTIC SUGAR: For all expenses necessary to enable the Secretary of Agriculture to continue inquiry and ascertain the progress made in the production of domestic sugar from beets and sorghum, including the area of available lands adapted thereto by irrigation or otherwise, and to investigate all other matters concerning the same, seven thousand dollars.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That the Commissioners of the District of Columbia be, and they are hereby, authorized to grant permission to lay conduits for the transmission of electric power and pipes for the transmission of steam in alleys in the District of Columbia, under the following conditions, namely:

District of Columbia. Commissioners may authorize laying of conduits, etc., in alleys.

The conduits or pipes shall be laid entirely within a square or block, and shall not cross or enter any avenue, street, or highway.

Conditions.

The conduits and pipes shall be located as directed by said Commissioners and be laid under their inspection; and the cost of such inspection, together with the cost of replacing all improved pavements disturbed in connection with said work, shall be paid in advance by the party desiring to lay said conduits or steam pipes.

The conduits or pipes shall be used only to connect the premises owned and operated by the permittee, and no power or steam shall be supplied therefrom for any other purpose than the use of the permittee.

The permittee shall not rent the conduit or pipe or any portion thereof.

Penalty.

SEC. 2. That on violation of any of the above provisions or restrictions, the said Commissioners shall require the permittee, after thirty days' notice, to abandon the use of said conduits or pipes and remove them from the alley or alleys in which they are located, and if said permittee shall neglect or refuse to remove said conduits or pipes and place the surface of the alley in good condition within sixty days after the date of said notice, the said permittee shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be liable to a fine of ten dollars for each and every day that said conduits or pipes are allowed to remain in the alley, or the said alley shall remain out of repair, which fine shall be recovered in the police court of said District, in the name of said District, as other fines and penalties are now recovered in said court.

Amendment.

That said commission shall continue to exercise all authority heretofore conferred on it by law. But it shall not receive, consider, or make any record of any application of any person for enrollment as a member of any tribe in Indian Territory who has not been a recognized citizen thereof, and duly and lawfully enrolled or admitted as such, and its refusal of such applications shall be final when approved by the Secretary of the Interior: Provided, That any Mississippi Choctaw duly identified as such by the United States Commission to the Five Civilized Tribes shall have the right, at any time prior to the approval of the final rolls of the Choctaws and Chickasaws by the Secretary of the Interior, to make settlement within the Choctaw-Chickasaw country, and on proof of the fact of bona fide settlement may be enrolled by the said United States Commission and by the Secretary of the Interior as Choctaws entitled to allotment: Provided further, That all contracts or agreements looking to the sale or incumbrance in any way of the lands to be allotted to said Mississippi Choctaws, shall be null and void.

Contracts for sale, etc., of Mississippi—Choctaw allotments void.

To pay all expenses incident to the survey, platting, and appraisal of town sites in the Choctaw, Chickasaw, Creek, and Cherokee nations, Indian Territory, as required by sections fifteen and twenty-nine of an Act entitled "An Act for the protection of the people of the Indian Territory, and for other purposes," approved June twenty-eighth, eighteen hundred and ninety-eight, for the balance of the current year and for the year ending June thirtieth, nineteen hundred and one, the same to be immediately available, sixty-seven thousand dollars, or so much as may be necessary: Provided, That the Secretary of the Interior is hereby authorized, under rules and regulations to be prescribed by him, to survey, lay out, and plat into town lots, streets, alleys, and parks, the sites of such towns and villages in the Choctaw, Chickasaw, Creek, and Cherokee nations, as may at that time have a population of two hundred or more, in such manner as will best subserve the then present needs and the reasonable prospective growth of such towns. The work of surveying, laying out, and platting such town sites shall be done by competent surveyors, who shall prepare five copies of the plat of each town site which, when the survey is approved by the Secretary of the Interior, shall be filed as follows: One in the office of the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, one with the principal chief of the nation, one with the clerk of the court within the territorial jurisdiction of which the town is located, one with the Commission to the Five Civilized Tribes, and one with the town authorities, if there be such. Where in his judgment the best interests of the public service require, the Secretary of the Interior may secure the surveying, laying out, and platting of town sites in any of said nations by contract.

Work of commissions to begin on approval of survey.
Vol. 30, p. 505.

The Secretary of the Interior may in his discretion appoint a town-site commission consisting of three members for each of the Creek and Cherokee nations, at least one of whom shall be a citizen of the tribe and shall be appointed upon the nomination of the principal chief of the tribe. Each commission, under the supervision of the Secretary of the Interior, shall appraise and sell for the benefit of the tribe the town lots in the nation for which it is appointed, acting in conformity with the provisions of any then existing Act of Congress or agreement with the tribe approved by Congress. The agreement of any two members of the commission as to the true value of any lot shall constitute a determination thereof, subject to the approval of the Secretary of the Interior, and if no two members are able to agree the matter shall be determined by such Secretary.

Creek and Cherokee town-site commissions.

Where in his judgment the public interests will be thereby subserved, the Secretary of the Interior may appoint in the Choctaw, Chickasaw, Creek, or Cherokee Nation a separate town-site commission for any town, in which event as to that town such local commission may exercise the same authority and perform the same duties which would otherwise devolve upon the commission for that Nation. Every such local commission shall be appointed in the manner provided in the Act approved June twenty-eighth, eighteen hundred and ninety-eight, entitled "An Act for the protection of the people of the Indian Territory."

Surveys by towns.	The Secretary of the Interior, where in his judgment the public interests will be thereby subserved, may permit the authorities of any town in any of said nations, at the expense of the town, to survey, lay out, and plat the site thereof, subject to his supervision and approval, as in other instances.
Appraisal and sale of lots.	As soon as the plat of any town site is approved, the proper commission shall, with all reasonable dispatch and within a limited time, to be prescribed by the Secretary of the Interior, proceed to make the appraisement of the lots and improvements, if any, thereon, and after the approval thereof by the Secretary of the Interior, shall, under the supervision of such Secretary, proceed to the disposition and sale of the lots in conformity with any then existing Act of Congress or agreement with the tribe approved by Congress, and if the proper commission shall not complete such appraisement and sale within the time limited by the Secretary of the Interior, they shall receive no pay for such additional time as may be taken by them, unless the Secretary of the Interior for good cause shown shall expressly direct otherwise.
Removal of commissioners, etc.	The Secretary of the Interior may, for good cause, remove any member of any townsite commission, tribal or local, in any of said nations, and may fill the vacancy thereby made or any vacancy otherwise occurring in like manner as the place was originally filled.
Establishment of corporate and townsite limits.	It shall not be required that the townsite limits established in the course of the platting and disposing of town lots and the corporate limits of the town, if incorporated, shall be identical or coextensive, but such townsite limits and corporate limits shall be so established as to best subserve the then present needs and the reasonable prospective growth of the town, as the same shall appear at the times when such limits are respectively established: Provided further , That the exterior limits of all townsites shall be designated and fixed at the earliest practicable time under rules and regulations prescribed by the Secretary of the Interior.
Proviso. —regulations.
Reservation from allotment at railroad stations, etc.	Upon the recommendation of the Commission to the Five Civilized Tribes the Secretary of the Interior is hereby authorized at any time before allotment to set aside and reserve from allotment any lands in the Choctaw, Chickasaw, Creek, or Cherokee nations, not exceeding one hundred and sixty acres in any one tract, at such stations as are or shall be established in conformity with law on the line of any railroad which shall be constructed or be in process of construction in or through either of said nations prior to the allotment of the lands therein, and this irrespective of the population of such townsite at the time. Such townsites shall be surveyed, laid out, and platted, and the lands therein disposed of for the benefit of the tribe in the manner herein prescribed for other townsites: Provided further , That whenever any tract of land shall be set aside as herein provided which is occupied by a member of the tribe, such occupant shall be fully compensated for his improvements thereon under such rules and regulations as may be prescribed by the Secretary of the Interior.
Proviso. —compensation for occupants' improvements.
Existing surveys, etc., unaffected.	Nothing herein contained shall have the effect of avoiding any work heretofore done in pursuance of the said Act of June twenty-eighth, eighteen hundred and ninety-eight, in the way of surveying, laying out, or platting of town sites, appraising or disposing of town lots in any of said nations, but the same, if not heretofore carried to a state of completion, may be completed according to the provisions hereof.

and for necessary expense of transporting insane Indians to and from said asylum; twelve thousand dollars.

For increasing the amount heretofore appropriated for the erection of said asylum for insane Indians at Canton, South Dakota, the sum of fifteen thousand dollars, the said sum being in addition to the amount appropriated for that purpose by the Act entitled "An Act making appropriations for the current and contingent expenses of the Indian department, and for fulfilling treaty stipulations with the various Indian tribes for the fiscal year ending June thirtieth, nineteen hundred, and for other purposes," approved March first, eighteen hundred and ninety-nine, and the limit of cost for said asylum is fixed at the amount heretofore and herein appropriated, namely, sixty thousand dollars.

The accounting officers of the Treasury Department are hereby authorized and directed to pass to the credit of Lucius A. Wright, United States Indian agent of the Mission-Tule River (consolidated) Agency, California, on his quarterly accounts for the first quarter of the fiscal year eighteen hundred and ninety-nine, the sum of five hundred dollars collected by him for grazing privileges on the Indian Reservations under his charge, and distributed by him directly to the Indians, under the authority of the Secretary of the Interior of May twentieth, eighteen hundred and ninety-eight, and for which proper vouchers have been presented.

For this amount to enable the Secretary of the Interior to carry out the terms of the twenty-fourth article of the treaty of February twenty-third, eighteen hundred and sixty-seven, with the confederated tribes of Kaskaskia, Peoria, Piankeshaw, and Wea Indians, twenty-five thousand five hundred and four dollars and ninety-six cents, as itemized and set forth in Senate Report Numbered Five hundred and eighty-two, Forty-fourth Congress, second session, at page three thereof, to be immediately available, and to be in full of all demands of said Indians under and by virtue of said treaty, said sum to be paid per capita to said Indians by the Secretary of the Interior, or expended for their benefit in such manner and for such objects and purposes as he may direct: Provided, That before any payment shall be made to said Indians under this Act the sum of one thousand one hundred and eighty-one dollars and sixty-nine cents shall be deducted and paid to T. F. Richardville, or his legal representatives, on account of money loaned to said Indians.

That the Secretary of the Treasury be, and he is hereby, authorized to pay the balance of awards made to the loyal Seminole Indians under the direction of the Secretary of the Interior, with interest thereon, as per articles three and four of the treaty of March twenty-first, eighteen hundred and sixty-six, and paragraph fourteen of the agreement of December sixteenth, eighteen hundred and ninety-seven, such payment to be in full settlement and satisfaction of all claims under said articles and paragraph; and the sum of one hundred and eighty-six thousand dollars is hereby appropriated for the purpose: Provided, That if any of the said loyal Seminoles whose names are on the lists of awards as made up in pursuance of said treaty of eighteen hundred and sixty-six shall have died, then the amount due such deceased persons, respectively, shall be paid to their legal heirs, and the acceptance of the sum hereby appropriated shall be in full settlement of said awards.

That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to pay out and distribute in the following manner the sum of two hundred and sixteen thousand six hundred and seventy-nine dollars and forty-eight cents, which amount was appropriated by the Act of June twenty-eighth, eighteen hundred and ninety-eight, and credited to the "incompetent fund" of the Chickasaw Indian Nation on the books of the United States Treasury, namely: First, there shall be paid to such survivors of the original beneficiaries of said fund and to such heirs of deceased beneficiaries as shall, within six months from the passage of this Act, satisfactorily establish their identity in such manner as the Secretary of the Interior may prescribe and also the amount of such fund to which they are severally entitled, their respective shares; and second, so much of said fund as is not paid out upon claims satisfactorily established as aforesaid shall be distributed per capita among the members of said Chickasaw Nation, and all claims of beneficiaries and their respective heirs for participation in said incompetent fund not presented within the period aforesaid shall be, and the same are hereby, barred.

For payment to the Flambeau Lumber Company twelve thousand and thirty-nine dollars and thirty-five cents, the same being balance due said company for improvements made on the Lac du Flambeau Reservation for school and reservation purposes under a proper authority of the Secretary of the Interior, to be paid for out of timber to be cut on school and swamp lands within said reservation, which timber was not cut on account of suit instituted by the State of Wisconsin against the lumber company, after the improvements authorized had been made, stopping the same.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That the Cooper Pontoon Bridge Company, of Walsh County, State of North Dakota, a corporation organized under the laws of the State of North Dakota, be, and is hereby, authorized to construct and maintain a pontoon bridge and approaches thereto across the Red River of the North between the State of Minnesota and the State of North Dakota, extending from a point on said river where the section line running east and west between sections eight and seventeen, township one hundred and fifty-seven north, of range fifty west, in Marshall County, State of Minnesota, intersects said river, to a point opposite in the State of North Dakota. Said bridge shall be constructed so as to provide for the passage of wagons and vehicles of all kinds, animals, and foot passengers, and for road travel, for such reasonable rates of toll and under such rules and regulations as may be prescribed by said corporation and approved from time to time by the Secretary of War.

SEC. 2. That any bridge built under this Act and subject to its limitations shall be a lawful structure, and shall be recognized and known as a post route, upon which also no higher charge shall be made for the transmission over the same of the mails, the troops, and the munitions of war of the United States than the rate per mile paid for transportation over railroads or public highways leading to the said bridge; and it shall enjoy the rights and privileges of other post roads in the United States, and the United States shall have the right of way across said bridge and its approaches for postal-telegraph purposes. And equal rights as to constructing and maintaining their lines over said bridge shall be granted to all telephone and telegraph companies desiring to use the same.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That the Capital Traction Company of the District of Columbia be, and it hereby is, authorized and required to construct the necessary tracks and to make the necessary connections for the purpose of operating its cars by the underground electric system and to operate the same over and along the following route, namely: Beginning at the intersection of First and C streets northwest, east on C street to Delaware avenue, and thence by a loop around square six hundred and eighty-six (bounded by Delaware avenue, B, First, and C streets northeast). Also, beginning at the intersection of Pennsylvania avenue and Seventeenth street northwest; south on Seventeenth street by double tracks to G street northwest; west on G street by single track to Twenty-fifth street; north on Twenty-fifth street by single track to Pennsylvania avenue. Also, beginning with the tracks at the corner of Seventeenth and G streets northwest; south on Seventeenth street by single track to F street northwest; west on F street by single track to Twenty-sixth street northwest; north on Twenty-sixth street by single track to Pennsylvania avenue: Provided, That for the purpose of furnishing a loop, for use when necessary, a single track may be extended along G street northwest from Twenty-fifth to Twenty-sixth streets, connecting with the single tracks in Twenty-fifth and Twenty-sixth streets northwest.

SEC. 2. That the Anacostia and Potomac River Railroad Company be, and it is hereby, authorized and required, within one year from the date of the approval of this Act, to extend the lines of its underground electric railroad from the intersection of First street east and E street south, north along First street to B street south; thence west along B street, connecting with its existing tracks between Second and Third streets west.

SEC. 3. That where the route provided for in this Act coincides with the routes of existing street railways one set of tracks shall be used in common, upon terms mutually agreed upon, or, in case of disagreement, upon terms determined by the supreme court of the District of Columbia, which is authorized and directed to give hearing to the interested parties and to fix the terms of joint trackage.

Joint trackage.

SEC. 4. That the extensions herein authorized shall be completed and cars operated over the same within one year from the date of the passage of this Act. The double tracks of the Capital Traction Company now in the south side of C street northwest, between First street and New Jersey avenue, shall also be removed within said time, and the space so vacated restored to proper condition in a manner satisfactory to the Commissioners of the District of Columbia.

Completion of construction, etc.

SEC. 5. That the extensions herein authorized shall be constructed in accordance with plans satisfactory to the Commissioners of the District of Columbia and approved by them.

Approval of plans.

SEC. 6. That the said Capital Traction Company and the Anacostia and Potomac River Railroad Company shall have, over and respecting the routes herein provided for, the same rights, powers, and privileges they respectively have or hereafter may have by law, over and respecting their other routes, and be subject in respect thereto to all the other provisions of their charters and of law.

Rights, etc.

SEC. 7. That Congress reserves the right to alter, amend, or repeal this Act.

Amendment.

Vol. 19, pp. 50, etc.,
amended.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That sections eight, nine, and fifteen of the Act entitled "An Act revising and amending the various Acts establishing and relating to the Reform School of the District of Columbia," approved May third, eighteen hundred and seventy-six, be, and they are hereby, amended as follows:

Amend section eight so that it shall read as follows:

"SEC. 8. That whenever any boy under the age of seventeen years shall be brought before any court of the District of Columbia, or any judge of such court, and shall be convicted of any crime or misdemeanor punishable by fine or imprisonment, other than imprisonment for life, such court or judge, in lieu of sentencing him to imprisonment in the county jail or fining him, may commit him to the Reform School, to remain until he shall arrive at the age of twenty-one years, unless sooner discharged by the board of trustees. And the judges of the criminal and police courts of the District of Columbia shall have power to commit to the Reform School, first, any boy under seventeen years of age who may be liable to punishment by imprisonment under any existing law of the District of Columbia, or any law that may be enacted and in force in said District; second, any boy under seventeen years of age, with the consent of his parent or guardian, against whom any charge of committing any crime or misdemeanor shall have been made, the punishment of which, on conviction, would be confinement in jail or prison; third, any boy under seventeen years of age who is destitute of a suitable home and adequate means of obtaining an honest living, or who is in danger of being brought up, or is brought up, to lead an idle or vicious life; fourth, any boy under seventeen years of age who is incorrigible, or habitually disregards the commands of his father or mother, or guardian, who leads a vagrant life, or resorts to immoral places or practices, or neglects or refuses to perform labor suitable to his years and condition, or to attend school. And the president of the board of trustees may also commit to the Reform School such boys as are mentioned in the foregoing third and fourth classes upon application or complaint, in writing, of a parent, or guardian, or relative having charge of such boy, and upon such testimony in regard to the facts stated as shall be satisfactory to him; and for taking testimony in such cases, he is hereby empowered to administer oaths."

Commitment of boys under 17.

—by whom made.

—in what cases.

Commitment by president of board of trustees.

Amend section nine so that it shall read as follows:

"SEC. 9. That every boy sent to the Reform School shall remain until he is twenty-one years of age, unless sooner discharged or bound as an apprentice."

Period of detention.

Amend section fifteen so that it shall read as follows:

"SEC. 15. That the board of trustees may make such by-laws, rules, and regulations for their own government and that of the institution, its officers, employees, and inmates, the employment, discipline, instruction, education, removal, and absolute, temporary, or conditional release of all boys committed to the school, as they may deem necessary and proper, and as are not contrary to the Constitution and to the laws of the District of Columbia."

United States courts.
Bills of exceptions.
R. S., sec. 953, p. 180,
amended.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That section nine hundred and fifty-three of the Revised Statutes be so amended as to read as follows:

What is sufficient

Inability of trial
judge to sign.

—other judges may sign, etc.

"SEC. 953. That a bill of exceptions allowed in any cause shall be deemed sufficiently authenticated if signed by the judge of the court in which the cause was tried, or by the presiding judge thereof if more than one judge sat at the trial of the cause, without any seal of the court or judge annexed thereto. And in case the judge before whom the cause has heretofore been or may hereafter be tried is, by reason of death, sickness, or other disability, unable to hear and pass upon the motion for a new trial and allow and sign said bill of exceptions, then the judge who succeeds such trial judge, or any other judge of the court in which the cause was tried, holding such court thereafter, if the evidence in such cause has been or is taken in stenographic notes, or if the said judge is satisfied by any other means that he can pass upon such motion and allow a true bill of exceptions, shall pass upon said motion and allow and sign such bill of exceptions; and his ruling upon such motion and allowance and signing of such bill of exceptions shall be as valid as if such ruling and allowance and signing of such bill of exceptions had been made by the judge before whom such cause was tried; but in case said judge is satisfied that owing to the fact that he did not preside at the trial, or for any other cause, that he can not fairly pass upon said motion, and allow and sign said bill of exceptions, then he may in his discretion grant a new trial to the party moving therefor."

CHAP. 718.—An Act Relating to certain railway corporations owning or operating street railways in the District of Columbia.

District of Columbia.
Certain street railways may contract mutually for the use of their respective roads.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That the Anacostia and Potomac River Railroad Company, the Brightwood Railway Company of the District of Columbia, the Capital Railway Company, the City and Suburban Railway Company, the Columbia Railway Company, the Georgetown and Tennallytown Railway Company, the Metropolitan Railroad Company of the District of Columbia, and the Washington and Great Falls Electric Railway Company may, under the authority of this Act, and the Washington and Rockville Railway Company, the Washington, Woodside and Forest Glen Railway and Power Company, and the Washington and Glen Echo Railroad Company may also, if not inconsistent with the laws of Maryland, from time to time, by their respective boards of directors, enter into contracts with each other, or with any of the others, for the use of their respective roads or routes, or any part thereof. No such contract shall take effect until the same shall have been approved by the written consent of the owners of record of at least three-fourths of the capital stock of each corporation, or by the vote of the owners of three-fourths of such capital stock represented at a special meeting called and held as prescribed by law: Provided, That in case any corporation enters into any such contract it is hereby authorized to change its corporate name to any other corporate name not then lawfully used by any existing corporation incorporated or organized in the said District. Such change may be made by a certificate signed and acknowledged by a majority of the directors of such corporation and filed with the recorder of deeds for the District of Columbia.

SEC. 2. That the Washington and Great Falls Electric Railway Company may acquire and hold stock in any street railway corporation specifically named above with which it is authorized by the terms of this Act to enter into a contract for the use of its road or route, and may provide for payment for the same by issuing additional amounts of its own capital stock in such classes and with such preferences as it may determine, or by issuing its bonds, secured by mortgage or deed of trust upon its right of way, property, and franchises, or other obligations, or by issuing both such stock and bonds or other obligations to an amount not exceeding the amounts of the actual consideration paid or payable for the stock so acquired, and may also issue further amounts of its stock or bonds or other obligations not exceeding the amounts of the actual consideration paid, or to be paid, for any equipment or extensions of any such road or route or for electric power therefor: Provided, That the capital stock of said company shall at no time exceed fifteen million dollars. Whenever the said Washington and Great Falls Electric Railway Company shall have acquired a majority of all the stock issued by any such corporation, it shall have power to guarantee the bonds or other obligations of such corporation and to purchase such bonds or other obligations. The Washington and Great Falls Electric Railway Company may also agree with any corporation specifically named above with which it is authorized by this Act to enter into a contract for the use of its road or route for the purchase of the estate, property, rights, and franchises of such other corporation, and for payment for the same in cash or in the stock or bonds or other obligations of said Washington and Great Falls Electric Railway Company, to be issued in the manner and subject to the limitation hereinbefore provided; and each such corporation is hereby empowered, with the consent in writing of the owners of three-fourths of its capital stock, to enter into such contract of purchase and sale through its board of directors.

Washington and Great Falls Electric Railway may acquire stock in companies named.

corporate name or in such other name as it shall adopt by the filing of a certificate as hereinbefore authorized: Provided, That the existing liabilities of the selling corporation and the rights of its creditors shall not be affected thereby: And provided further, That no action or proceeding to which any corporation whose estate, property, rights, and franchises shall be acquired as herein provided is a party shall abate in consequence thereof, but the same may be continued in the name of the party by or against which the same was begun, unless the court shall order the said Washington and Great Falls Electric Railway Company to be substituted in its place.

The approval of stockholders herein provided for may be given by the consent in writing of the owners of record of three-fourths of the capital stock of each company, or by the vote of the owners of three-fourths of the capital stock of each company, represented at a special meeting called and held as prescribed by the by-laws of the respective companies or by law. Whenever a certificate shall be filed with the recorder of deeds for the District of Columbia, signed and acknowledged by a majority of the board of directors of each of the corporations to be affected thereby, showing that a contract of purchase and sale has been made and approved as herein provided, such certificate shall be presumptive evidence of the facts therein set forth. Upon the filing of such certificate a notice shall be mailed to each stockholder of record in such corporations, setting forth the time when and place where such certificate was filed, and if within thirty days after the mailing of such notice any stockholder of any of the companies affected thereby shall give notice in writing to the said Washington and Great Falls Electric Railway Company that he dissents from such contract, it shall be the duty of the said company, within sixty days after the filing of such certificate, to institute a proceeding for the appraisalment of the shares of such dissenting stockholder. If any stockholder shall omit to give such notice of dissent, he shall be deemed to have assented to such contract. Said proceeding for appraisalment may be begun by filing with the supreme court of the said District a petition praying for the appointment of three persons to appraise the value of such stock. The court shall thereupon appoint three such appraisers and designate the time and place of their first meeting. The court may fill any vacancy in the board of appraisers occurring by refusal or neglect to serve or otherwise. The appraisers shall meet at the time and place designated, and after being sworn honestly and faithfully to discharge their duties, shall appraise such stock at its full value, without regard to any appreciation or depreciation thereof in consequence of such contract of purchase and sale; and said award, when confirmed by the court, shall be final and conclusive on all parties. The charges and expenses of the appraisers shall be paid by the said Washington and Great Falls Electric Railway Company. If the person entitled to receive the amount of the award shall refuse to accept the same, or if for any reason it shall not be possible to make payment of the amount of the award to such person entitled to receive the same, without unreasonable delay, the court may direct the same to be deposited in court. When the said company shall have paid or deposited in court the amount fixed by the appraisers as the value of the shares of the dissenting stockholder, such stockholder shall cease to have any interest in said appraised stock or in the property or franchises represented thereby, and the said Washington and Great Falls Electric Railway Company shall receive back from the corporation whose estate, rights, property, and franchises it has acquired, that portion of the consideration for such sale, or of the proceeds thereof, which otherwise would have been distributed to such dissenting stockholder. If such payment or deposit is not made within thirty days from the confirmation of the appraisal, the amount of the award, with interest from the date of confirmation, shall be a judgment against the said Washington and Great Falls Electric Railway Company, and may be entered, docketed, and collected as other judgments in said court are by law collectible. If the said company shall omit to institute the proceeding hereinbefore required, within the time hereby limited, the stockholder giving such notice may institute such proceeding by a proper petition on his own behalf or, at the election of such stockholder, the estate, rights, property, and franchises of the selling corporation shall revert in such corporation, and the consideration received therefor shall be repaid to the said Washington and Great Falls Electric Railway Company.

—or to institute proceedings.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That the Alexandria and Pineville Bridge Company, a corporation duly incorporated and existing under and by virtue of the laws of the State of Louisiana, be, and is hereby, authorized to construct and maintain a traffic bridge across Red River at a point suitable to the interest of navigation, within the corporate limits of the town of Alexandria, in the parish of Rapides, State of Louisiana. Said bridge shall be constructed to provide for the passage of vehicles, street-railway cars, foot passengers, stock, and such other traffic as may be desired, at such legal rates of toll as may be fixed by said company, and approved by the Secretary of War.

SEC. 2. That said bridge built under this Act, and subject to its limitations, shall be a lawful structure, and shall be recognized and known as a post route, upon which also no higher charge shall be made for the transmission over the same of the mails, the troops, and munitions of war of the United States than the rate paid for the transmission over the public highways leading to the said bridge, and shall enjoy the rights and privileges of other post roads in the United States; and equal privileges in the use of said bridge shall be granted to all telegraph and telephone companies; and the United States shall have the right of way across said bridge and its approaches for postal-telegraph purposes: Provided, That the bridge herein authorized to be constructed shall be so kept and managed by the company owning or operating it as to afford proper ways and means for the passage through or under it of vessels, barges, or rafts at all times, both by day and by night; and if said bridge be constructed as a drawbridge, the draw shall be opened promptly upon reasonable signal for the passage of boats; and upon whatever kind of bridge is built there shall be displayed from sunset to sunrise, at the expense of said company, such lights and signals as the Light-House Board shall prescribe.

SEC. 3. That if said bridge, erected and maintained under the authority of this Act, shall at any time substantially or materially obstruct the free navigation of said river, or shall, in the opinion of the Secretary of War, obstruct such navigation, he is hereby authorized to cause such change or alteration of said bridge to be made as will effectually obviate such obstruction; and such alteration shall be made and all such obstructions be removed at the expense of the owners or operators of said bridge; and in case of any litigation arising from the obstruction or alleged obstruction to the free navigation of said river, the case may be brought in the district court of the United States for the western district of Louisiana: Provided, That nothing in this Act shall be so construed as to repeal or modify any of the provisions of law now existing in reference to the protection of the navigation of rivers, or to exempt said bridge from the operation of same.

SEC. 4. That the bridge authorized to be constructed under this Act shall be built and located under and subject to such regulations for the security of navigation of said river as the Secretary of War shall prescribe; and to secure that object the said company or corporation shall submit to the Secretary of War, for his examination and approval, a design and drawing of said bridge, and a map of the location, prepared with reference to known datum plane upon prescribed scales furnished by the engineer officer having supervision of said river, and giving, for the space of two miles above and two miles below the proposed location of the bridge, the topography of the banks of the river, with shore lines at high and low water, the direction and strength of the currents at all stages, and the soundings accurately showing the bed of the stream, the location of any other bridge or bridges, and shall furnish such other information as may be required for a full and satisfactory understanding of the subject. And until said plans and location of the bridge are approved by the Secretary of War the bridge shall not be built; and should any change be made in the plan of the said bridge during the process of construction, or after completion, such change shall be subject to the approval of the Secretary of War.

SEC. 5. That this Act shall be null and void if actual construction of the bridge herein authorized be not commenced within one year and completed within three years from the date of the approval hereof.

Preamble.

and entitled to protection; and that a distinctive and uniform flag shall be adopted for hospitals and ambulances, and convoys of sick and wounded, and an arm badge for individuals neutralized; and

Whereas said treaty has been ratified by all of said nations, and by others subsequently, to the number of forty-three or more, including the United States of America; and

Whereas a permanent organization is an agency needed in every nation to carry out the purposes of said treaty, and especially to secure supplies and to execute the humane objects contemplated by said treaty, with the power to adopt and use the distinctive flag and arm badge specified by said treaty in article seven, on which shall be the sign of the Red Cross, for the purpose of cooperating with the "Comité International de Secours aux Militaires Blessés" (International Committee of Relief for the Wounded in War); and

Whereas, in accordance with the requirements and customs of said international body, such an association, adopting and using said insignia, was formed in the city of Washington, District of Columbia, in July, eighteen hundred and eighty-one, known as "The American National Association of the Red Cross," and reincorporated April seventeenth, eighteen hundred and ninety-three, under the laws of the District of Columbia; and

Whereas it is believed that the importance of the work demands a reincorporation by the Congress of the United States: Now, therefore,

SEC. 2. That the name of this corporation shall be "The American National Red Cross," and by that name it shall have perpetual succession, with the power to sue and be sued in courts of law and equity within the jurisdiction of the United States; to have and to hold such real and personal estate as shall be convenient and necessary to carry out the purposes of this corporation hereinafter set forth, such real estate to be limited to such quantity as may be necessary for official use or office buildings; to adopt a seal and the same to alter and destroy at pleasure; and to have the right to have and to use, in carrying out its purposes hereinafter designated, as an emblem and badge, a Greek red cross on a white ground, as the same has been described in the treaty of Geneva, August twenty-second, eighteen hundred and sixty-four, and adopted by the several nations acceding thereto; to ordain and establish by-laws and regulations not inconsistent with the laws of the United States of America or any State thereof, and generally to do all such acts and things as may be necessary to carry into effect the provisions of this Act and promote the purposes of said organization; and the corporation hereby created is designated as the organization which is authorized to act in matters of relief under said treaty. In accordance with article seven, of the treaty, the delivery of the brassard allowed for individuals neutralized in time of war shall be left to military authority.

SEC. 3. That the purposes of this corporation are and shall be—

Purposes:

First. To furnish volunteer aid to the sick and wounded of armies in time of war, in accordance with the spirit and conditions of the conference of Geneva of October, eighteen hundred and sixty-three, and also of the treaty of the Red Cross, or the treaty of Geneva of August twenty-second, eighteen hundred and sixty-four, to which the United States of America gave its adhesion on March first, eighteen hundred and eighty-two.

Second. And for said purposes to perform all the duties devolved upon a national society by each nation which has acceded to said treaty.

Third. To succeed to all the rights and property which have been hitherto held and to all the duties which have heretofore been performed by the American National Red Cross as a corporation duly organized and existing under the laws of the United States relating to the District of Columbia, which organization is hereby dissolved.

Fourth. To act in matters of voluntary relief and in accordance with the military and naval authorities as a medium of communication between the people of the United States of America and their armies, and to act in such matters between similar national societies of other governments through the "Comité International de Secours" and the Government and the people and the armies of the United States of America.

Fifth. And to continue and carry on a system of national and international relief in time of peace and apply the same in mitigating the sufferings caused by pestilence, famine, fire, floods, and other great national calamities.

Sixth. And to devise and carry on measures for preventing the same, and generally to promote measures of humanity and the welfare of mankind.

SEC. 4. That from and after the passage of this Act it shall be unlawful for any person within the jurisdiction of the United States to falsely and fraudulently hold himself out as, or represent or pretend himself to be a member of or an agent for the American National Red Cross for the purpose of soliciting, collecting, or receiving money or material; or for any person to wear or display the sign of the red cross, or any insignia colored in imitation thereof, for the fraudulent purpose of inducing the belief that he is a member of or an agent for the American National Red Cross. If any person violates the provisions of this section he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be liable to a fine of not less than one nor more than five hundred dollars, or imprisonment for a term not exceeding one year, or both, for each and every offense. The fine so collected shall be paid to the American National Red Cross. The appointment of the chief medical officer shall not be made without the approval in writing of the Secretary of War.

Use of insignia, etc.,
forbidden.

Penalty.

CHAP. 786.—An Act Making further provision for a civil government for Alaska, and for other purposes.

June 6, 1900.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, TITLE I.

CHAPTER ONE.

SEC. 1. That the territory ceded to the United States by Russia by the treaty of March thirtieth, eighteen hundred and sixty-seven, and known as Alaska, shall constitute a civil and judicial district, the government of which shall be organized and administered as hereinafter provided. The temporary seat of government of said district is hereby established at Juneau: Provided, That the seat of government shall remain at Sitka until suitable grounds and buildings thereon shall be obtained by purchase or otherwise at Juneau.

Alaska. Provisions for civil government. Civil and judicial district. Vol. 23, p. 24, etc. Seat of government at Juneau. Proviso.—to remain temporarily at Sitka.

SEC. 2. There shall be appointed for the district a governor, who shall reside therein during his term of office and be charged with the interests of the United States Government within the district. To the end aforesaid he shall have authority to see that the laws enacted for the district are enforced and to require the faithful discharge of their duties by the officials appointed to administer the same. He may also grant reprieves for offenses committed against the laws of the district or of the United States until the decision of the President thereon shall be made known. He shall be ex officio commander in chief of the militia of the district, and shall have power to call out the same when necessary to the due execution of the laws and to preserve the peace, and to cause all able-bodied citizens of the United States in the district to enroll and serve as such when the public exigency demands; and he shall perform generally in and over said district such acts as pertain to the office of governor of a Territory, so far as the same may be made or become applicable thereto.

Governor to be appointed.

—powers, etc.

—care of insane.

He shall, subject to the direction and approval of the Secretary of the Interior, advertise for and receive bids and, in behalf of the United States, contract from year to year with the responsible asylum or sanitarium west of the main range of the Rocky Mountains submitting the lowest bid for the care and custody of persons legally adjudged insane in said district of Alaska; the cost of advertising for bids, executing the contract, and caring for the insane to be paid, until otherwise provided by law, by the Secretary of the Treasury, out of any money in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated, on accounts and vouchers duly approved by the governor and the Secretary of the Interior.

Inquiry as to seal-killing operations.

The governor shall from time to time inquire into the operations of any person, company, association, or corporation authorized by the United States, by contract or otherwise, to kill seal or other fur-bearing animals in the district, and any and all violations by such person, company, association, or corporation of the agreement with the United States under which the operations are being conducted, and shall annually report to Congress the result of such inquiries.

Report of governor.

He shall make an annual report, on the first day of October in each year, to the President of the United States, of his official acts and doings, and of the condition of the district, with reference to its resources, industries, population, and the administration of the civil government thereof. And the President of the United States shall have power to review and to confirm or annul any reprieves granted or other acts done by him.

Notaries public.

The governor may appoint and commission one or more notaries public for the district, and appointments of notaries public heretofore made by him are hereby legalized, and all acts performed by them by virtue of their notarial commissions shall be for all purposes as valid as though the governor had at the time full and complete legal authority to appoint and commission them.

Surveyor-general to be ex officio secretary.

—duties, etc.

SEC. 3. The surveyor-general of the district shall be ex officio secretary thereof, and as such shall be custodian of the district seal, which shall be provided by the Attorney-General. The surveyor-general, as ex officio secretary of the district, shall perform the official duties required by law to be performed by the secretary of a Territory of the United States, in so far as applicable to said district, and such other duties as may be required by law.

District court.

—judges.

SEC. 4. There is hereby established a district court for the district, which shall be a court of general jurisdiction in civil, criminal, equity, and admiralty causes; and three district judges shall be appointed for the district, who shall, during their terms of office, reside in the divisions of the district to which they may be respectively assigned by the President.

Divisions of court.—terms.

The court shall consist of three divisions. The judge designated to preside over division numbered one shall, during his term of office, reside at Juneau, and shall hold at least four terms of court in the district each year, two at Juneau and two at Skagway, and the judge shall, as near January first as practicable, designate the time of holding the terms during the current year.

The judge designated to preside over division numbered two shall reside at Saint Michaels during his term of office, and shall hold at least one term of court each year at Saint Michaels, in the district, beginning the third Monday in June.

The judge designated to preside over division numbered three shall reside at Eagle City during his term of office, and shall hold at least one term of court each year at Eagle City, in the district, beginning on the first Monday in July: Provided, The Attorney-General may for cause change the place of residence of the judge of either division of the court.

Proviso.
Change of place of residence of judge.

Each of the judges is authorized and directed to hold such special terms of court as may be necessary for the public welfare or for the dispatch of the business of the court, at such times and places in the district as they or any of them, respectively, may deem expedient or as the Attorney-General may direct; and each shall have authority to employ interpreters and to make allowances for the necessary expenses of his court, and to employ an official court stenographer under the same terms and conditions as are, or may be, provided for district courts of the United States. At least thirty days' notice shall be given by the judge or the clerk of the time and place of holding special terms of the court.

Special terms of court.

—notice.

SEC. 5. The jurisdiction of each division of the court shall extend over the district of Alaska, but the court in which the action is pending may, on motion, change the place of trial in any action, civil or criminal, from one place to another place in the same division or to a designated place in another division in either of the following cases:

Jurisdiction of divisions, etc.
When place of trial may be changed.

First. When there is reason to believe that an impartial trial can not be had therein;

Second. When the convenience of witnesses and the ends of justice would be promoted by the change;

Third. When from any cause the judge is disqualified from acting; but in such event, if the judge of another division will appear and try the action, no change of place of trial must be made;

Fourth. By the court, on its own motion, when, considering available means of travel, it appears that the defendant will be put to unnecessary expense and inconvenience if summoned to defend in the place or division in which the action has been commenced; and when it appears to the satisfaction of the court, or judge thereof, that an action has been commenced in a place or division remote from the residence of the defendant for the purpose of causing unnecessary expense or inconvenience, the place of trial shall be changed at the cost of the plaintiff, and such costs shall not be recovered from the defendant.

In any criminal prosecution the court shall change the place of trial where it appears to the satisfaction of the court that the defendant will not be prejudiced thereby and that the United States will be put to unnecessary expense in such criminal prosecution if the transfer is not made.

SEC. 6. The respective judges of the court shall appoint, and at pleasure remove, clerks and commissioners in and for the district, who shall have the jurisdiction conferred by law in any part thereof, but who shall, during their terms of office, each reside at the place in the district designated in the respective orders of appointment.

Appointment, etc., of clerks and commissioners.

The commissioners shall be ex officio justices of the peace, recorders, and probate judges, and shall perform all the duties and exercise all the powers, civil and criminal, imposed or conferred on the United States commissioners by the general laws of the United States and the special laws applicable to the district.

Duties of commissioners, etc.

They shall also have power to grant writs of habeas corpus for the purpose of inquiring into the cause of restraint of liberty, which writs shall be made returnable before a district judge, and like proceedings shall be had thereon as if the same had been granted by the judge under the general laws of the United States in such cases. The commissioners shall also have the powers of notaries public, and shall keep a memorandum of all deeds and other instruments, of writing acknowledged before them and relating to the title to or transfer of property within the district, which memorandum shall be subject to public inspection. And all records of instruments of writing hitherto made by any United States commissioner in the district of Alaska are hereby declared to be public records of such district and shall have the same force and effect as if recorded in conformity with the provisions of this Act.

—records of

The commissioners shall also keep a record of all fines and forfeitures received by them, and shall pay over the same quarterly to the clerk of the division of the district court in which they were appointed.

Clerks of courts.

SEC. 7. Three clerks shall be appointed for the court, one of whom shall be assigned to each division thereof, and during his term of office reside at the place designated for the residence of the judge of such division. Each clerk shall, in his division of the district, perform the duties required or authorized by law to be performed by clerks of United States courts in other districts, and such other duties as may be prescribed by the laws of the United States relating to the district of Alaska. He shall preserve copies of all laws applicable to the district and shall preserve all records and record all proceedings and official acts of his division of the court. He shall also receive all moneys collected from licenses, fines, forfeitures, or in any other case, except from violations of the customs laws, and shall apply the same to the incidental expenses of the proper division of the district court and the allowance thereof as directed by the judge, and shall account for the same in detail and for any balances on account thereof quarterly to and under the direction of the Secretary of the Treasury. He shall be ex officio recorder of instruments, as hereinafter provided, and also register of wills for the district, and shall establish secure offices where terms of his division of the court are held for the safe-keeping of his official records.

District attorneys.

SEC. 8. Three district attorneys shall be appointed for the district, to be assigned to the divisions thereof, who shall reside during their respective terms of office at the place designated as the residence of the judge of the division of the court to which each of the district attorneys shall be assigned. They shall each perform the duties required to be performed by United States district attorneys in other districts, and such other duties as may be required by law.

Duties.

Assistants.

Each district attorney may, subject to the approval of the Attorney-General, appoint and at pleasure remove one or more assistant district attorneys, who shall receive such compensation as the Attorney-General may fix, to be paid as other assistant United States district attorneys are paid. In case of the death or disability of a district attorney the judge may appoint a suitable person to fill the office until his successor is appointed and qualified or until the disability is removed.

Marshal.
Deputies.

SEC. 9. A marshal shall be appointed for each division of the district, and each marshal shall have authority and be required to appoint, subject to the approval of the Attorney-General, such deputy marshals as he may deem necessary for the efficient execution of the law and the orders of the court and of the commissioners appointed as herein provided.

Office deputies, clerical assistance,
etc.

That when in the opinion of the Attorney-General the public interest requires it, he may, on the recommendation of the marshal, which recommendation shall state the facts as distinguished from conclusions, showing necessity for the same, allow the marshals to employ necessary office deputies and clerical assistance, upon salaries to be fixed by the Attorney-General, from time to time, and paid as other officers of the court are paid. When any of such office deputies is engaged in the service or attempted service of any writ, process, subpoena, or other order of the court, or when necessarily absent from the place of his regular employment upon official business, he shall be allowed his actual traveling expenses only, and his necessary and actual expenses for lodging and subsistence, not to exceed four dollars per day, and the necessary actual expenses in transporting prisoners, including necessary guard hire; and he shall make and render accounts thereof as provided for.

Each marshal shall have the general authority and powers and be subject to the obligations of United States marshals in the States and Territories. He shall be the executive officer of the court, and charged with the execution of all processes thereof and with the transportation and custody of prisoners and insane persons, and he shall be ex officio keeper of the jails and penitentiaries of the division of the district to which he may be assigned, and shall be responsible on his official bond for the acts of all deputy marshals appointed by him. In case of the death of a marshal the district judge shall appoint a suitable person to fill the vacancy until his successor is appointed and qualified. The persons so appointed shall give such bonds as the court may require.

Powers, etc., of marshals.

The marshal shall deliver persons duly adjudged insane in the district to the authorities of such asylum or sanitarium as the governor, with the approval of the Secretary of the Interior, may designate, and for the service of process in connection with and the guarding and transportation of the insane he shall be compensated as in the case of prisoners.

—care of insane.

The deputy marshals shall be ex officio constables and executive officers of the commissioners herein provided for, and shall have the powers and discharge the duties of United States deputy marshals, and also those of constables, under the laws of the United States applicable to said district.

Powers of deputy marshals.

SEC. 10. The governor, surveyor-general, attorneys, judges, and the marshals provided for in this Act shall be appointed by the President, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, and shall hold their respective offices for the term of four years and until their successors are appointed and qualified, unless sooner removed by the President for cause.

Appointment of officers, terms, etc.

The officers so appointed shall severally be entitled to receive annual compensation as follows:

The governor, the sum of five thousand dollars; the surveyor-general and ex officio secretary of the district, as full compensation, four thousand dollars; the judges, each the sum of five thousand dollars; each marshal, the sum of four thousand dollars; the clerks, each the sum of three thousand five hundred dollars; the district attorneys, each three thousand dollars, the salaries payable from the Treasury of the United States, as like officers are paid in other districts.

Compensation of officers.

Each clerk shall collect all money arising from the fees of his office or on any other account authorized by law to be paid to or collected by him, and shall report the same and the disposition thereof in detail, under oath, quarterly, or more frequently if required, to the court, the Attorney-General, and the Secretary of the Treasury, and all public money received by him and his deputies for fees or on any other account shall be paid out by the clerk on the order of the court, duly made and signed by the judge, and any balance remaining in his hands after all payments ordered by the court shall have been made shall be by him covered into the Treasury of the United States at such times and under such rules and regulations as the Secretary of the Treasury may prescribe. The clerk may employ necessary clerical help with the approval and at compensation to be fixed by the court to aid him in the expeditious discharge of the business of his office. Any person so employed shall be paid by the clerk on the order of the court, as other court expenses are paid.

Clerks' fees.

Clerical help

Traveling expenses.

The governor, surveyor-general, marshals, judges, clerks of court, and district attorneys shall, in addition to their salaries, be paid their actual traveling and subsistence expenses when traveling in the discharge of their official duties. Accounts for such expenses shall be rendered and paid as are accounts of judges, marshals, clerks, and district attorneys for like expenses in other districts.

Surveyor-general to act in absence of governor.

In case of the death, removal, resignation, or absence of the governor from the district, the surveyor-general as ex officio secretary of the district shall have, and he is hereby authorized and required to execute and perform, all the powers and duties of the governor during such vacancy or absence, or until another governor shall be appointed to fill such vacancy.

Accounts of commissioners and deputy marshals.

SEC. 11. An accurate detailed account of all fees received and disbursements made by commissioners and deputy marshals shall be filed quarterly with the clerk for the proper division of the district court and approved by the judge thereof, if found to be in accordance with law; and all net fees received in excess of the sum of three thousand dollars per annum by any commissioner or deputy marshal shall be annually paid to the clerk of the proper division of the court and by him paid into the Treasury of the United States, such payment to be accompanied by a verified detailed statement of such deputy or commissioner.

Clerks' bonds.

SEC. 12. The clerks of the court shall each, before entering upon the duties of his office, execute a bond, with sufficient sureties, to be approved by the Secretary of the Treasury, or the court or a judge thereof, in the penalty of twenty thousand dollars, for the faithful performance of his official duties, and file the same with the Attorney-General; and each commissioner shall, before entering upon the duties of his office, execute a bond, with sufficient sureties, to be approved by the court, or a judge thereof, in the penalty of one thousand dollars, for the faithful performance of his official duties, and file the same with the clerk, who shall send a certified copy thereof to the Attorney-General.

District divided into three recording divisions.

SEC. 13. The judges of the district, or a majority of them, shall, as soon as practicable after their appointment, meet, and by appropriate order, to be thereafter entered in each division of the court, divide the district into three recording divisions, designate the division of the court to supervise each, and also define the boundaries thereof by reference to natural objects and permanent landmarks or monuments, in such manner that the boundaries of each recording division can be readily determined and become generally known from such description, which order shall be given publicity in such manner by posting, publication, or otherwise as the judges or any division of the court may direct, the necessary expense of the publication of such order and description of the recording divisions to be allowed and paid as other court expenses.

Recording districts.

At any regular or special term an order may be made by the court establishing one or more recording districts within the recording division under the supervision of such division of the court and defining the boundaries thereof by reference to natural objects and permanent landmarks or monuments, in such manner that the boundaries thereof can be readily determined.

—recorder.

The order establishing a recording district shall designate a commissioner to be ex officio recorder thereof, and shall also designate the place where the commissioner shall keep his recording office within the recording district:

Provided, The clerk of the court shall be ex officio recorder of all that portion of the recording division under the supervision of his division of the court not embraced within the limits of a recording district established, bounded, and described therein as authorized by this Act, and when any part of the division for which a clerk has been recording shall be embraced in a recording district, such clerk shall transcribe that portion of his records appertaining to such district and deliver the same to the commissioner designated as recorder thereof.

Proviso.
—of what clerk of the court shall be ex officio recorder.

Whenever it appears to the satisfaction of the court that the public interests demand, or that the convenience of the people require, the court may change or modify the boundaries or discontinue a recording district or change the location of the recording office, or remove the commissioner acting as ex officio recorder, and appoint another commissioner to fill the office.

Change of districts, etc.

SEC. 14. The clerk as ex officio recorder must procure such books for records as the business of his office requires and such as may be required by the respective commissioners designated as recorders in his division of the court, but orders for the same must first be obtained from the court or the judge thereof. The respective officers acting as ex officio recorders shall have the custody and must keep all the books, records, maps, and papers deposited in their respective offices, and where a recorder is removed or from any cause becomes unable to act, or a recording district is discontinued, the records and all books, papers, and property relating thereto shall be delivered to the clerk or such officer or person as the court or judge thereof may direct.

Record books, etc.

The record books procured by the clerk, as herein provided, shall be paid for by him, on the order of the court, out of any moneys in his hands, as other court expenses are paid.

SEC. 15. The respective recorders shall, upon the payment of the fees for the same prescribed by the Attorney-General, record separately, in large and well-bound separate books, in fair hand:

What recorded.

First. Deeds, grants, transfers, contracts to sell or convey real estate and mortgages of real estate, releases of mortgages, powers of attorney, leases which have been acknowledged or proved, mortgages upon personal property;

Second. Certificates of marriage and marriage contracts and births and deaths;

Third. Wills devising real estate admitted to probate;

Fourth. Official bonds;

Fifth. Transcripts of judgments which by law are made liens upon real estate;

Sixth. All orders and judgments made by the district court or the commissioners in probate matters affecting real estate which are required to be recorded;

Seventh. Notices and declaration of water rights;

Eighth. Assignments for the benefit of creditors;

Ninth. Affidavits of annual work done on mining claims;

Tenth. Notices of mining location and declaratory statements;

Eleventh. Such other writings as are required or permitted by law to be recorded, including the liens of mechanics, laborers, and others:

Provided, Notices of location of mining claims shall be filed for record within ninety days from the date of the discovery of the claim described in the notice, and all instruments shall be recorded in the recording district in which the property or subject-matter affected by the instrument is situated, and where the property or subject-matter is not situated in any established recording district the instrument affecting the same shall be recorded in the office of the clerk of the division of the court having supervision over the recording division in which such property or subject-matter is situated.

SEC. 16. Any clerk or commissioner authorized to record any instrument who having collected fees for so doing fails to record such instrument shall account to his successor in office, or to such person as the court may direct, for all the fees received by him for recording any instrument on file and unrecorded at the expiration of his official term, or at the time he is required to transfer his records to another officer under the direction of the court. And any clerk or commissioner who fails, neglects, or refuses to so account for fees received and not actually earned by the recording of instrument shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction thereof shall be fined not less than one hundred dollars nor more than one thousand dollars, and imprisoned for not more than one year, or until the fees received and unearned as aforesaid shall have been properly accounted for and paid over by him, as hereinbefore provided. And in addition such fees may be recovered from such clerk or commissioner or the bondsmen of either, in a civil action which shall be brought by the district attorney, in the name of the United States, to recover the same; and the amount when recovered shall be by the court transferred to the successor in office of such recorder, who shall thereupon proceed to record the unrecorded instruments: Provided, Miners in any organized mining district may make rules and regulations governing the recording of notices of location of mining claims, water rights, flumes and ditches, mill sites and affidavits of labor, not in conflict with this Act or the general laws of the United States; and nothing in this Act shall be construed so as to prevent the miners in any regularly organized mining district not within any recording district established by the court from electing their own mining recorder to act as such until a recorder therefor is appointed by the court: Provided further, All records heretofore regularly made by the United States commissioner at Dyea, Skagway, and the recorder at Douglas City, not in conflict with any records regularly made with the United States commissioner at Juneau, are hereby legalized. And all records heretofore made in good faith in any regularly organized mining district are hereby made public records, and the same shall be delivered to the recorder for the recording district including such mining district within six months from the passage of this Act.

SEC. 17. Every person appointed as a notary public must at the time of his appointment be a resident of the district and must continue to reside therein during his term of office. Removal from the district vacates his office and is equivalent to resignation.

The term of office of a notary public shall be four years from and after the date of his commission, but he may be sooner removed by the governor for misconduct in office.

SEC. 18. It shall be the duty of a notary public—

First. When requested, to demand acceptance and payment of foreign, domestic, and inland bills of exchange, or promissory notes, and protest the same for nonacceptance and nonpayment, and to exercise such other powers and duties as by the law of nations and according to commercial usages or by the laws of any State, government, or country may be performed by notaries, and keep a record of such acts.

Second. To take acknowledgment or proof of powers of attorney, deeds, mortgages, grants, transfers, and other instruments of writing executed by any person and to give a certificate of such proof or acknowledgment indorsed or attached to the instrument.

Third. To take depositions and affidavits and administer oaths and affirmations in all matters incident to the duties of the office or to be used before any court, judge, or officer.

Fourth. When requested and upon payment of his fees therefor to make and give a certified copy of any record in his office.

Fifth. To provide and keep an official seal, upon which must be engraved the name of the district and the words "Notary Public," with the surname of the notary and at least the initials of his Christian name.

SEC. 19. The protest of a notary public under his hand and seal of a bill of exchange or promissory note for nonacceptance or nonpayment, stating the presentment for acceptance or payment and the nonacceptance or nonpayment thereof, the service of notice on any and all parties to such bill of exchange or promissory note and specifying the mode of giving such notice and the reputed place of residence of the party to such bill of exchange or promissory note and of the party to whom same was given and the post-office nearest thereto is prima facie evidence of the facts contained therein.

Protests of notaries of bills, etc., weight as evidence.

SEC. 20. It shall be the duty of every notary public, on his resignation or removal from office or at the expiration of his term and in case of his death of his legal representative, to forthwith deposit all the records kept by him in the office of the clerk of the division of the district court in which he resides, and on failure to do so the person so offending is liable in damages to any person injured thereby.

Notaries' records to be deposited with clerk of court.

SEC. 21. It shall be the duty of each clerk aforesaid to receive and safely keep all records and papers of the notary in each case above named and to give attested copies of them under his seal, for which he may demand such fees as by law may be allowed to the notaries, and such copies shall have the same effect as if certified by the notary.

—duty of clerk.

SEC. 22. Each notary must execute an official bond in the sum of one thousand dollars, which bond must be approved by the clerk of the division of the district court located nearest his residence.

Bond of notaries.

SEC. 23. Each notary public, upon approval of his official bond, so soon as he has taken his official oath, must transmit such bond and oath, signed by him with his own proper signature to the office of the secretary of the district, whereupon the governor must issue a commission.

—filing, etc.

SEC. 24. For the official misconduct or neglect of a notary public, he and sureties on his official bond are liable to the parties injured thereby for all damages sustained.

Liability of notary for misconduct.

SEC. 25. The officers properly qualified and actually discharging official duties in the district at the time of the approval of this Act may continue to act in their respective official capacities until the expiration of the terms for which they were respectively appointed unless sooner removed.

Continuance in office of existing officials.

SEC. 26. The laws of the United States relating to mining claims, mineral locations, and rights incident thereto are hereby extended to the District of Alaska: Provided, That subject only to such general limitations as may be necessary to exempt navigation from artificial obstructions all land and shoal water between low and mean high tide on the shores, bays, and inlets of Bering Sea, within the jurisdiction of the United States, shall be subject to exploration and mining for gold and other precious metals by citizens of the United States, or persons who have legally declared their intentions to become such, under such reasonable rules and regulations as the miners in organized mining districts may have heretofore made or may hereafter make governing the temporary possession thereof for exploration and mining purposes until otherwise provided by law: Provided further, That the rules and regulations established by the miners shall not be in conflict with the mining laws of the United States; and no exclusive permit shall be granted by the Secretary of War authorizing any person or persons, corporation or company to excavate or mine under any of said waters below low tide, and if such exclusive permit has been granted it is hereby revoked and declared null and void; but citizens of the United States or persons who have legally declared their intention to become such shall have the right to dredge and mine for gold otherwise compensated.

SEC. 30. In case the law requires or authorizes any services to be performed or any act to be done by any official or person within the District of Alaska, and provides no compensation therefor, the Attorney-General may prescribe and promulgate a schedule of such fees, mileage, or other compensation as shall be by him deemed proper for each division of the court, and such schedule shall have the force and effect of law; and the Attorney-General may from time to time amend such schedule and promulgate the same as amended, and the schedule as amended and promulgated shall also have the force and effect of law.

Use of public buildings for court rooms,
etc.

Construction of jails authorized.

SEC. 31. Any of the public buildings in the district not required for the customs service or military purposes may be used for court rooms and offices of the civil government; and the marshals of the district shall, each in his division, be the custodian of such buildings. Any division of the court may, where necessary, order the construction or repair of a jail building at the place or places where terms of the court are held, at a cost not to exceed three thousand dollars for each building, the same to be paid by the clerk as provided for the payment of other allowances for the necessary expenses of the court; and any part or portion of the unappropriated public domain of the United States, embracing not more than four thousand square feet, to be taken in compact form, as near as may be practicable, may be set aside by order of the court as a jail site, which order shall describe the location of the ground selected, where unsurveyed by metes and bounds and by reference to natural objects and permanent monuments, in such manner that its boundaries and its location may be readily determined, a certified copy of which order of the court shall be by the clerk thereof transmitted to the Commissioner of the General Land Office, who shall cause the same to be noted on the records of his office, and thereafter the ground described shall be reserved from sale or other disposition, unless for good cause the court shall vacate the order of reservation or Congress shall otherwise direct, and the sentence of imprisonment in any criminal case shall be carried out by confinement in the penitentiary or jails herein provided for, or as provided in section fifty-five hundred and forty-six of the Revised Statutes of the United States.

Where a suitable court room is not available or can not be obtained at reasonable rental at the place or any of the places where terms of the court are held, the court may enter a like order of reservation and direct the construction of a suitable building where the sessions of the court may be held, the cost of such building not to exceed in any case the sum of five thousand dollars, the same to be paid and proceedings to reserve the land to be as in the case of the reservation of ground and construction of jail, as hereinbefore provided: Provided, No court building or jail shall be constructed in any division of the district without authority from the Attorney-General, to whom the clerk shall furnish a verified account in detail of all expenditures made by him for buildings, repairs, or other purposes, together with his authority for each payment made.

SEC. 32. For each certificate issued to a member of the bar, authorizing him to practice law in the district, a fee of ten dollars shall be paid to the clerk of the court, which shall be by him promptly remitted to the secretary of the district, and at the same time the clerk shall advise the governor of such remittance. For each commission issued to a notary public a fee of ten dollars shall be paid to the secretary of the district. The fees received by the secretary under this section and under chapter seventy-four of title two shall be by him retained and kept in a fund to be known as the district historical library fund. The fund thus collected shall be disbursed on the order of the governor for the purpose of establishing and maintaining the district historical library and museum. The same shall embrace copies of all laws relating to the district, and all papers and periodicals published within the district, and such other matter of historical interest as the governor may consider valuable and appropriate for such collection. The collection shall also embrace such curios relating to the aborigines and the settlers as may be by the governor deemed of historical importance. The collection thus made shall be described by the governor in the annual report of the governor to the Secretary of the Interior, and shall be by him kept in a secure place and turned over to his successor in office. The secretary of the district and the governor shall each annually account to the Secretary of the Interior for all receipts and disbursements in connection with such historical library and museum.

SEC. 33. The historical library and museum provided for in section thirty-two of this title is hereby made a designated depository of publications of the Government, and shall be supplied with one copy of each of said publications in the same manner as such publications are supplied to other depositories.

22. Acknowledgment or new promise must be in writing.
23. Limitation to commence from time of last payment.
24. No action barred by statute when cause accrued can be maintained.

Time of commencing actions in general.

SEC. 3. Civil actions shall only be commenced within the periods prescribed in this title after the cause of action shall have accrued, except when, in special cases, a different limitation is prescribed by statute. But the objection that the action was not commenced within the time limited shall only be taken by answer, except as otherwise provided in section fifty-eight.

Within ten years.

SEC. 4. The periods prescribed in section three of this Act for the commencement of actions shall be as follows:

Within ten years actions for the recovery of real property, or for the recovery of the possession thereof; and no action shall be maintained for such recovery unless it shall appear that the plaintiff, his ancestor, predecessor, or grantor was seized or possessed of the premises in question within ten years before the commencement of the action: Provided, In all cases where a cause of action has already accrued, and the period prescribed in this section within which an action may be brought has expired or will expire within one year from the approval of this Act, an action may be brought on such cause of action within one year from the date of the approval of the Act.

Within ten years.

SEC. 5. Within ten years—

First. An action upon a judgment or decree or any court of the United States, or of any State or Territory within the United States;

Second. An action upon a sealed instrument.

Within six years.

SEC. 6. Within six years—

First. An action upon a contract or liability, express or implied, excepting those mentioned in section five;

Second. An action upon a liability created by statute, other than a penalty or forfeiture;

Third. An action for waste or trespass upon real property;

Fourth. An action for taking, detaining, or injuring personal property, including an action for the specific recovery thereof.

Within three years.

SEC. 7. Within three years—

First. An action against a marshal, coroner, or constable, upon a liability incurred by the doing of an act in his official capacity or in virtue of his office; or by the omission of an official duty, including the nonpayment of money collected upon an execution. But this section shall not apply to an action for an escape;

Second. An action upon a statute for penalty or forfeiture, where the action is given to the party aggrieved, or to such party and the United States, except where the statute imposing it prescribes a different limitation.

SEC. 8. Within two years—

Within two years.

First. An action for libel, slander, assault, battery, seduction, false imprisonment, or for any injury to the person or rights of another not arising on contract and not herein especially enumerated;

Second. An action upon a statute for a forfeiture or penalty to the United States.

SEC. 9. Within one year—

Within one year.

An action against the marshal or other officer for the escape of a person arrested or imprisoned on civil process.

SEC. 10. An action upon the statute for the penalty given in whole or in part to the person who will prosecute for the same shall be commenced within one year after the commission of the offense; and if the action be not commenced within one year by a private party, it may be commenced within two years thereafter, in behalf of the United States, by the district attorney.

Actions for penalty.

SEC. 11. An action for any cause not hereinbefore provided for shall be commenced within ten years after the cause of action shall have accrued.

Actions not before provided for.

SEC. 12. In an action brought to recover a balance due upon a mutual, open, and current account, where there have been reciprocal demands between the parties, the cause of action shall be deemed to have accrued from the date of the last item proved in the account on either side; but whenever a period of more than one year shall elapse between any of a series of items or demands, they are not to be deemed such an account.

When cause of action accrues upon current account.

SEC. 13. The limitations prescribed in this chapter shall apply to actions brought in the name of any public corporation in the district, or for its benefit, in the same manner as to actions by private parties.

Limitations in actions by public corporations.

SEC. 14. An action shall be deemed commenced when the complaint is filed and the summons issued.

When action deemed commenced.

SEC. 15. If, when the cause of action shall accrue against any person who shall be out of the district or concealed therein, such action may be commenced within the terms herein respectively limited, after the return of such person into the district or the time of his concealment; and if, after such cause of action shall have accrued, such person shall depart from and reside out of this district, or conceal himself, the time of his absence or concealment shall not be deemed or taken as any part of the time limited for the commencement of such action.

Exceptions when defendant out of the district.

SEC. 16. If any person entitled to bring an action mentioned in this chapter, or to recover real property, or for a penalty or forfeiture, or against a marshal or other officer for an escape, be at the time the cause of action accrued, either—

Exceptions in favor of persons under legal disability.

First. Within the age of twenty-one years; or

Second. Insane; or

Third. Imprisoned on a criminal charge, or in execution under sentence of a court for a term less than his natural life.

The time of such disability shall not be a part of the time limited for the commencement of the action, but the period within which the action shall be brought shall not be extended in any case longer than two years after such disability ceases.

SEC. 17. If a person entitled to bring an action die before the expiration of the time limited for the commencement thereof, and the cause of action survive, an action may be commenced by his personal representatives, after the expiration of the time and within one year from his death. If a person against whom an action may be brought die before the expiration of the time limited for the commencement thereof, and the cause of action survives, an action may be commenced against his personal representatives after the expiration of that time, and within six months after the issuing of letters testamentary or of administration.

Provisions when person entitled dies before time expires.

In actions by aliens time of war to be deducted.

SEC. 18. When a person shall be an alien subject or citizen of a country at war with the United States, the time of the continuance of the war shall not be a part of the period limited for the commencement of the action.

Time of stay by injunction or statutory prohibition to be deducted.

SEC. 19. When the commencement of an action is stayed by injunction or a statutory prohibition, the time of the continuance of the injunction or prohibition shall not be a part of the time limited for the commencement of the action.

Disability must exist when right of action accrued.

SEC. 20. No person shall avail himself of a disability unless it existed when his right of action accrued.

When several disabilities, limitation does not attach until all removed.

SEC. 21. When two or more disabilities shall coexist at the time the right of action accrues the limitation shall not attach until all such disabilities are removed.

Acknowledgment or new promise must be in writing.

SEC. 22. No acknowledgment or promise shall be sufficient evidence of a new or continuing contract, whereby to take the case out of the operation of this chapter, unless the same is contained in some writing, signed by the party to be charged thereby; but this section shall not alter the effect of any payment of principal or interest.

Limitation to commence from time of last payment.

SEC. 23. Whenever any payment of principal or interest has been or shall be made upon an existing contract, whether it be a bill of exchange, promissory note, bond, or other evidence of indebtedness, if such payment be made after the same shall have become due, the limitation shall commence from the time the last payment was made.

No action barred by statute where cause accrued can be maintained.

SEC. 24. When the cause of action has arisen in any State, Territory, or country between nonresidents of this district, and by the laws of the State, Territory, or country where the cause of action arose an action can not be maintained thereon by reason of the lapse of time, no action shall be maintained thereon in this district.

CHAPTER THREE.

OF THE PARTIES TO ACTIONS.

Sec.

25. Action to be prosecuted in the name of the real party in interest.
26. Assignment of a thing in action not to prejudice defense.
27. Executor or trustee may sue without the person beneficially interested.
28. Married women may prosecute and defend as if unmarried.
29. Infant to appear by guardian.
30. Guardian, how appointed.
31. Who may prosecute for injury or death of a child.
32. Who may prosecute for seduction of a daughter or ward.

Sec.

33. When unmarried female may sue for her own seduction.
34. Parties severally liable on same instrument may be sued together or separately.
35. When action not to abate.
36. When action for wrong not to abate.
37. When third persons may be substituted as defendants.
38. Who may be made parties to action.
39. Who must be made parties to action.
40. When court to decide controversy or order other parties brought in.
41. Who may intervene.

Action to be prosecuted in the name of the real party in interest.

SEC. 25. Every action shall be prosecuted in the name of the real party in interest, except as otherwise provided in section twenty-seven; but this section shall not be deemed to authorize the assignment of a thing in action not arising out of contract.

Assignment of a thing in action not to prejudice defense.

SEC. 26. In the case of an assignment of a thing in action, the action by the assignee shall be without prejudice to any set-off or other defense existing at the time of or before notice of the assignment; but this section shall not apply to a negotiable promissory note or bill of exchange transferred in good faith and upon valuable consideration before due.

SEC. 27. An executor or administrator, a trustee of an express trust, or a person expressly authorized by statute, may sue without joining with him the person for whose benefit the action is prosecuted. A person with whom, or in whose name a contract is made for the benefit of another, is a trustee of an express trust within the meaning of this section.

Executor or trustee may sue without the person beneficially interested.

SEC. 28. A wife may receive the wages of her personal labor, and maintain an action therefor in her own name and hold the same in her own right, and she may prosecute and defend all actions for the preservation and protection of her rights and property as if unmarried.

Married women may prosecute and defend as if unmarried.

SEC. 29. Actions may be commenced and prosecuted by infants, either by guardian or next friend, and by conservators on behalf of the persons they represent.

Infant to appear by guardian.

SEC. 30. In any action it shall be lawful for the court in which the action is pending to appoint a guardian ad litem to any infant or insane defendant in such action, and to compel the person so appointed to act. By such appointment such person shall not be rendered liable to pay costs of action; and he shall, moreover, be allowed a reasonable sum for his charges as such guardian, to be fixed by the court, and taxed in the bill of costs.

Guardian, how appointed.

SEC. 31. A father, or in case of his death or desertion of his family, the mother, may maintain an action as plaintiff for the injury or death of a child, and a guardian for the injury or death of his ward.

Who may prosecute for the death of a child.

SEC. 32. A father, or in case of his death or desertion of his family, the mother, may maintain an action as plaintiff for the seduction of a daughter, and the guardian for the seduction of a ward, though the daughter or ward be not living with or in the service of the plaintiff at the time of the seduction or afterwards, and there be no loss of service.

Who may prosecute for the seduction of a daughter or ward.

SEC. 33. An unmarried female over twenty-one years of age may maintain an action as plaintiff for her own seduction, and recover therein such damages as may be assessed in her favor; but the prosecution of an action to judgment by the father, mother, or guardian, as prescribed in the section last preceding, shall be a bar to an action by such unmarried female.

When unmarried female may sue for her own seduction.

SEC. 34. Persons severally liable upon the same obligation or instrument, including the parties to bills of exchange and promissory notes, may all or any of them be included in the same action, at the option of the plaintiff.

Parties severally liable on same instrument may be sued together or separately.

SEC. 35. No action shall abate by the death or disability of a party, or by the transfer of any interest therein, if the cause of action survive or continue. In case of the death or disability of a party, the court may at any time within two years thereafter, on motion, allow the action to be continued by or against his personal representatives or successor in interest.

When action not to abate.

SEC. 36. An action for a wrong shall not abate by the death of any party after the verdict has been given therein, but the action shall proceed thereafter in the same manner as in cases where the cause of action survives.

When action for wrong not to abate.

SEC. 37. In any action for the recovery of specific personal property, if a third person demand of the defendant the same property, the court, in its discretion, on motion of the defendant, and notice to such person and the adverse party, may, before answer, make an order discharging the defendant from liability to either party, and substitute such person in his place as defendant. Such order shall not be made but on the condition that the defendant deliver the property or its value to such person as the court may direct, nor unless it appears from the affidavit of the defendant, filed with the clerk by the day he is otherwise required to answer, that such person makes such demand without collusion with the defendant. The affidavit of such third person as to whether he makes such demand of the defendant may be read on the hearing of the motion.

When third persons may be substituted as defendants.

Who may be made parties to action.

SEC. 38. All persons having an interest in the subject of the action, and in obtaining the relief demanded, may be joined as plaintiffs, except as in this chapter otherwise provided. Any person may be made a defendant who has or claims an interest in the controversy, adverse to the plaintiff, or who is a necessary party to the complete determination or settlement of the question involved therein.

Who must be made parties to action.

SEC. 39. Of the parties to the action, those who are united in interest must be joined as plaintiffs or defendants; but if the consent of any one who should have been joined can not be obtained he may be made a defendant, the reason thereof being stated in the complaint; and when the question is one of a common or joint interest of many persons, or when the parties are numerous, and it may be impracticable to bring them all into court, one or more may sue or defend for the benefit of the whole.

When court to decide controversy or order other parties brought in.

SEC. 40. The court may determine any controversy between parties before it when it can be done without prejudice to the rights of others, or by saving their rights; but when a complete determination of the controversy can not be had without the presence of other parties, the court shall cause them to be brought in.

Whomay intervene.

SEC. 41. Any person may, before the trial, intervene in an action or proceeding, who has an interest in the matter of litigation, in the success of either of the parties, or an interest against both. An intervention takes place when a third person is permitted to become a party to an action or proceeding, either by joining the plaintiff in claiming what is sought by the complaint, or by uniting with the defendant in resisting the claims of the plaintiff, or by demanding anything adversely to both the plaintiff and the defendant, and is made by complaint setting forth the ground upon which the intervention rests, filed by leave of the court and served upon the parties to the action or proceeding who have not appeared, and upon the attorneys of the parties who have appeared, who may answer or demur to it as if it were an original complaint.

How actions commenced.

SEC. 42. Civil actions shall be commenced by filing a complaint with the clerk of the court, and the provisions of section fourteen shall only apply to this subject for the purpose of determining whether an action has been commenced within the time limited by this title. At any time after the action is commenced the plaintiff may cause a summons to be served on the defendant.

Requisites of summons.

SEC. 43. The summons shall contain the name of the court in which the complaint is filed, the names of the parties to the action, and the title thereof. It shall be issued by the court or the clerk thereof and directed to the defendant, and shall require him to appear and answer the complaint as in this section provided, or judgment for want thereof will be taken against him. The defendant shall appear and answer the complaint within thirty days from the date of the service.

SEC. 44. There shall also be inserted in the summons a notice in substance as follows:

Summons to contain notice of what plaintiff demands.

First. In any action for the recovery of money or damages only that the plaintiff will take judgment for a sum specified therein if the defendant fail to answer the complaint;

Second. In other actions, that if the defendant fail to answer the complaint the plaintiff will apply to the court for the relief demanded therein.

SEC. 45. The summons shall be served by the marshal or any deputy, or by a person specially appointed by him or by the court or judge thereof. The summons shall be returned to the court or clerk thereof with whom the complaint is filed within forty days after its delivery to the officer or other person for service, with proof of such service or that the defendant can not be found. The marshal or other person to whom the summons is delivered shall indorse thereon the date of such delivery.

By whom served and where and when returned.

SEC. 46. The summons shall be served by delivering a copy thereof, together with a copy of the complaint prepared and certified by the plaintiff, his agent, or attorney, or by the clerk of the court as follows:

How served and upon whom.

First. If the action be against a private corporation, to the president or other head of the corporation, secretary, cashier, or managing agent, or, in case none of the officers of the corporation above named shall reside or have an office in the district, then to any clerk or agent of such corporation who may reside or be found in the district, or if no such officer be found, then by leaving a copy thereof at the residence or usual place of abode of such clerk or agent;

Second. If against any incorporated town, school district, or other public corporation in the district, to the clerk of such incorporated town, school district, or other public corporation;

Third. If against a minor under the age of fourteen years, to such minor personally, and also to his father, mother, or guardian, or if there be none within the district, then to any person having the care or control of such minor, or with whom he resides, or in whose service he is employed;

Fourth. If against a person judicially declared to be of unsound mind, or incapable of conducting his own affairs, and if a guardian has been appointed, to such guardian and to the defendant personally;

Fifth. In all cases, to the defendant personally, or if he be not found, to some person of the family above the age of fourteen years at the dwelling house or usual place of abode of the defendant.

SEC. 47. When service of the summons can not be made as prescribed in the last preceding section, and the defendant after due diligence can not be found within the district, and when that fact appears by affidavit to the satisfaction of the court or judge thereof, or justice of the peace in an action in a justice's court, and it also appears that a cause of action exists against the defendant, or that he is a proper party to an action relating to real or personal property in the district, the court or judge thereof, or a justice of the peace in an action in a justice's court, shall grant an order that the service be made by publication of the summons in either of the following cases:

When order for publication may be made.

First. When the defendant is a foreign corporation, and has property within the district, or the cause of action arose therein;

Second. When the defendant, being a resident of the district, has departed therefrom with intent to defraud his creditors or to avoid the service of the summons, or with like intent keeps himself concealed therein, or has departed from the district and remained absent therefrom six consecutive weeks;

Third. When the defendant is not a resident of the district, but has property therein, and the court has jurisdiction of the subject of the action;

Fourth. When an action is to have a marriage declared void, or for a divorce in the cases prescribed by law;

Fifth. When the subject of the action is personal property in the district, and the defendant has a claim or lien, of interest, actual or contingent, therein, or the relief demanded consists wholly or partly in excluding the defendant from any interest or lien therein;

Sixth. When the action is to foreclose, satisfy, or redeem from a mortgage, or to enforce a lien of any kind on real estate in said district, or satisfy or redeem from the same. The summons, published shall contain the name of the court and the title of the cause, a succinct statement of the relief demanded, the date of the order for service by publication, and the time within which the defendant is required to answer the complaint.

Publication, how made; personal service out of the district.

SEC. 48. The order shall direct the publication to be made in a newspaper to be designated by the court or judge or clerk as the most likely to give notice to the person to be served, and for such length of time as may be deemed reasonable, not less than once a week for six weeks. In case of publication, the court or judge shall also direct a copy of the summons and complaint to be forthwith deposited in the post-office, directed to the defendant at his place of residence, unless it shall appear that such residence is neither known to the party making the application nor can with reasonable diligence be ascertained by him. When publication is ordered, personal service of a copy of the summons and complaint out of the district shall be equivalent to publication and deposit in the post-office. In either case, the defendant shall appear and answer within thirty days after the completion of such period of publication. In case of personal service out of the district, the summons shall specify the time prescribed in the order for publication.

When defendant may be allowed to defend after judgment.

SEC. 49. The defendant against whom publication is ordered, or his personal representatives, on application and sufficient cause shown, at any time before judgment shall be allowed to defend the action; and the defendant against whom publication is ordered, or his representatives, may in like manner, upon good cause shown, and upon such terms as may be proper, be allowed to defend after judgment and within one year after the entry of such judgment on such terms as may be just; and if the defense be successful, and the judgment or any part thereof have been collected or otherwise enforced, such restitution may thereupon be compelled as the court shall direct. But the title to property sold upon execution issued on such judgment to a purchaser in good faith shall not be thereby affected.

When the summons is returned not found, how plaintiff may proceed.

SEC. 50. Whenever it shall appear by the return of the marshal, his deputy, or the person appointed to serve a summons that the defendant is not found, the plaintiff may deliver another summons to be served, and so on, until service be had; or the plaintiff may proceed by publication, as in this chapter provided, at his election.

When summons not served on all the defendants.

SEC. 51. When the action is against two or more defendants, and the summons is served on one or more but not all of them, the plaintiff may proceed as follows:

First. If the action be against defendants jointly indebted upon a contract, he may proceed against the defendants served, unless the court otherwise direct; and if he recover judgment, it may be entered against all the defendants thus jointly indebted so far only as that it may be enforced against the joint property of all and the separate property of the defendant served, and if they are subject to arrest, against the persons of the defendants served; or,

Second. If the action be against the defendants severally liable, he may proceed against the defendants served in the same manner as if they were the only defendants; or,

Third. If all the defendants have been served, judgment may be taken against any or either of them severally, when the plaintiff would be entitled to judgment against such defendant or defendants, if the action had been against them, or any of them alone.

SEC. 52. Proof of the service of the summons, or of the deposit thereof in the post-office, shall be as follows: Proof of service of summons.

First. If the service or deposit in the post-office be by the marshal or his deputy, the certificate of such officer; or,

Second. If by any other person, his affidavit thereof; or,

Third. In case of publication, the affidavit of the printer or his foreman, or his principal clerk, showing the same; or,

Fourth. The written admission of the defendant in case of service otherwise than by publication; the certificate, affidavit, or admission must state the time and place of service; and in case of deposit in the post-office, the time and place thereof.

SEC. 53. From the time of the service of the summons or the allowance of a provisional remedy the court shall be deemed to have acquired jurisdiction and to have control of all the subsequent proceedings. A voluntary appearance of the defendant shall be equivalent to personal service of the summons upon him. When court acquires jurisdiction.

CHAPTER FIVE.

OF THE PLEADINGS.

Sec. 54. Forms of pleadings, how determined.	Sec. 55. Pleadings on the part of plaintiff and defendant.
---	---

SEC. 54. All the forms of pleading heretofore existing in actions at law and suits in equity and in admiralty are abolished, and hereafter the forms of pleading in courts of record and the rules by which the sufficiency of the pleadings is to be determined shall be those prescribed by this code. Forms of pleadings, how determined.

SEC. 55. The only pleadings on the part of the plaintiff shall be— Pleadings on the part of plaintiff.

First. The complaint;

Second. The demurrer; or,

Third. The reply.

And on the part of the defendant— —defendant.

First. The demurrer; or,

Second. The answer.

OF THE COMPLAINT.

Sec. 56. First pleading to be complaint.	Sec. 57. What complaint to contain.
---	--

SEC. 56. The first pleading on the part of the plaintiff shall be the complaint. First pleading to be complaint.

SEC. 57. The complaint shall contain—

First. The title of the cause, specifying the name of the court and the names of the parties to the action, plaintiff and defendant.

Second. A plain and concise statement of the facts constituting the cause of action, without unnecessary repetition.

Third. A demand of the relief which the plaintiff claims. If the recovery of money or damages be demanded the amount thereof shall be stated. What complaint to contain.

CHAPTER SEVEN.

OF THE DEMURRER.

Sec.	Sec.
58. When the defendant may demur, and for what.	60. How to proceed if complaint be amended.
59. Demurrer must specify ground of objection.	61. Objection when taken by answer.
	62. Objection when deemed waived.

When defendant may demur, and for what.

SEC. 58. The defendant may demur to the complaint within the time required by law to appear and answer, when it appears upon the face thereof, either—

First. That the court has no jurisdiction of the person of the defendant or the subject of the action; or,

Second. That the plaintiff has no legal capacity to sue; or,

Third. That there is another action pending between the same parties for the same cause; or,

Fourth. That there is a defect of parties plaintiff or defendant; or,

Fifth. That several causes of action have been improperly united; or,

Sixth. That the complaint does not state facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action; or,

Seventh. That the action has not been commenced within the time limited by this code.

Demurrer must specify ground of objection.

SEC. 59. The demurrer shall distinctly specify the grounds of objection to the complaint; unless it does so it may be disregarded. It may be taken to the whole complaint or to any of the alleged causes of action stated therein.

How to proceed if complaint be amended.

SEC. 60. If the complaint be amended, a copy thereof shall be served on the defendant or his attorney, and the defendant shall answer the same within such time as may be prescribed by the court, and if he omit to do so the plaintiff may proceed to obtain judgment as in other cases of failure to answer.

Objection, when taken by answer.

SEC. 61. When any of the matters enumerated in section fifty-eight do not appear upon the face of the complaint the objection may be taken by answer.

Objection, when deemed waived.

SEC. 62. If no objection be taken, either by demurrer or answer, the defendant shall be deemed to have waived the same, excepting only the objection to the jurisdiction of the court and the objection that the complaint does not state facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action.

CHAPTER EIGHT.

OF THE ANSWER.

Sec.	Sec.
63. What the answer shall contain.	66. Sham and irrelevant answers stricken out on motion.
64. Nature of counterclaim, and how stated.
65. Defendant may demur to one or more of several causes of action and answer the rest.

What the answer shall contain.

SEC. 63. The answer of the defendant shall contain—

First. A general or specific denial of each material allegation of the complaint controverted by the defendant, or of any knowledge or information thereof sufficient to form a belief.

Second. A statement of any new matter constituting a defense or counterclaim in ordinary and concise language without repetition.

Nature of counterclaim, and how stated.

SEC. 64. The counterclaim mentioned in the last preceding section must be one existing in favor of the defendant and against a plaintiff, between whom a several judgment might be had in the action, and arising out of the following causes of action:

First. A cause of action arising out of the contract or transaction set forth in the complaint as the foundation of the plaintiff's claim.

Second. In an action arising on contract, any other cause of action arising also on contract, and existing at the commencement of the action.

The defendant may set forth by answer as many defenses and counterclaims as he may have. They shall each be separately stated and refer to the causes of action which they are intended to answer in such manner that they may be intelligibly distinguished.

SEC. 65. The defendant may demur to one or more of several causes of action stated in the complaint and answer the residue.

SEC. 66. Sham, frivolous, and irrelevant answers and defenses may be stricken out on motion, and upon such terms as the court may in its discretion impose.

The defendant may demur to one or more of several causes of action and answer the rest.

Sham and irrelevant answers stricken out on motion.

CHAPTER NINE.

OF THE REPLY.

Sec.

67. Reply, when made, and what to contain.

68. When plaintiff may demur to new matter in answer.

Sec.

69. When defendant may move for judgment on answer.

70. When defendant may demur to reply.

SEC. 67. When the answer contains new matter, constituting a defense or counterclaim, the plaintiff may reply to such new matter, denying generally or specifically each allegation controverted by him or any knowledge or information thereof sufficient to form a belief; and he may allege in ordinary and concise language, without repetition, any new matter not inconsistent with the complaint, constituting a defense to such new matter in the answer.

Reply, when made and what to contain.

SEC. 68. The plaintiff may demur to an answer containing new matter when it appears upon the face thereof that such new matter does not constitute a defense or counterclaim; or he may, for like cause, demur to one or more of such defenses or counterclaims and reply to the residue.

When plaintiff may demur to new matter in answer.

SEC. 69. If the answer contain a statement of new matter, constituting a defense or counterclaim, and the plaintiff fail to reply or demur thereto within the time prescribed by law or rule of the court, the defendant may move the court for such judgment as he is entitled to on the pleadings, and if the case require it he may have a jury called to assess the damages.

When defendant may move for judgment on answer.

SEC. 70. The defendant may demur to any new matter contained in the reply when it appears upon the face thereof that such matter is not a sufficient reply to the facts stated in the answer. Sham, frivolous, and irrelevant replies may be stricken out in like manner and on the same terms as like answers and defenses.

When defendant may demur to reply.

CHAPTER TEN.

OF THE GENERAL RULES OF PLEADING.

Sec.

71. Verification of pleadings.

72. When verification may be omitted.

73. When pleadings filed, motion to strike out.

74. Manner of pleading an account.

75. How pleadings construed.

76. Irrelevant and redundant matter may be stricken out.

77. Judgments, how pleaded.

78. Conditions precedent, how pleaded. Private statute, how pleaded.

Sec.

80. City ordinance, how pleaded.

81. Libel or slander, how pleaded.

82. What may be pleaded in answer in such cases.

83. Answer in action to recover the possession of property distrained.

84. What causes of action may be united in same complaint.

85. Material allegation not denied to be deemed true.

86. What is material allegation.

SEC. 71. Every pleading shall be subscribed by the party or his attorney, and, except a demurrer, shall also be verified by the party,

Verification of pleadings.

his agent or attorney, to the effect that he believes it to be true. The verification must be made by the affidavit of the party, or, if there be several parties united in interest and pleading together, by one, at least, of such parties, if such parties be within the district and capable of making the affidavit; otherwise the affidavit may be made by the agent or attorney of the party. The affidavit may also be made by the agent or attorney if the action or defense be founded on a written instrument for the payment of money only, and such instrument be in the possession of the agent or attorney, or if all the material allegations of the pleading be within the personal knowledge of the agent or attorney. When the affidavit is made by the agent or attorney, it must set forth the reason of his making it. When a corporation is a party, the verification may be made by any officer thereof upon whom service of a summons might be made, and when the United States, or any officer thereof in its behalf, is a party, the verification may be made by any person to whom all the material allegations of the pleading are known.

When verification may be omitted.

SEC. 72. When, in the judgment of the court, an answer to an allegation in any pleading might subject the party answering to a prosecution for felony, the verification of the answer to such allegation may be omitted.

When pleadings filed.

SEC. 73. The answer or demurrer to the complaint shall be filed with the clerk by the time required to answer, and the demurrer, or reply thereto, as the case may be, must in like manner be filed by the first day of the next term of the court, or within such time as the court may allow after the filing of the answer to the complaint, if the same be filed in term time. A demurrer to a reply must be filed in the manner and within the time required to file a demurrer to an answer. A motion —motion to strike out.

to strike out a pleading for want of verification or subscription, or because several causes of action or defense therein are not pleaded separately, or for other cause, or a sham, frivolous, or irrelevant pleading or redundant matter therein, shall be made within the time for answering such pleading.

Manner of pleading an account.

SEC. 74. A party may set forth in a pleading the items of an account therein alleged, or file a copy thereof, with the pleading verified by his own oath, or that of his agent or attorney, if within the personal knowledge of such agent or attorney, to the effect that he believes it to be true. If he do neither, he shall deliver to the adverse party, within five days after a demand thereof in writing, a copy of the account, verified as in this section provided, or be precluded from giving evidence thereof. The court or judge thereof may order a further account when the one filed or delivered is defective.

How pleadings construed.

SEC. 75. In the construction of a pleading for the purpose of determining its effect, its allegation shall be liberally construed, with a view of substantial justice between the parties.

Irrelevant and redundant matter may be stricken out.

SEC. 76. If irrelevant or redundant matter be inserted in the pleading, it may be stricken out on motion of the adverse party; and when the allegations of a pleading are so indefinite or uncertain that the precise nature of the charge or defense is not apparent, the court may require the pleading to be made definite and certain by amendment.

Judgments, how pleaded.

SEC. 77. In pleading a judgment or other determination of a court or officer of special jurisdiction it shall not be necessary to state the facts conferring jurisdiction, but such judgment or determination may be stated to have been duly given or made. If such allegation be controverted, the party pleading shall be bound to establish on the trial the facts conferring jurisdiction.

Conditions precedent, how pleaded.

SEC. 78. In pleading the performance of a condition precedent in a contract it shall not be necessary to state the facts showing such performance, but it may be stated generally that the party duly performed all the conditions on his part; and if such allegation be controverted the party pleading shall be bound to establish on the trial the facts showing such performance.

SEC. 79. In pleading a private statute, or a right derived therefrom, it shall be sufficient to refer to such statute by its title and the day of its passage, and the court shall thereupon take judicial notice thereof. Private statute, how pleaded.

SEC. 80. In pleading an ordinance or enactment of any incorporated city, town, or village, or a right derived therefrom, in any action, or proceeding, it shall be sufficient to refer to such ordinance or enactment by its title and the day of its approval, and the court shall thereupon take judicial notice thereof. City ordinance, how pleaded.

SEC. 81. In an action for libel or slander it shall not be necessary to state in the complaint any extrinsic facts for the purpose of showing the application to the plaintiff of the defamatory matter out of which the cause of action arose, but it shall be sufficient to state generally that the same was published or spoken concerning the plaintiff, and if such allegation be controverted the plaintiff shall be bound to establish on trial that it was so published or spoken. Libel or slander, how pleaded.

SEC. 82. In the actions mentioned in the last section the defendant may, in his answer, allege both the truth of the matter charged as defamatory and any mitigating circumstances to reduce the amount of damages; and whether he prove the justification or not he may give in evidence the mitigating circumstances. What may be pleaded in answer in such cases.

SEC. 83. In an action to recover the possession of property distrained doing damage, an answer that the defendant or person by whose command he acted was lawfully possessed of the real property upon which the distress was made, and that the property distrained was at the time doing damage thereon, shall be good without setting forth the title to such real property. Answer in action to recover the possession of property distrained.

SEC. 84. The plaintiff may unite several causes of action in the same complaint when they all arise out of— What causes of action may be united in same complaint.

First. Contract, express or implied; or Second. Injuries, with or without force, to the person; or Third. Injuries, with or without force, to property; or Fourth. Injuries to character; or

Fifth. Claims to recover real property, with or without damages for the withholding thereof; or

Sixth. Claims to recover personal property, with or without damages for the withholding thereof; or Seventh. Claims against a trustee by virtue of a contract or by operation of law.

But the causes of action so united must all belong to one only of these classes, and must affect all the parties to the action and not require different places of trial, and must be separately stated.

SEC. 85. Every material allegation of the complaint not controverted by the answer, and every material allegation of new matter in the answer not controverted by the reply, shall, for the purpose of the action, be taken as true; but the allegation of new matter in a reply is to be deemed controverted by the adverse party as upon a direct denial or the avoidance, as the case may require. Material allegation not denied to be deemed true.

SEC. 86. A material allegation in a pleading is one essential to the claim or defense, and which could not be stricken from the pleading without leaving it insufficient as to such claim or defense. What is material allegation.

CHAPTER ELEVEN.

OF MISTAKES IN PLEADINGS AND AMENDMENTS.

Sec.	Sec.
87. When variance deemed material.	94. When defendant may be sued by fictitious name.
88. When variance not material.	95. Amended pleadings before trial to be new pleadings.
89. What deemed a failure of proof.	96. Pleading not verified, or containing several causes of action or defense not separately stated, may be stricken out.
90. What pleading may be amended of course.	97. No error to be regarded unless it affect substantial rights.
91. Amendments and pleading over after demurrer.	98. Supplemental pleadings.
92. Amendments allowed by court before trial or submission.
93. Court may enlarge time to plead, or relieve party from judgment.

When variance deemed material.

SEC. 87. No variance between the allegation in a pleading and the proof shall be deemed material, unless it shall have actually misled the adverse party to his prejudice in maintaining his action or defense upon the merits. Whenever it shall be alleged that a party has been so misled, that fact shall be proved to the satisfaction of the court, and in what respect he has been misled; and thereupon the court may order the pleading to be amended upon such terms as shall be just.

When variance not material.

SEC. 88. When the variance is not material, as provided in the last section, the court may direct the fact to be found according to the evidence, or may order an immediate amendment, without costs.

What deemed a failure of proof.

SEC. 89. When, however, the allegation of the cause of action or defense to which the proof is directed is unproved, not in some particular or particulars only, but in its entire scope and meaning, it shall not be deemed a case of variance within the last two sections, but a failure of proof.

What pleading may be amended of course.

SEC. 90. Any pleading may be once amended by the party of course, without costs and without prejudice to the proceedings already had, at any time before the period for answering it shall expire; in such case a copy of the amended pleading shall be served on the adverse party before the expiration of said period.

Amendments and pleading over after demurrer.

SEC. 91. After the decision upon a demurrer, if it be overruled, and it appears that such demurrer was interposed in good faith, the court may, in its discretion, allow the party to plead over, upon such terms as may be proper. If the demurrer be sustained the court may, in its discretion, allow the party to amend the pleading demurred to, upon such terms as may be proper.

Amendments allowed by court before trial or submission.

SEC. 92. The court may, at any time before trial, in furtherance of justice, and upon such terms as may be proper, allow any pleading or proceeding to be amended by adding the name of a party, or other allegation material to the cause, and in like manner and for like reasons it may, at any time before the cause is submitted, allow such pleading or proceeding to be amended, by striking out the name of any party, or by correcting a mistake in the name of a party, or a mistake in any other respect, or when the amendment does not substantially change the cause of action or defense, by conforming the pleading or proceeding to the facts proved.

Court may enlarge time to plead, or relieve party from judgment.

SEC. 93. The court may likewise, in its discretion and upon such terms as may be just, allow an answer or reply to be made or other act to be done after the time limited by this code, or by an order enlarge such time; and may also, in its discretion, and upon such terms as may be just, at any time within one year after notice thereof, relieve a party from a judgment, order, or other proceeding taken against him through his mistake, inadvertence, surprise, or excusable neglect.

When plaintiff may be sued by fictitious name.

SEC. 94. When the plaintiff shall be ignorant of the name of a defendant, such defendant may be designated in any pleading or proceeding by any name; and when his true name shall be discovered, the pleading or proceeding may be amended accordingly.

SEC. 95. When any pleading or proceeding is amended before trial, mere clerical errors excepted, it shall be done by filing a new pleading, to be called the amended complaint, or otherwise, as the case may be. Such amended pleading shall be complete in itself without reference to the original or any preceding amended one. Amended pleadings before trial to be new pleadings.

SEC. 96. Any pleading not duly verified and subscribed may, on motion of the adverse party, be stricken out of the case. When any pleading contains more than one cause of action or defense, if the same be not pleaded separately, such pleading may, on motion of the adverse party, be stricken out of the case. When a motion to strike out is allowed, the court may, upon such terms as may be proper, allow the party to file an amended pleading, or if the motion be disallowed, and it appear to have been made in good faith, the court may, upon like terms, allow the party to plead over. Pleading not verified, or containing several causes of action or defense not separately stated, may be stricken out.

SEC. 97. The court shall, in every stage of an action, disregard any error or defect in the pleadings or proceedings which shall not affect the substantial rights of the adverse party. No error to be regarded unless it affect substantial rights.

SEC. 98. The plaintiff and defendant, respectively, may be allowed on motion to make a supplemental complaint, answer, or reply, alleging facts material to the case occurring after the former complaint, answer, or reply. Copies of all pleadings subsequent to the complaint must be served upon the adverse party or his attorney. Supplemental pleadings.

CHAPTER TWELVE.

OF ARREST AND BAIL.

Sec.

- 99. When defendant may be arrested.
- 100. Proceeding to obtain an arrest.
- 101. Defendant may be discharged on bail or deposit.
- 102. Bail, how given.
- 103. Surrender of defendant.
- 104. Same subject.
- 105. Bail, how proceeded against.
- 106. How exonerated.
- 107. Delivery of copy of undertaking.
- 108. Notice of justification of bail.
- 109. Qualification of bail.
- 110. Justification of bail.
- 111. Allowance of bail.
- 112. Deposit of money in lieu of bail.
- 113. Payment by marshal of deposit to clerk.

Sec.

- 114. Bail may be given and deposit refunded.
- 115. Deposit, how applied or disposed of.
- 116. When marshal liable as bail and how discharged from such liability.
- 117. Judgment against marshal as bail.
- 118. When bail liable to marshal.
- 119. Plaintiff liable in the first instance for the maintenance of defendant.
- 120. When marshal may discharge defendant for nonpayment of maintenance.
- 121. Motion to vacate writ of arrest.
- 122. Proceedings thereon.

SEC. 99. No person shall be arrested in any civil action at law except as provided in this section. The defendant may be arrested in the following cases: When defendant may be arrested.

First. In an action for the recovery of money or damages, when the defendant is about to remove from the district with intent to defraud his creditors, or when the action is for an injury to person, or for wilfully injuring or wrongfully taking, detaining, or converting property.

Second. In an action for a fine or penalty, or for money, or property embezzled or fraudulently misapplied or converted to his own use by a public officer, or by an attorney, or by an officer or agent of a corporation in the course of his employment as such, or by any factor, agent, broker, or other person in a fiduciary capacity, or for any misconduct or neglect in office or in a professional employment.

Third. In an action to recover the possession of personal property unjustly detained, when the property or any part thereof has been concealed, removed, or disposed of, so that it can not be found or taken by the marshal, and with intent that it should not be so found or taken, or with the intent to deprive the plaintiff of the benefit thereof.

Fourth. When the defendant has been guilty of a fraud in contracting a debt, or incurring the obligation for which the action is brought, or in concealing or disposing of the property for the taking, detention, or conversion of which the action is brought.

Fifth. When the defendant has removed or disposed of his property, or is about to do so, with intent to defraud his creditors.

But no female shall be arrested in any action except for injury to person, character, or property.

Proceeding to obtain an arrest.

SEC. 100. The mode of proceeding to obtain the arrest of the defendant for any of the causes specified in the section last preceding shall be as provided in this section:

First. At any time after the commencement of an action at law, and before judgment, the plaintiff in such action shall, in the discretion of the court, or the judge thereof be entitled to a writ of arrest for such defendant whenever he shall make and file with the clerk of the court in which such action is commenced, or is at the time pending, an affidavit that the plaintiff has a sufficient cause of action therein, and that the case is one of those mentioned in the section last preceding; and shall also make and file with such clerk an undertaking, with sufficient sureties, in a sum not less than three hundred dollars, and equal to the amount for which the plaintiff prays judgment. Such undertaking shall be conditioned that the plaintiff will pay all costs that may be adjudged to the defendant and all damages which he may sustain by reason of the arrest if the same be wrongful or without sufficient cause, not exceeding the amount specified in the undertaking.

Second. The affidavit may be either positive or upon information and belief; but if the latter, it shall state the facts upon which the belief is founded. The plaintiff shall also file with his undertaking the affidavits of the sureties therein, from which it must appear that such sureties are residents of the district, and that they are, taken together, worth double the amount of the sum specified in the undertaking over all debts and liabilities and property exempt from execution. No person not qualified to become bail upon arrest is qualified to become surety in an undertaking for an arrest.

Third. The writ of arrest shall be issued by the court, judge, or commissioner in his or its discretion, and shall require the marshal forthwith to arrest the defendant and hold him to bail in the amount specified in the undertaking, and that in default thereof he keep him in custody until discharged by law, and to return the writ to the court from which it issued, with his doings indorsed thereon, when required by the plaintiff at any time before the defendant may be arrested, or afterwards whenever the defendant shall have been discharged from the arrest on bail or otherwise.

Fourth. The plaintiff shall deliver or cause to be delivered to the marshal with the writ a copy of the affidavit upon which the warrant was issued, subscribed by himself or attorney. The marshal, upon the delivery of the writ, shall indorse thereon the date of the receipt, and upon the arrest of the defendant shall deliver to him a copy of the writ and such copy of the affidavit. The marshal shall execute the writ by arresting the defendant and keeping him in custody until discharged by law.

Defendant may be discharged on bail or deposit.

SEC. 101. The defendant, at any time before execution, shall be discharged from the arrest, either upon giving bail or upon depositing the amount mentioned in the writ of arrest, as provided in this chapter.

SEC. 102. The defendant may give bail by causing a written undertaking to be executed in favor of the plaintiff by sufficient sureties, stating their places of residence, to the effect that the defendant shall at all times render himself amenable to the process of the court during the pendency of the action, and to such as may be issued to enforce the judgment therein, or if he be arrested for the cause mentioned in the third subdivision of section ninety-nine, an undertaking to the same effect as that provided by section one hundred and twenty-seven.

Bail, how given.

SEC. 103. At any time before failure to comply with the undertaking the bail may surrender the defendant in their exoneration, or he may surrender himself to the marshal in the following manner:

Surrender of defendant.

First. A certified copy of the undertaking of the bail shall be delivered to the marshal, who shall detain the defendant in his custody thereon as upon a writ of arrest, and shall, by a certificate in writing, acknowledge the surrender.

Second. Upon a production of a copy of the undertaking and marshal's certificate, the court may, upon a notice to the plaintiff of eight days, with a copy of the certificate, order that the bail be exonerated, and on filing the order and the papers used on the application with the clerk of the court where the action is pending they shall be exonerated accordingly. But this section shall not apply to an arrest for cause mentioned in the third subdivision of section ninety-nine so far as to discharge the bail from an undertaking given to the effect provided by section one hundred and twenty-eight.

SEC. 104. For the purpose of surrendering the defendant, the bail at any time and place, before they are finally charged, may themselves arrest him, or by a written authority, indorsed on a certified copy of the undertaking, may empower the marshal or any other person of suitable age and discretion to do so.

Same subject.

SEC. 105. In case of the failure to comply with the undertaking, the bail may be proceeded against by action only.

Bail, how proceeded against.

SEC. 106. The bail may be exonerated, either by the death of the defendant or his imprisonment in the penitentiary, or by his legal discharge from the obligation to render himself amenable to the process, or by his surrender to the marshal or any deputy in execution thereof, within twenty days after the commencement of the action against the bail or within such further time as may be granted by the court.

How exonerated.

SEC. 107. Within five days after the execution of the undertaking of the bail the marshal or deputy having the defendant in custody shall deliver to the plaintiff or his attorney, or such other person as the plaintiff may direct, a certified copy of the undertaking, with the data of the arrest indorsed thereon. In any other case the marshal may mail such copy within the same time to the plaintiff or his attorney, within the district, or to either of them, as the plaintiff may direct. The plaintiff, within ten days from the delivery of such copy, or fifteen days from the mailing of the same, if sent by mail, may serve upon the marshal or deputy for the defendant in custody a notice that he does not accept the bail, or he shall be deemed to have accepted it, and the marshal shall be exonerated from liability. If no notice be served within ten days, the original undertaking shall be filed with the court where the action is pending.

Delivery of copy of undertaking.

SEC. 108. On the receipt of such notice the marshal or defendant may, within ten days thereafter, give to the plaintiff or his attorney notice of the justification of the same or other bail, specifying the place of residence and occupation of the latter, before a judge of the district court or clerk of the court where the action is pending, or a commissioner, at a specified time and place, the time to be not less than five nor more than ten days thereafter. In case neither the plaintiff nor his attorney reside within one hundred miles from where the arrest is made, the notice may be served upon the person, and in the manner provided for serving the copy of the undertaking in the section last preceding. In case other bail be given there shall be a new undertaking, in the form and to the effect prescribed in section one hundred and two.

Notice of justification of bail.

Qualifications of bail.

SEC. 109. The qualifications of bail shall be as follows:

First. Each of them shall be a resident within the district; but no counselor or attorney at law, marshal, deputy marshal, commissioner, clerk of any court, or other officer of any court shall be permitted to become bail in any action.

Second. Each of them shall be worth the amount specified in the writ of arrest, or the amount to which the same may be reduced as provided in this chapter, over and above all debts and liabilities, and exclusive of property exempt from execution; but the judge, clerk, or commissioner on justification may allow more than two sureties to justify severally in amounts less than that expressed in the writ, if the whole justification shall be equivalent to that of two sufficient bail.

Justification of bail.

SEC. 110. For the purpose of justification each of the bail shall attend before the judge, commissioner, or clerk at the time and place mentioned in the notice, and may be examined on oath, on the part of the plaintiff, touching his sufficiency, in such manner as the judge, commissioner, or clerk in his discretion may think proper. The examination shall be reduced to writing and subscribed by the bail, if required by the plaintiff.

Allowance of bail.

SEC. 111. If the judge, commissioner, or clerk shall find the bail sufficient, he shall annex the examination to the undertaking, indorse his allowance thereon, and cause them to be filed with the clerk of the court in which the action is pending; and the marshal shall thereupon be exonerated from liability.

Deposit of money in lieu of bail.

SEC. 112. The defendant may, at the time of his arrest, instead of giving bail, deposit with the marshal the amount mentioned in the writ. Thereupon the marshal shall give the defendant a certificate of the deposit made and the defendant shall be discharged out of custody.

Payment by marshal of deposit to clerk.

SEC. 113. The marshal shall, within ten days after the deposit, pay the same into the court, and take from the clerk receiving the same two certificates of such payment, the one of which he shall deliver to the plaintiff or his attorney and the other to the defendant. For any default in making such payment, the same proceedings may be had on the official bond of the marshal to collect the sum deposited as in other cases of delinquency.

Bail may be given and deposit refunded.

SEC. 114. If money be deposited, as provided in the last two sections, bail may be given and justified upon notice, as prescribed in section one hundred and two, at any time before judgment, and on the filing of the undertaking and justification with the clerk the money deposited shall be refunded by such clerk to the defendant.

Deposit, how applied or disposed of.

SEC. 115. When money shall have been so deposited, if it remain on deposit at the time of an order or judgment for the payment of money to the plaintiff, the clerk shall, under the direction of the court, apply the same in satisfaction thereof, and, after satisfying the judgment, shall refund the surplus, if any, to the defendant. If the judgment be in favor of the defendant, the clerk shall refund to him the whole sum deposited and remaining unapplied.

When marshal liable as bail and how discharged from such liability.

SEC. 116. If, after being arrested, the defendant escape or be rescued, or bail be not given or justified, or a deposit be not made instead thereof, the marshal himself shall be liable as bail; but he may discharge himself from such liability by the giving and justification of bail, as provided in sections one hundred and eight, one hundred and nine, one hundred and ten, and one hundred and eleven, at any time before process against the person of the defendant to enforce an order or judgment in the action.

SEC. 117. If a judgment be recovered against the marshal upon his liability as bail, and an execution thereon be returned unsatisfied, in whole or in part, the same proceedings may be had on his official bond for the recovery of the whole or any deficiency as in other cases of delinquency.

Judgment against marshal as bail.

SEC. 118. The bail taken upon arrest shall, unless they justify, or other bail be given or justified, be liable to the marshal by action for any damages which he may sustain by reason of such omission.

When bail liable to marshal.

SEC. 119. The fees which shall be allowed to the marshal for the food and maintenance of any defendant arrested under the provisions of this chapter shall be as provided by law, and the plaintiff shall be liable in the first instance for such fees, and if required by the marshal, shall pay the same weekly in advance; and such fees so paid shall be added to the disbursements taxed or accruing in the case, and be collected as other disbursements.

Plaintiff liable in the first instance for the maintenance of defendant.

SEC. 120. If the plaintiff shall neglect to pay such fees for three days after a demand of payment the marshal may discharge the defendant out of custody.

When marshal may discharge defendant for nonpayment of maintenance.

SEC. 121. A defendant arrested may, at any time before judgment, apply on motion to the court or judge thereof in which the action is pending, upon notice to the plaintiff, to vacate the writ of arrest.

Motion to vacate writ of arrest.

SEC. 122. If a motion be made upon affidavits or other proofs on the part of the defendant, but not otherwise, the plaintiff may oppose the same by affidavits or other proofs in addition to those upon which the writ was issued. If upon the hearing of such motion it shall satisfactorily appear that there was not sufficient cause to allow the writ, or that there is other good cause which would entitle him to be discharged on habeas corpus the same shall be vacated, or in case he has given bail the court may discharge the same or reduce the amount thereof on good cause shown.

Proceedings thereon.

CHAPTER THIRTEEN.

OF THE RECOVERY OF PERSONAL PROPERTY.

Sec.	Sec.
123. When delivery may be claimed in an action for the possession of personal property.	129. Justification of sureties on defendant's undertaking.
124. Affidavit therefor, what it must show.	130. Qualification and justification of sureties.
125. Indorsement thereon, requiring the marshal to take property.	131. Power of marshal when property concealed in building or inclosure.
126. Undertaking to marshal on the part of plaintiff.	132. Property, how kept and when delivered to plaintiff.
127. Exception to securities by defendant, proceedings thereon.	133. Proceedings when property claimed by third person.
128. How and when defendant entitled to redelivery.	134. Return of affidavit by marshal.

SEC. 123. In an action to recover possession of personal property the plaintiff, at any time after the action is commenced, and before judgment, may claim the immediate delivery of such property, as provided in this chapter.

When delivery may be claimed in an action for the possession of personal property.

SEC. 124. When a delivery is claimed an affidavit shall be made by the plaintiff, or by some one in his behalf, showing—

Affidavit therefor, what it must show.

First. That the plaintiff is the owner of the property claimed (particularly describing it), or is lawfully entitled to the possession thereof by virtue of a special property therein, the facts in respect to which shall be set forth;

Second. That the property is wrongfully detained by the defendant;

Third. The alleged cause of the detention thereof, according to his best knowledge, information, and belief;

Fourth. That the same has not been taken for a tax assessment or fine, pursuant to a statute, or seized under an execution or attachment against the property of the plaintiff; or, if so seized, that it is by statute exempt from such seizure; and Fifth. The actual value of the property.

Indorsement thereon, requiring the marshal to take property.

SEC. 125. The plaintiff may thereupon, by an indorsement in writing upon the affidavit, require the marshal to take the property from the defendant and deliver it to the plaintiff.

Undertaking to marshal on the part of plaintiff.

SEC. 126. Upon the receipt of the affidavit and indorsement thereon, with a written undertaking executed by two or more sufficient sureties approved by the marshal, to the effect that they are bound in double the value of the property as stated in the affidavit for the prosecution of the action for the return of the property to the defendant, if return thereof be adjudged, and for the payment to him of such sum as may for any cause be recovered against the plaintiff, the marshal shall forthwith take the property described in the affidavit, if it be in the possession of the defendant or his agent, and retain it in his custody. He shall also, without delay, serve on the defendant a copy of the affidavit, indorsement thereon, and undertaking, by delivering the same to him personally, if he can be found, or to his agent from whose possession the property is taken; or, if neither can be found, by leaving them at the usual place of abode of either with some person of suitable age and discretion; or, if neither have any known place of abode, by putting them in the post-office directed to the defendant at the post-office nearest to him.

Exception to sureties by defendant, proceedings thereon.

SEC. 127. The defendant may, within three days after the service of a copy of the affidavit and undertaking, give notice to the marshal that he excepts to the sufficiency of the sureties. If he fail to do so, he shall be deemed to have waived all objection to them. When the defendant excepts, the sureties shall justify on notice in like manner as upon bail on arrest. And the marshal shall be responsible for the sufficiency of the sureties until the objection to them is either waived, as above provided, or until they shall justify or new sureties shall be substituted and justified. If the defendant except to the sureties, he can not reclaim the property, as provided in the next section.

How and when defendant entitled to re-delivery.

SEC. 128. At any time before the delivery of the property to the plaintiff the defendant may, if he do not except to the sureties of the plaintiff, require the return thereof upon giving to the marshal a written undertaking, executed by two or more sufficient sureties, to be approved by the marshal, to the effect that they are bound in double the value of the property as stated in the affidavit of the plaintiff, for the delivery thereof to the plaintiff, if such delivery be adjudged, and for the payment to him of such sum as may, for any cause, be recovered against the defendant. If a return of the property be not so required within three days after the taking and service of a copy of the affidavit and undertaking of a defendant, it shall be delivered to the plaintiff, except as provided in section one hundred and thirty-two.

Justification of sureties on defendant's undertaking.

SEC. 129. The defendant's sureties, upon a notice to the plaintiff or his attorney of not less than two nor more than six days, shall justify before a judge of the district court or commissioner, or the clerk of the court in which the action is pending, in the same manner as upon bail on arrest. Upon such justification the marshal shall deliver the property to the defendant. The marshal shall be responsible for the defendant's sureties until they justify, or until justification is completed or expressly waived, and may retain the property until that time; but if they or others in their place fail to justify at the time and place appointed, he shall deliver the property to the plaintiff.

Qualification and justification of sureties.

SEC. 130. Qualification of sureties and their justification shall be as prescribed by sections one hundred and nine and one hundred and ten in respect to bail upon an order of arrest.

SEC. 131. If the property or any part thereof be concealed in a building or inclosure the marshal shall publicly demand its delivery. If it be not delivered he shall cause the building or inclosure to be broken open and take the property into his possession, and if necessary he may call to his aid the power of the district.

Power of marshal when property concealed in building or inclosure.

SEC. 132. When the marshal shall have taken the property as in this chapter provided, he shall keep it in a secure place and deliver it to the party entitled thereto upon receiving his lawful fees for taking and his necessary expenses for keeping the same.

Property, how kept and when delivered to plaintiff.

SEC. 133. If the property taken be claimed by any other person than the defendant or his agent, and such person make affidavit of his title thereto or his right to the possession thereof, stating the grounds of such title or right, and serve the same upon the marshal before the delivery of the property to the plaintiff, the marshal shall not be bound to keep the property or deliver it to the plaintiff unless the plaintiff, on demand of him or his agent, shall indemnify the marshal against such claim by an undertaking, executed by two sufficient sureties, accompanied by their affidavits that they are each worth double the value of the property as specified in the affidavit of the plaintiff, over and above their debts and liabilities, exclusive of property exempt from execution. And no claim to such property by any other person than the defendant or his agent shall be valid against the marshal unless made as aforesaid; and notwithstanding such claim when so made he may retain the property a reasonable time to demand such indemnity.

Proceedings when property claimed by third person.

SEC. 134. The marshal shall file the affidavit, with his proceedings thereon, including an inventory of the property taken, with the clerk of the court in which the action is pending within twenty days after taking the property mentioned therein, or he may mail or forward the same to the clerk within that time.

Return of affidavit by marshal.

SEC. 135. The plaintiff, at the time of issuing the summons, or at any time afterwards, may have the property of the defendant attached as security for the satisfaction of any judgment that may be recovered,

When plaintiff may have property of defendant attached.

unless the defendant give security to pay such judgment, as in this chapter provided, in the following cases:

First. In an action upon a contract, express or implied, for the direct payment of money, and which is not secured by mortgage, lien, or pledge upon real or personal property, or, if so secured, when such security has been rendered nugatory by the act of the defendant.

Second. In an action upon a contract, express or implied, against a defendant not residing in the district.

Writ of attachment,
by whom issued, and for what causes.

SEC. 136. A writ of attachment shall be issued by the clerk of the court in which the action is pending, whenever the plaintiff or anyone in his behalf shall make and file an affidavit showing—

First. That the defendant is indebted to the plaintiff (specifying the amount of such indebtedness over and above all legal set-offs or counter-claims) upon a contract, expressed or implied, for the direct payment of money, and that the payment of the same has not been secured by any mortgage, lien, or pledge upon real or personal property; and Second. That the sum for which the attachment is asked is an actual, bona fide, existing debt, due and owing from the defendant to the plaintiff, and that the attachment is not sought nor the action prosecuted to hinder, delay, or defraud any creditor of the defendant.

Undertaking of plaintiff to be filed before writ issues.

SEC. 137. Upon filing the affidavit with the clerk, the plaintiff shall be entitled to have the writ issued as soon thereafter as he shall file with the clerk his undertaking, with one or more sureties, in a sum not less than one hundred dollars, and equal to the amount for which the plaintiff demands judgment, and to the effect that the plaintiff will pay all costs that may be adjudged to the defendant, and all damages that he may sustain by reason of the attachment if the same be wrongful or without sufficient cause, not exceeding the sum specified in the undertaking. With the undertaking the plaintiff shall also file the affidavits of the sureties, from which affidavits it must appear that such sureties are qualified, and that, taken together, they are worth double the amount of the sum specified in the undertaking, over all debts and liabilities and property exempt from execution. No person not qualified to become bail upon an arrest is qualified to become surety in an undertaking for an attachment.

Writ, to whom directed, and what it shall require.

SEC. 138. The writ shall be directed to the marshal, and shall require him to attach and safely keep all the property of such defendant not exempt from execution, or so much thereof as may be sufficient to satisfy the plaintiff's demand, the amount of which shall be stated in conformity with the complaint, together with costs and expenses. Several writs may be issued at the same time for delivery to different deputy marshals.

What property may be attached.

SEC. 139. The rights or shares which such defendant may have in the stock of any association or corporation, together with the interest and profits thereon, and all other property in the district of such defendant not exempt from execution, shall be liable to be attached. The marshal shall note upon the writ the date of its delivery to him, and shall make a full inventory of the property attached, and return the same with the writ.

Writ, how executed.

SEC. 140. The marshal or deputy marshal to whom the writ is delivered shall execute the same without delay, as follows:

First. Real property shall be attached by leaving with the occupant thereof, or if there be no occupant, in a conspicuous place thereon, a copy of the writ certified by the marshal.

Second. Personal property capable of manual delivery to the marshal, and not in the possession of a third person, shall be attached by taking it into his custody.

Third. Other personal property shall be attached by leaving a certified copy of the writ, and a notice specifying the property attached, with the person having possession of the same, or if it be a debt, then with the debtor, or if it be rights or shares in the stock of an association or corporation, or interest or profits thereof, then with such person or officer of such association or corporation as this code authorizes a summons to be served upon.

SEC. 141. From the date of the attachment until it be discharged or the writ executed, the plaintiff as against third persons shall be deemed a purchaser in good faith and for a valuable consideration of the property, real or personal, attached, subject to the conditions prescribed in the next section as to real property. Any person, association, or corporation mentioned in subdivision three of the section last preceding, from the service of a copy of the writ and notice as therein provided, shall, unless such property, stock, or debts be delivered, transferred, or paid to the marshal, be liable to the plaintiff for the amount thereof until the attachment be discharged or any judgment recovered by him be satisfied.

Effect of attachment as to third persons.

SEC. 142. If real property be attached, the marshal shall make a certificate containing the title of the cause, the names of the parties, a description of such real property, and a statement that the same has been attached at the action of the plaintiff, and the date thereof. Within ten days from the date of the attachment, the marshal shall deliver such certificate to the commissioner as ex officio recorder of the recording district in which such real property is situated, who shall file the same in his office and record it in a book to be kept for that purpose. When such certificate is so filed for record the lien in favor of the plaintiff shall attach to the real property described in the certificate from the date of the attachment, but if filed afterwards it shall only attach, as against third persons, from the date of such subsequent filing. Whenever such lien shall be discharged it shall be the duty of the commissioner as ex officio recorder, when requested, to record the transcript of any order, entry of satisfaction of judgment, or other proceeding of record whereby it appears that such lien has been discharged in the book mentioned in this section. The commissioner shall also enter on the margin of the page on which the certificate is recorded a minute of the discharge, and the page and book where recorded.

When real property attached, certificate of marshal.

SEC. 143. Whenever the marshal, with a writ of attachment against the defendant, shall apply to any person or officer mentioned in subdivision three of section one hundred and forty for the purpose of attaching any property mentioned therein, such person or officer shall furnish him with a certificate designating the amount and description of any property in his possession belonging to the defendant, or any debt owing to the defendant, or the number of rights or shares of the defendant in the stock of the association or corporation, with any interest or profits or encumbrance thereon. If such person or officer refuse to do so, or if the certificate when given be unsatisfactory to the plaintiff, he may be required by the court, or judge thereof, where the action is pending to appear before him and be examined on oath concerning the same, and disobedience to such order may be punished as contempt.

When third persons must furnish certificate to marshal.

SEC. 144. If any of the property attached be perishable, the marshal shall sell the same in the manner in which property is sold on execution. The proceeds thereof and other property attached shall be retained by him to answer any judgment that may be recovered in the action, unless sooner subjected to execution upon another judgment. Personal property mentioned in subdivision three of section one hundred and forty may be delivered, transferred, or paid to the marshal without an action, and his receipt therefor shall be a sufficient discharge accordingly.

Perishable property may be sold.

SEC. 145. The marshal may deliver any of the property attached to the defendant, or to any other person claiming it, upon his giving a written undertaking therefor, executed by two or more sufficient sureties, engaging to redeliver it or pay the value thereof to the marshal, to whom execution upon a judgment obtained by the plaintiff in that action may be issued.

When marshal may deliver property to defendant.

Defense to action upon such undertaking.

SEC. 146. If an action be brought upon such undertaking against the principal or his sureties, it shall be a defense that the property for which the undertaking was given did not, at the execution of the writ of attachment, belong to the defendant against whom it was issued.

If judgment recovered by plaintiff, marshal to apply property upon execution, remainder to be delivered to defendant.

SEC. 147. If judgment be recovered by the plaintiff, and it shall appear that the property has been attached in the action and has not been sold as perishable property or discharged from the attachment as provided by law, the court shall order and adjudge the property to be sold to satisfy the plaintiff's demands, and if execution issue thereon, the marshal shall apply the property attached by him, or the proceeds thereof, upon the execution, and if there be any such property or proceeds remaining after satisfying such execution, he shall, upon demand, deliver the same to the defendant.

If judgment not recovered by plaintiff, property to be returned to defendant.

SEC. 148. If judgment be not recovered by the plaintiff, all the property attached, or the proceeds thereof, or the undertaking therefor, shall be returned to the defendant upon his serving upon the marshal a certified copy of the order discharging the attachment.

How defendant may have an order for the return of the property.

SEC. 149. Whenever the defendant shall have appeared in the action he may apply upon notice to the plaintiff to the court or judge where the action is pending, or to the clerk of such court, for an order to discharge the attachment upon the execution of the undertaking mentioned in the next section; and if the application be allowed, all the proceeds of sales of property remaining in his hands shall be released from the attachment and delivered to the defendant upon his serving a certified copy of the order on the marshal.

Undertaking of the defendant upon such order.

SEC. 150. Upon such application the defendant shall deliver to the court or judge to whom the application is made an undertaking executed by one or more sureties, to the effect that the sureties will pay to the plaintiff the amount of the judgment that may be recovered against the defendant in the action. If the plaintiff demand it, the sureties shall be required to justify in the same manner as bail upon an arrest.

When the defendant may move to discharge the attachment.

SEC. 151. The defendant may, at any time before judgment, except where the cause of attachment and the cause of action are the same, apply to the court or judge thereof where the action is pending, to discharge the attachment, in the manner and with the effect as provided in sections one hundred and twenty-one and one hundred and twenty-two for the discharge of a defendant from arrest.

When writ to be returned.

SEC. 152. When the writ of attachment shall be fully executed or discharged, the marshal shall return the same, with his proceedings indorsed thereon, to the clerk of the court where the action was commenced.

What order upon garnishee shall require.

SEC. 153. The order provided for in section one hundred and forty-two shall require such person or officer to appear before such court or judge at a time and place therein stated. In the proceedings thereafter upon such order such person or association or corporation shall be known as the garnishee.

When plaintiff may serve interrogatories on garnishee.

SEC. 154. After the allowance of the order and before such garnishee or officer thereof shall be thereby required to appear, or within a time to be specified in the order, the plaintiff may serve upon such garnishee or officer thereof written allegations and interrogatories touching any of the property liable to attachment as the property of the defendant, as provided in subdivision three of section one hundred and forty, and to which such garnishee or officer thereof is required to give a certificate as provided in section one hundred and forty-three.

Answer of the garnishee.

SEC. 155. On the day when the garnishee or officer thereof shall be required to appear before the court or judge thereof, he shall return the allegations and interrogatories of the plaintiff to the court or judge, with his written answer thereto, unless for good cause shown a further time be allowed. Such answer shall be on oath, and shall contain a full and direct response to all the allegations and interrogatories.

SEC. 156. If the garnishee or officer thereof fail to answer, the court or judge thereof, on motion of the plaintiff, may compel him to do so, or the plaintiff may, at any time after the entry of judgment against the defendant in the action, have judgment against the garnishee for want of such answer. In no case shall judgment be given against the garnishee for a greater amount than the judgment against the defendant in the action.

Plaintiff may have judgment for want of answer, or garnishee may be compelled to answer

SEC. 157. The plaintiff may except to the answer of the garnishee or officer thereof for insufficiency, within such time as may be prescribed or allowed, and if the same be adjudged insufficient, such garnishee or officer may be allowed to amend his answer on such terms as may be proper; or judgment may be given for the plaintiff as for want of answer, or such garnishee or officer may be compelled to give a sufficient answer.

Exceptions to answer.

SEC. 158. The plaintiff may reply to the whole or part of the answer within such time as may be prescribed or allowed, and the issues arising thereon shall be tried as ordinary issues of fact between plaintiff and defendant. If the answer be not excepted or replied to within the time prescribed or allowed, it shall be taken to be true and sufficient.

Reply to answer, and trial of issue thereon.

SEC. 159. If by the answer it shall appear, or if upon trial it shall be found, that the garnishee, at the time of the service upon him or the officer thereof of the copy of the writ of attachment and notice, had any property of the defendant's liable to attachment as provided in subdivision three of section one hundred and forty and as to which such garnishee or officer thereof is required to give a certificate as provided in section one hundred and forty-three beyond the amount admitted in the certificate, or in any amount if the certificate was refused, judgment may be given against such garnishee for the value thereof in money. The garnishee may at any time before judgment discharge himself by delivering, paying, or transferring the property to the marshal.

Judgment against the garnishee upon answer or trial.

SEC. 160. Executions may issue upon judgments against a garnishee as upon ordinary judgments between plaintiff and defendant, and costs and disbursements shall be allowed and recovered in like manner. Witnesses, including the defendant and garnishee or officer thereof, may be required to appear and testify upon such proceeding against a garnishee, as upon the trial of an issue of fact.

Execution against garnishee; witnesses on trial.

SEC. 161. The court or judge thereof in its discretion may, at the time of the application of the plaintiff for the order provided for in section one hundred and forty-three and at any time thereafter before judgment against the garnishee, by order restrain the garnishee from paying, transferring, or in any manner disposing of or injuring any of the property of the defendant, alleged by the plaintiff to be in the garnishee's possession, control, or owing by him to the defendant, and disobedience to such order may be punished as a contempt.

When restraining order may be allowed against garnishee.

SEC. 162. The proceedings provided for in chapters twelve, thirteen, and fourteen of this title shall be known as provisional remedies.

What proceedings known as provisional remedies.

CHAPTER FIFTEEN.

OF ISSUES AND THE MODE OF TRIAL.

Sec.

163. The different kinds of issues.

164. Issue of law.

165. Issue of fact.

166. When both issue of law and fact arise, issue of law to be first tried.

Sec.

167. Trial defined.

168. Issues, how tried.

169. Motion to postpone trial on account of absent evidence.

SEC. 163. Issues arise upon the pleadings when a fact or conclusion of law is maintained by the one party and controverted by the other. They are of two kinds—

The different kinds of issues.

First. Of law; and,

Second. Of fact.

Issue of law.

SEC. 164. An issue of law arises upon a demurrer to the complaint, answer, or reply, or to some part thereof.

Issue of fact.

SEC. 165. An issue of fact arises—

First. Upon a material allegation in the complaint controverted by the answer; or,

Second. Upon new matter in the answer controverted by the reply; or,

Third. Upon new matter in the reply, except an issue of law is joined thereon.

When both issue of law and fact arise, issue of law to be first tried.

SEC. 166. Issues both of law and of fact may arise upon different parts of the pleadings in the same action. In such cases the issues of law shall be first tried, unless the court otherwise direct.

Trial defined.

SEC. 167. A trial is the judicial examination of the issues between the parties, whether they be issues of law or of fact.

Issues, how tried.

SEC. 168. An issue of law shall be tried by the court, unless referred as provided in chapter twenty. An issue of fact shall be tried by a jury, unless tried by the court or referred as provided in chapters nineteen and twenty.

Motion to postpone trial on account of absent evidence.

SEC. 169. A motion to postpone a trial on the ground of the absence of evidence shall only be made upon affidavit showing the materiality of the evidence expected to be obtained, and a statement of facts showing that due diligence has been used to procure it, and also the name and residence of the witness or witnesses. The court may also require the moving party to state upon affidavit the evidence which he expects to obtain, and if the adverse party thereupon admit that such evidence would be given, and that it be considered as actually given on the trial, or offered and overruled as improper, the trial shall not be postponed. The court, when it allows the motion, may impose such conditions or terms upon the moving party as may be just.

OF THE FORMATION OF THE JURY.

Sec.

- 170. Trial jurors, how selected.
- 171. Formation of jury.
- 172. No challenge to panel.
- 173. Peremptory challenge defined.
- 174. Challenge for cause defined.
- 175. General causes of challenge.
- 176. Particular causes of challenge.
- 177. Challenge for implied bias.
- 178. Challenge for actual bias.
- 179. Exemption from service on jury.

Sec.

- 180. Number of challenges.
- 181. First challenge taken by defendant; when taken.
- 182. Order of taking challenges.
- 183. Trial of challenge.
- 184. Proceedings in evidence on trial of challenge.
- 185. Challenge may be oral.
- 186. Oath of jury.

Trial jurors, how selected.

SEC. 170. Jurors for the trial of issues of fact in the district of Alaska shall be selected and summoned in the manner prescribed by the laws of the United States with respect to jurors of the United States district and circuit courts, and shall have the same qualifications and be entitled to the same exemptions as are provided by law in the case of grand juries to serve in the district, it being the true intent and meaning of this section that but one jury shall be summoned for the trial of all actions, civil and criminal, triable by the district court of the district.

Formation of jury.

SEC. 171. Trial juries in civil actions shall be formed as follows: When the action is called for trial, the clerk shall draw from the trial jury box of the court, one by one, the ballots containing the names of the jurors until the jury is completed or the ballots are exhausted. If the ballots become exhausted before the jury is complete, the marshal, under the direction of the court, shall summon from the bystanders, or the body of the district, as the court may direct, so many qualified persons as may be necessary to complete the jury. Whenever, as in this section provided, the marshal shall summon more than one person at a time from the bystanders or the body of the district, he shall return a list of the persons so summoned to the clerk. The clerk shall write the names of such persons upon separate ballots, and deposit the same in the trial jury box, and then draw such ballots therefrom, as in the case of the panel of trial jurors for the term. The jury shall consist of twelve persons, unless the parties consent to a less number. Such consent shall be entered in the journal: Provided, That hereafter in trials for misdemeanors six persons shall constitute a legal jury.

SEC. 172. No challenge shall be made or allowed to the panel. A No challenge to panel. challenge is an objection to a particular juror, and may be either—

First. Peremptory; or,

Second. For cause.

SEC. 173. A peremptory challenge is an objection to a juror for which no reason need be given, but upon which the court shall exclude him. Peremptory challenge defined.

SEC. 174. A challenge for cause is an objection to a juror, and may be either— Challenge for cause defined.

First. General—that the juror is disqualified from serving in any action; or,

Second. Particular—that he is disqualified from serving in the action on trial.

SEC. 175. General causes of challenge are— General causes of challenge.

First. A conviction for felony;

Second. A want of any of the qualifications prescribed by law for a juror;

Third. Unsoundness of mind, or such defect in the faculties of the mind or organs of the body as renders him incapable of performing the duties of a juror.

SEC. 176. Particular causes of challenge are of two kinds: Particular causes of challenge.

First. For such bias as, when the existence of the facts is ascertained, in judgment of law disqualifies the juror, and which is known in this title as implied bias;

Second. For the existence of a state of mind on the part of a juror in reference to the action, or to either party, which satisfies the trier, in the exercise of a sound discretion, that he can not try the issue impartially and without prejudice to the substantial rights of the party challenging, and which is known in this title as actual bias.

SEC. 177. A challenge for implied bias may be taken for any or all of the following causes, and no other: Challenge for implied bias.

First. Consanguinity or affinity within the fourth degree to either party;

Second. Standing in the relation of guardian and ward, attorney and client, master and servant, or landlord and tenant to the adverse party; or being a member of the family of, or a partner in business with, or in the employment for wages of the adverse party; or being surety or bail in the action called for trial, or otherwise, for the adverse party;

Third. Having served as a juror on a previous trial in the same action, or in another action between the same parties for the same cause of action, or in a criminal action against either party upon substantially the same facts or transaction;

Fourth. Interest on the part of the juror in the event of the action on the principal question involved therein.

SEC. 178. A challenge for actual bias may be taken for the cause mentioned in the second subdivision of section one hundred and seventy-six. But on the trial of such challenge, although it should appear that the juror challenged has formed or expressed an opinion upon the merits of the cause from what he may have heard or read, such opinion shall not of itself be sufficient to sustain the challenge, but the court must be satisfied from all the circumstances that the juror can not disregard such opinion and try the issue impartially. Challenge for actual bias.

Exemption from service of jury.

SEC. 179. An exemption from service on a jury shall not be cause of challenge, but the privilege of the person exempted.

Number of challenges.

SEC. 180. A peremptory challenge or a challenge for cause may be taken by either party. When there are two or more parties, plaintiffs or defendants, they must join in the challenge or it can not be taken. Either party shall be entitled to three peremptory challenges and no more.

First challenge taken by defendant; when taken.

SEC. 181. The defendant first and afterwards the plaintiff shall challenge for cause, and when a challenge has been sustained the vacancy shall be filled before further challenge is made, and any new juror may at any time be challenged for cause by either party to the action. When the panel is full, the defendant shall have one peremptory challenge, followed by one by the plaintiff, and so on alternately until each side has exhausted its right to such challenge.

Order of taking challenges.

SEC. 182. The challenges of either party shall be taken separately, in the following order, including in each challenge all the causes of challenge belonging to the same class:

First. For general disqualification;

Second. For implied bias;

Third. For actual bias;

Fourth. Peremptory; but either party may take peremptory challenge at any time before his right of challenge ceases.

Trial of challenge.

SEC. 183. The challenge may be excepted to by the adverse party for insufficiency; and if so, the court shall determine the sufficiency thereof, assuming the facts alleged therein to be true. The challenge may be denied by the adverse party; and if so, the court shall try the issue and determine the law and the fact.

Proceedings in evidence on trial of challenge.

SEC. 184. Upon the trial of a challenge the rules of evidence applicable to testimony offered upon the trial of an ordinary issue of fact shall govern. The juror challenged, or any other person otherwise competent, may be examined as a witness by either party. If a challenge be determined to be sufficient, or found to be true, as the case may be, it shall be allowed, and the juror to whom it was taken excluded; but if determined or found otherwise it shall be disallowed.

Challenge may be oral.

SEC. 185. The challenge, the exception, and the denial may be made orally. The judge of the court shall note the same upon his minutes, and the substance of the testimony on either side.

Oath of jury.

SEC. 186. As soon as the number of the jury has been completed an oath or affirmation shall be administered to the jurors in substance that they and each of them will well and truly try the matter in issue between the plaintiff and the defendant, and a true verdict give according to the law and evidence as given them on the trial.

CHAPTER SEVENTEEN.

CONDUCT OF THE TRIAL BY JURY.

Sec.

187. Order of proceedings on the trial.
188. When a view may be ordered.
189. Manner of keeping jury.
190. When juror taken sick, how to proceed.
191. The charge to the jury.
192. How jury kept while deliberating; officer to be sworn.
193. Food and lodging of jurors.
194. What papers jury may take.
195. When jury may return for information.
196. When jury may be discharged without giving verdict.

Sec.

197. When new trial may be had if jury discharged.
198. Court deemed open until jury gives verdict or is discharged.
199. If juror absent when jury return, jury to be discharged.
200. Manner of giving verdict.
201. Jury may be polled, or insufficient verdict corrected.
202. When verdict complete and jury discharged, verdict to be in writing and entered on the journal.

Order of proceedings on the trial.

SEC. 187. When the jury has been completed and sworn, the trial shall proceed in the order prescribed in this section, unless the court for special reasons otherwise direct.

First. The plaintiff shall state briefly his cause of action, and the issue to be tried; the defendant shall then in like manner state his defense or counterclaim.

Second. The plaintiff shall then introduce the evidence on his part, and when he has concluded the defendant shall do the same.

Third. The parties may then respectively introduce rebutting evidence only, unless the court, for good reason, and in furtherance of justice, permit them to introduce evidence upon the original cause of action, defense, or counterclaim.

Fourth. Not more than two counsel shall be allowed to address the jury on behalf of the plaintiff or defendant unless otherwise allowed by the court; and the court may limit the time to be consumed by counsel in arguing the cause to the jury.

Fifth. When the evidence is concluded, unless the case is submitted to the jury on both sides without argument, the plaintiff shall commence and conclude the argument to the jury. If the plaintiff waive the opening argument, and the defendant then argue the case to the jury, the plaintiff shall not be permitted to reply to the argument of the defendant.

Sixth. The court shall then charge the jury, and if either party require it, and shall at the commencement of the trial give notice of his intention so to do, the charge of the court, so far as it relates to the law and the facts of the case, shall be reduced to writing and given to the jury by the court as written, without any oral explanation. The charge, when reduced to writing, must be filed with the clerk.

SEC. 188. Whenever, in the opinion of the court, it is proper that the jury should have a view of real property which is the subject of the litigation, or of the place in which any material fact occurred, it may order the jury to be conducted in a body, in the custody of a proper officer, to the place, which shall be shown to them by the judge, or by a person appointed by the court for that purpose. While the jury are thus absent no person shall speak to them on any subject connected with the trial.

When a view may be ordered.

SEC. 189. The jurors may be kept together in charge of a proper officer, or may, in the discretion of the court, at any time before the submission of the cause to them, be permitted to separate; in either case they may be admonished by the court that it is their duty not to converse with any other person, or among themselves, on any subject connected with the trial, or to express any opinion thereon, until the case is finally submitted to them.

Manner of keeping jury.

SEC. 190. If, after the formation of the jury, and before verdict, a juror becomes sick, so as to be unable to perform his duty, the court may order him to be discharged. In that case, unless the parties agree to proceed with the other jurors, a new juror may be sworn, and the trial may begin anew; or the jury may be discharged, as the court shall direct, and a new jury then or afterwards formed.

When juror taken sick, how to proceed.

SEC. 191. In charging the jury the court shall state to them all matters of law which it thinks necessary for their information in giving their verdict, but it shall not present the facts of the case, but shall inform the jury that they are the exclusive judges of all questions of fact.

The charge to the jury.

SEC. 192. After hearing the charge the jury may either decide in the jury box or retire for deliberation. If they retire they must be kept together in a room provided for them, or some other convenient place, under the charge of one or more officers, until they agree upon their verdict or are discharged by the court. The officer shall, to the utmost of his ability, keep the jury thus together separate from other persons, without drink, except water, and without food, except ordered by the court. He must not suffer any communication to be made to them, nor make any himself unless by the order of the court, except to ask them if they have agreed upon their verdict, and he shall not, before the verdict is rendered, communicate to any person the state of their deliberation or the verdict agreed on. Before any officer takes charge of a jury this section shall be read to him, and he shall be then sworn to conduct himself according to its provisions, to the utmost of his ability.

How jury kept while deliberating; officer to be sworn.

Food and lodging of jurors.

SEC. 193. If while the jury are kept together, either during the progress of the trial or after their retirement for deliberation, the court order them to be provided with suitable and sufficient food and lodging; they shall be so provided by the marshal, at the expense of the United States.

What papers jury may take.

SEC. 194. Upon retiring for deliberation the jury may take with them the pleadings in the cause, and all papers which have been received as evidence on the trial (except depositions, or copies of such parts of public records or private documents given in evidence as ought not, in the opinion of the court, to be taken from the person having them in possession). They may also take with them notes of the testimony or other proceedings on the trial taken by themselves, or any of them, out none taken by any other person.

When jury may return for information.

SEC. 195. After the jury have retired for deliberation, if they desire to be informed on any point of law arising in the case, they may require the officer having them in charge to conduct them into court. Upon their being brought into court the instruction required shall be given by the court in the presence of or after notice to the parties or their attorneys.

When jury may be discharged without giving verdict.

SEC. 196. Except as provided in sections one hundred and ninety and one hundred and ninety-nine of this title, or in case of some accident or calamity requiring their discharge, the jury shall not be discharged after the cause is submitted to them until they have agreed upon a verdict and given it in open court, unless by the consent of both parties entered in the journal, or unless at the expiration of such period as the court deem proper it satisfactorily appears that there is no probability of an agreement.

When new trial may be had if jury discharged.

SEC. 197. In all cases where a jury are discharged or prevented from giving a verdict by reason of accident or other cause during the progress of the trial, or after the cause is submitted to them, the action may be again tried immediately, or at a future time, as the court directs.

Court deemed open until jury gives verdict or is discharged.

SEC. 198. While the jury are absent the court may adjourn from time to time, in respect to other business, but it is nevertheless to be deemed open for every purpose connected with the cause submitted to the jury until a verdict is rendered or the jury discharged. A final adjournment of the court discharges the jury.

If juror absent when jury return, jury to be discharged.

SEC. 199. When the jury have agreed upon their verdict they shall be conducted into court by the officer having them in charge. Their names shall then be called, and if all do not appear the rest shall be discharged without giving a verdict.

Manner of giving verdict.

SEC. 200. If the jury appear, they shall be asked by the court or the clerk whether they have agreed upon their verdict; and if the foreman answer in the affirmative, he shall, on being required, declare the same.

Jury may be polled, or insufficient verdict corrected.

SEC. 201. When a verdict is given and before it is filed, the jury may be polled on the request of either party, for which purpose each shall be asked whether it be his verdict; if any juror answer in the negative, the jury shall be sent out for further deliberation. If the verdict be informal or insufficient, it may be corrected by the jury under the advice of the court, or the jury may again be sent out.

When verdict complete and jury discharged, verdict to be in writing and entered on the journal.

SEC. 202. When the verdict is given, and is such as the court may receive, and if no juror disagree or the jury be not again sent out, the clerk shall file the verdict. The verdict is then complete, and the jury shall be discharged from the case. The verdict shall be in writing, and under the direction of the court shall be substantially entered in the journal as of the day's proceedings on which it was given.

CHAPTER EIGHTEEN.

OF THE VERDICT.

- | | |
|--|--|
| Sec.
203. Definition of verdict general or special.
204. In actions for the recovery of specific personal property.
205. When jury may give general or special verdict. | Sec.
206. Special verdict to control general.
207. When counterclaim pleaded in the answer. |

SEC. 203. The verdict of a jury is either general or special. A general verdict is that by which the jury pronounce generally upon all or any of the issues, either in favor of the plaintiff or defendant. A special verdict is that by which the jury find the facts only, leaving the judgment to the court. Definition of verdict general or special.

SEC. 204. In an action for the recovery of specific personal property, if the property have not been delivered to the plaintiff, or the defendant by his answer claim a return thereof, the jury shall assess the value of the property, if their verdict be in favor of the plaintiff, or if they find in favor of the defendant, and that he is entitled to a return thereof, and may at the same time assess the damages, if any are claimed in the complaint or answer, which the prevailing party has sustained by reason of the detention or taking and withholding such property. In actions for the recovery of specific personal property.

SEC. 205. In every action for the recovery of money only or specific real property, the jury, in their discretion, may render a general or special verdict. In all other cases the court may direct the jury to find a special verdict upon all or any of the issues; and in all cases may instruct them, if they render a general verdict, to find upon particular questions of fact, to be stated in writing. The special verdict or finding shall be filed with the clerk and entered in the journal, as provided in chapter seventeen. When jury may give general or special verdict.

SEC. 206. When a special finding of facts shall be inconsistent with the general verdict, the former shall control the latter, and the court shall give judgment accordingly. Special verdict to control general.

SEC. 207. When a verdict is found for the plaintiff in an action for the recovery of money, or for the defendant when a counterclaim for the recovery of money is established beyond the amount of the plaintiff's claim as established, the jury shall also assess the amount of recovery; they may also, under the direction of the court, assess the amount of the recovery when the court gives judgment for the plaintiff on the answer. When counterclaim pleaded in the answer.

CHAPTER NINETEEN.

TRIAL BY THE COURT.

- | | |
|---|---|
| Sec.
208. Trial by jury, how waived.
209. Decisions of the court, how made and when filed. | Sec.
210. Order of proceedings, and effect of finding. |
|---|---|

SEC. 208. Trial by jury may be waived by the several parties to an issue of fact, in actions on contract, and with the assent of the court in other actions, in the manner following: Trial by jury, how waived.

First. By failing to appear at the trial;

Second. By written consent, in person or by attorney, filed with the clerk;

Decisions of the court, how made and when filed.

Third. By oral consent in open court, entered in the minutes.

SEC. 209. Upon the trial of an issue of fact by the court, its decision shall be given in writing and filed with the clerk during the term or within twenty days thereafter. The decision shall state the facts found and the conclusion of law separately, without argument or reason therefor. Such decision shall be entered in the journal and judgment entered thereon accordingly. The court may deliver any argument or reason in support of such decision, either orally or in writing, separate from the decision, and file the same with the clerk.

Order of proceedings, and effect of findings.

SEC. 210. The order of proceedings on a trial by the court shall be the same as provided in trials by jury. The finding of the court upon the fact shall be deemed a verdict, and may be set aside in the same manner and for the same reasons, as far as applicable, and a new trial granted.

CHAPTER TWENTY.

TRIAL BY REFEREES.

Sec.

- 211. The trial of any issue may be referred by consent.
- 212. When reference may be ordered by the court.
- 213. Number of referees, and how chosen.
- 214. When chosen by the court, qualifications of.
- 215. Right and mode of challenge to referees when chosen by the court.

Sec.

- 216. Proceedings same as in trial by court.
- 217. What report to contain; evidence to accompany it.
- 218. Motion to set aside report or for judgment thereon.
- 219. Proceedings thereon.

The trial of any issue may be referred by consent.

SEC. 211. All or any of the issues in the action, whether of fact or law, or both, may be referred to a referee or referees upon the written consent of the parties.

When reference may be ordered by the court.

SEC. 212. When the parties do not consent in an action at issue and to be tried by the court without a jury, the court may, upon the application of either, or of its own motion, direct a reference in the following cases:

First. When the trial of an issue of fact shall require the examination of a long account on either side, in which case the referees may be directed to hear and decide the whole issue or to report upon any specific question of fact involved therein; or,

Second. When the taking of an account shall be necessary for the information of the court, before judgment upon an issue of law, or for carrying a judgment or order into effect; or,

Third. When a question of fact other than upon the pleadings shall arise, upon motion or otherwise, in any stage of the action; or,

Fourth. When it is necessary for the information of the court in a special proceeding.

Number of referees, and how chosen.

SEC. 213. A reference may be ordered to any person or persons, not exceeding three, agreed upon by the parties. If the parties do not agree, the court or judge may appoint one or more, not exceeding three.

When chosen by the court, qualifications of.

SEC. 214. When the appointment of referees is made by the court or judge, each referee shall be—

First. Qualified as a juror as provided by statute;

Second. Competent as a juror between the parties: Provided, That in a reference to take and report testimony only, the same may be made to any competent disinterested person, regardless of the foregoing qualifications.

Right and mode of challenge to referees when chosen by the court.

SEC. 215. When the referees are chosen by the court each party shall have the same right of challenge as to such referees, to be made and determined in the same manner and with like effect as in the formation of juries, except that neither party shall be entitled to a peremptory challenge.

SEC. 216. Subject to the limitations and directions prescribed in the order of reference, the trial by referee shall be conducted in the same manner as a trial by the court. They shall have the same power to grant adjournments, administer oaths, to preserve order, and to punish all violations thereof upon such trial, and to compel the attendance of witnesses and to punish them for nonattendance or refusal to be sworn or testify, as is possessed by the court.

Proceedings same as in trial by court.

SEC. 217. The report of the referee shall state the facts found, and when the order of reference includes an issue of law it shall state the conclusions of law separately from the facts. The referees shall file with their report the evidence received upon the trial. If evidence offered by either party shall not be admitted on the trial, and the party offering the same except to the decision rejecting such evidence at the time, the exception shall be noted by the referees, and they shall take and receive such testimony and file it with the report. Whatever judgment the court may give upon the report, it shall, when it appears that such evidence was frivolous or inadmissible, require the party at whose instance it was taken and reported to pay all costs and disbursements thereby incurred.

What report to contain; evidence to accompany it.

SEC. 218. The report shall be filed with the clerk. If it be filed in term time, either party may, within such time as may be prescribed by the rules of the court, or by special order, move to set the same aside or for judgment thereon, or such order or proceedings as the nature of the case may require. If the report be filed in vacation, the like proceedings may be had at the next term following.

Motion to set aside report or for judgment thereon.

SEC. 219. The court may affirm or set aside the report either in whole or in part. If it affirm the report, it shall give judgment accordingly. If the report be set aside either in whole or in part, the court may make another order of reference as to all or so much of the report as is set aside to the original referees or others, or it may find the facts and determine the law itself and give judgment accordingly. Upon a motion to set aside a report, the conclusions thereof shall be deemed and considered as the verdict of a jury.

Proceedings thereon.

CHAPTER TWENTY-ONE.

OF EXCEPTIONS.

Sec.

220. Definition of exception; must be material.

221. Exceptions, how stated and settled.

222. No particular form required.

Sec.

223. To be signed by the judge and filed.

When exceptions need not be taken or allowed.

224. What deemed excepted to.

SEC. 220. An exception is an objection taken at the trial to a decision upon a matter of law, whether such trial be by jury or court, and whether the decision be made during the formation of a jury, or in the admission of evidence, or in the charge to the jury, or at any other time from the calling of the action for trial to the rendering of the verdict or decision. But no exception shall be regarded on a motion for a new trial, or on an appeal, unless the exception be material and affect the substantial rights of the parties.

Definition of exception; must be material.

SEC. 221. The point of the exception shall be particularly stated, and may be delivered, in writing, to the judge or entered in his minutes, and at the time or afterwards be corrected until made conformable to the truth.

Exceptions, how stated and settled.

SEC. 222. No particular form of exception shall be required. The objection shall be stated with so much of the evidence or other matter as is necessary to explain it, but no more.

No particular form required.

To be signed by the judge and filed. When exceptions need not be taken or allowed.

SEC. 223. The statement of the exception, when settled and allowed, shall be signed by the judge and filed with the clerk, and thereafter it shall be deemed and taken to be a part of the record of the cause. No exception need be taken or allowed to any decision upon a matter of law when the same is entered in the journal or made wholly upon matters in writing and on file in the court.

What deemed excepted to.

SEC. 224. The verdict of the jury, any order or decision, partially or finally determining the rights of the parties, or any of them, or affecting the pleadings, or granting or refusing a continuance, or granting or refusing a new trial, or admitting or rejecting the evidence, provided objection be made to its admission or rejection at the time of its offer, or made upon ex parte application or in the absence of a party, are deemed excepted to without the exception being taken or stated, or entered in the journal.

CHAPTER TWENTY-TWO.

OF NEW TRIAL.

Sec.

225. Definition of new trial.

226. New trial, for what causes granted.

227. Motion for, when filed and determined.

228. Upon trial by the court and decision in vacation.

Sec.

229. Motion must state grounds thereof; when supported by affidavit.

230. When counter affidavits allowed.

Definition of new trial.

SEC. 225. A new trial is a reexamination of an issue of fact in the same court after a trial and decision or verdict by a court or jury.

New trial, for what causes granted.

SEC. 226. The former verdict or other decision may be set aside and a new trial granted, on the motion of the party aggrieved, for any of the following causes materially affecting the substantial rights of such party:

First. Irregularity in the proceedings of the court, jury, or adverse party, or any order of the court, or abuse of discretion by which such party was prevented from having a fair trial;

Second. Misconduct of the jury or prevailing party;

Third. Accident or surprise which ordinary prudence could not have guarded against;

Fourth. Newly discovered evidence, material for the party making the application, which he could not with reasonable diligence have discovered and produced at the trial;

Fifth. Excessive damages, appearing to have been given under the influence of passion or prejudice;

Sixth. Insufficiency of the evidence to justify the verdict or other decision, or that it is against law;

Seventh. Error in law occurring at the trial and excepted to by the party making the application.

Motion for, when filed and determined.

SEC. 227. A motion for a new trial, with the affidavits, if any, in support thereof, shall, except as hereinafter provided, be filed within three days after giving the verdict or other decision sought to be set aside; but the court may, upon satisfactory showing, extend the time for filing such affidavits. When the adverse party is entitled to oppose the motion by counter affidavits, he shall file the same within three days after the filing of the motion. A motion shall be heard and determined during the term unless the court continue the same for advisement or want of time to hear it.

Upon trial by the court and decision in vacation.

SEC. 228. Upon a trial by the court, when the decision is given in vacation, a motion for a new trial shall be filed within twenty days from the time of filing such decision, except as hereinbefore provided.

Motion must state grounds thereof, when supported by affidavit.

SEC. 229. In all cases of motion for a new trial the grounds thereof shall be plainly specified, and no cause of new trial not so stated shall be considered or regarded by the court. When the motion is made for a cause mentioned in subdivisions one, two, three, or four of section two hundred and twenty-six, it shall be upon affidavits setting forth the facts upon which such motion is based, unless they appear of record in the cause.

SEC. 230. If the motion be supported by affidavits, counter affidavits may be offered by the adverse party; and if the cause be newly discovered evidence, the affidavits of any witness or witnesses showing what their testimony will be shall be produced or good reason shown for their nonproduction; and in the consideration of any motion for a new trial reference may be had to any proceedings in the case prior to the verdict or other decision sought to be set aside.

When counter affidavits allowed.

CHAPTER TWENTY-THREE.

OF GENERAL PROVISIONS.

Sec.

231. Questions of law and fact, how submitted and when.

232. Questions of fact to be decided by the jury.

Sec.

233. Questions of law and what of fact to be decided by the court.

SEC. 231. Any party may, when the evidence is closed, submit in distinct and concise propositions the conclusions of fact which he claims to be established or the conclusions of law which he desires to be adjudged, or both. They may be written and handed to the court, or, at the option of the court, oral, and entered in the judge's minutes.

Questions of law and fact, how submitted and when.

SEC. 232. All questions of fact other than those mentioned in section two hundred and thirty-three shall be decided by the jury, and all evidence thereon addressed to them.

Questions of fact to be decided by the jury.

SEC. 233. All questions of law, including the admissibility of testimony, the facts preliminary to such admission, and the construction of statutes and other writings and other rules of evidence, are to be decided by the court, and all discussions of law addressed to it; and whenever the knowledge of the court is by this code made evidence of a fact, the court is to declare such knowledge to the jury, who are bound to accept it as conclusive.

Questions of law and what of fact to be decided by the court.

CHAPTER TWENTY-FOUR.

OF JUDGMENT IN GENERAL.

Sec.

234. Definition of judgment.

235. Judgment may be given for or against any of the parties.

Sec.

236. When judgment may be given against one or more defendants and action remain pending as to others.

SEC. 234. A judgment is the final determination of the rights of the parties in the action.

Definition of judgment.

SEC. 235. Judgment may be given for or against one or more of several plaintiffs, and for or against one or more of several defendants; and it may, when the justice of the case requires it, determine the ultimate rights of the parties on each side as between themselves.

Judgment may be given for or against any of the parties.

SEC. 236. In an action against several defendants, the court may, in its discretion, render judgment against one or more of them, whenever a several judgment is proper, leaving the action to proceed against the others.

When judgment may be given against one or more defendants and action remain pending as to others.

CHAPTER TWENTY-FIVE.

OF JUDGMENT OF NONSUIT.

Sec.

237. When judgment of nonsuit may be given.

238. What is a cause not sufficient to be submitted to the jury.

Sec.

239. Effect of judgment of nonsuit.

When judgment of nonsuit may be given.

SEC. 237. A judgment of nonsuit may be given against the plaintiff as provided in this chapter—

First. On motion of the plaintiff, at any time before trial, unless a counterclaim has been pleaded as a defense;

Second. On motion of either party, upon the written consent of the other filed with the clerk;

Third. On motion of the defendant, when the action is called for trial and the plaintiff fails to appear, or when, after the trial has begun and before the final submission of the cause, the plaintiff abandons it, or when, upon the trial, the plaintiff fails to prove a cause sufficient to be submitted to the jury.

What is a cause not sufficient to be submitted to the jury.

SEC. 238. A cause not sufficient to be submitted to the jury is one where it appears that if the jury were to find a verdict for the plaintiff upon any or all of the issues to be tried the court ought, if required, to set it aside for want of evidence to support it.

Effect of judgment of nonsuit.

SEC. 239. When a judgment of nonsuit is given, the action is dismissed; but such judgment shall not have the effect to bar another action for the same cause.

CHAPTER TWENTY-SIX.

OF JUDGMENT ON FAILURE TO ANSWER.

Sec.

240. When judgment may be given for want of answer.

When judgment may be given for want of answer.

SEC. 240. Judgment may be had upon failure to answer, as follows:

When the time for answering the complaint has expired and it appears that the defendant, or one or more of several defendants, in the cases mentioned in section fifty-one, has been duly served with the summons and has failed to answer the complaint, the plaintiff shall be entitled to have judgment against such defendant or defendants—

First. In an action arising upon contract for the recovery of money or damages only; if no answer has been filed with the clerk of the court within the time specified in the summons, or such further time as may have been granted by the court or judge thereof, the clerk, upon the application of the plaintiff made in writing and filed with the clerk, shall enter the default of the defendant, and immediately thereafter enter judgment for the amount specified in the summons, including the costs of the defendant, or against one or more of several defendants, in cases provided for in section fifty-one;

Second. In other actions, if no answer has been filed with the clerk of the court within the time specified in the summons or such further time as may have been granted by the court or judge thereof, the clerk shall, upon the written motion of the plaintiff being filed, enter the default of the defendant, and thereafter the plaintiff may apply at the first or any subsequent term of the court for the relief demanded in the complaint; and the court shall, upon such demand, give judgment for the amount claimed in the summons, or the relief demanded in the complaint, unless it be necessary, to enable the court to give judgment or carry the same into effect, to take proof of any matter of

 as the fact may be, and such entry shall have the same effect as if entered in term time. In the entry of all judgments, except judgments by default for want of an answer, the clerk shall be subject to the direction of the court.

SEC. 252. If a counterclaim established at the trial exceed the plain-tiff's demand so established judgment for the defendant shall be given for the excess; or if it appear that the defendant is entitled to any other affirmative relief judgment shall be given accordingly.

If counterclaim exceeds plaintiff's demand, judgment for defendant.

SEC. 253. In an action to recover the possession of personal property judgment for the plaintiff may be for the possession, or the value thereof in case a delivery can not be had, and damages for the detention thereof. If the property have been delivered to the plaintiff and the defendant claim a return thereof, judgment for the defendant may be for a return of the property, or the value thereof in case a return can not be had, and damages for taking and withholding the same.

Judgment in actions for the recovery of personal property.

SEC. 254. When judgment is given for want of answer, the entry shall state substantially that the defendant has been duly served with the summons and has failed to answer the complaint. When judgment is given on confession, with or without action, on the report of referees or on a controversy submitted without action, the entry shall state in like manner the confession and assent thereto, the report of the referees, or agreed case, as the case may be.

What entry to state in judgment for want of answer.

SEC. 255. When a decision has been made sustaining or overruling a demurrer, unless the party against whom the decision is made be allowed to amend or plead over, judgment shall be given for the plaintiff or defendant, as the case may be, for such amount or relief, or to such effect, as it appears from the pleadings he is entitled to; but if the case is otherwise at issue upon a question of fact, the court may order the entry of judgment to be delayed until such issue be tried or otherwise disposed of.

Judgment on de-murrer.

SEC. 256. When judgment is given in any of the cases mentioned in the two sections last preceding, unless otherwise ordered by the court, it shall be entered by the clerk within the day it is given.
 Except as in this section hereinafter provided, when a trial by the court has been had judgment shall be entered by the clerk in conformity with the decision within two days from the time the same is filed; or if the trial be by jury, judgment shall be given by the court in conformity therewith, and entered by the clerk within two days from the time the verdict has been received; and in either case within the term at which such judgment is given.

When entry of judgment made.

First. When the court is in doubt what judgment ought to be given, it may order the question to be reserved for argument or further consideration, and thereupon the entry of judgment shall be delayed until judgment be given;

Second. When, within the time allowed to file a motion for new trial, either party shall file a motion for a particular judgment, or for judgment notwithstanding the verdict or decision; or,

Third. When a motion for new trial is filed within the time prescribed, the entry of judgment shall be thereby delayed until the motion is disposed of;

Fourth. When, upon a trial by the court, its decision is filed in vacation, the entry of judgment shall be delayed until the expiration of the time prescribed to file a motion for a new trial.

Judgment, notwithstanding the verdict.

SEC. 257. When it appears from the pleadings that the court has not jurisdiction of the subject of the action or the person of the defendant, or that the facts stated in the pleadings of the plaintiff or defendant, as the case may be, do not constitute a cause of action or defense thereto, on motion judgment shall be given for the plaintiff or defendant, as the case may be, notwithstanding the verdict or decision.

When entry of judgment made after motion for new trial decided in vacation.

SEC. 258. When a motion for new trial, for a particular judgment, or for a judgment notwithstanding the verdict, is decided in vacation, the decision shall be in writing and filed with the clerk. Within the day of such filing judgment shall be entered by the clerk in conformity with the decision.

Entry of judgment after the time prescribed.

SEC. 259. When the clerk is unable or omits to enter judgment within the time prescribed in this chapter, if the judgment has been given in vacation, it may be entered at any time thereafter, of the date which it is actually entered; if it has been given in term time, it may be entered at any time during the term, of the day's proceedings on which it should have been entered, or, on motion of the party entitled, at any subsequent term, of the day on which it is actually entered.

CHAPTER THIRTY.

OF LIEN JUDGMENT AND FINAL RECORD.

Sec.

260. Judgment to be lien from time of the docketing.

261. Expiration of lien; when revived.

Sec.

262. Conveyance; when void as against lien.

263. Clerk must make judgment roll.

264. Final record; in what cases required.

Judgment to be lien from time of the docketing.

SEC. 260. Immediately after the entry of judgment in any action the clerk shall docket the same in the judgment docket. At any time thereafter, while an execution might issue upon such judgment, and the same remains unsatisfied in whole or in part, the plaintiff, or in case of his death his representative, may file a certified transcript of the original docket in the office of the recorder of any recording district that may have been established in said district in accordance with law. Upon the filing of such transcript the recorder shall docket the same in the judgment docket of his office. From the date of docketing a judgment, as in this chapter provided, or the transcript thereof, such judgment shall be a lien upon all the real property of the defendant within the recording district or districts where the same is docketed, or which he may afterwards acquire therein, during the time an execution may issue thereon.

Expiration of lien; when revived.

SEC. 261. Whenever, after the entry of judgment, a period of ten years shall elapse without an execution being issued on such judgment, the lien thereof shall expire. If afterwards leave is given to issue execution thereon, a transcript of the docket of the order allowing the same may be docketed in any other recording district in said district in the same manner as a judgment. From the date of the docketing such order, or a transcript thereof, the lien of the judgment shall begin anew, and continue in all respects as upon the first docketing of the same.

Conveyance; when void as against lien.

SEC. 262. A conveyance of real property or any portion thereof or interest therein shall be void against the lien of a judgment unless such conveyance be recorded at the time of docketing such judgment or the transcript thereof, as the case may be.

Clerk must make judgment roll.

SEC. 263. After docketing the judgment, and before the next regular term of court, the clerk shall prepare and file in his office the judgment roll, as provided in this section.

First. If the complaint has not been answered by any defendant he shall attach together in the order of their filing, issuing, and entry, the complaint, summons, and proof of service, and a copy of the entry of judgment.

fact, in which case the court may order the entry of judgment to be delayed until such proof be taken. The court may hear the proof itself, or make an order of reference, or order that a jury be called to inquire thereof. The defendant shall not be precluded, by reason of his default, from offering proof in mitigation of damages;

Third. When the defendant has answered, and admits the plaintiff's claim, but sets up a counterclaim amounting to less than the plaintiff's claim, the plaintiff, on motion, shall have judgment for the excess of his claim over such counterclaim, as for want of answer thereto;

Fourth. When in any action the service of the summons appears to have been made by publication, the court may, in its discretion, order the entry of judgment to be delayed until the plaintiff file with the clerk an undertaking, with one or more sureties, to be approved by the clerk, in an amount equal to the sum for which judgment may be given, upon the condition that the plaintiff will abide by and perform any order of the court requiring restitution to be made to the defendant or his representative in case either of them shall afterwards be admitted to defend the action. The sureties in the undertaking shall have the qualifications of bail, and justify before the clerk as provided in section one hundred and nine.

CHAPTER TWENTY-SEVEN.

OF JUDGMENT BY CONFESSION.

Sec.	Sec.
241. Judgment by confession where action pending.	244. Confession to be in writing; how judgment given.
242. Who to make confession.	245. Judgment by confession without action.
243. When judgment may be given against several defendants on the confession of one.	246. How confession made in such cases.
	247. Same subject. Execution when judgment for installments.

SEC. 241. On the confession of the defendant, with the assent of the plaintiff or his attorney, judgment may be given against the defendant in any action, before or after answer, for any amount or relief not exceeding or different from that demanded in the complaint.

Judgment by confession where action pending.

SEC. 242. When the action is against a public corporation or a private corporation, the confession shall be made by the person who at the time sustains the relation to such corporation as would authorize the service of a summons upon him. In all other cases the confession shall be made by the defendant in person.

Who to make confession.

SEC. 243. When the action is upon a contract, and against one or more defendants jointly liable, judgment may be given on the confession of one or more defendants against all the defendants thus jointly liable, whether such defendants have been served with the summons or not, to be enforced only against their joint property and against the joint and separate property of the defendant making the confession.

When judgment may be given against several defendants on the confession of one.

SEC. 244. The confession and assent thereto shall be in writing, and subscribed by the parties or their attorneys making the same, and acknowledged by each before some officer authorized to take acknowledgments of deeds, but such acknowledgment is not required when the parties or their attorneys shall appear in court when the judgment is given, or before the clerk in vacation by whom the judgment is entered. In all cases the confession and assent thereto and the acknowledgment, if any, shall be filed with the clerk.

Confession to be in writing; how judgment given.

SEC. 245. On the confession of any person capable by this code of being made a party defendant to an action, judgment may be given against such person without action, in term time or vacation, in favor of anyone, either for money due or to become due, or to secure any person against contingent liability on behalf of the defendant in such judgment, or both, if it be in favor of the same person.

Judgment by confession without action.

How confession made in such cases.

SEC. 246. The confession shall be made, assented to, and acknowledged, and judgment given in the same manner as a confession in an action pending; besides which, the confession shall be verified by the oath of the party making it, and shall authorize a judgment to be given for a particular sum. If it be for money due or to become due it shall state plainly and concisely the facts out of which such indebtedness arose, and shall show that the sum confessed therefor is justly due or to become due.

Same subject. Execution when judgment for installments.

SEC. 247. If it be for the purpose of securing the plaintiff in the judgment against a contingent liability, it shall state plainly and concisely the facts constituting such liability and shall show that the sum confessed therefor does not exceed the same. When judgment is given so as to be payable in installments, executions may issue to enforce the payment of such installments as they become due.

CHAPTER TWENTY-EIGHT.

OF SUBMITTING CONTROVERSY WITHOUT ACTION.

Sec.

248. Controversy may be submitted without action.

249. Statement of the case and verification thereof.

Sec.

250. Statement to be filed with the clerk. Jurisdiction of court.

Controversy may be submitted without action.

SEC. 248. Parties to a question in controversy which might be the subject of an action in a court of record, with such parties plaintiffs or defendants, may submit the same to the determination of such court without action, as in this chapter provided.

Statement of the case and verification thereof.

SEC. 249. The parties as plaintiff and defendant shall state, in writing, a case containing the facts upon which the controversy depends, and subscribe the same in person or by their attorneys. Such statement shall be verified by the oaths of the parties, or, where there is more than one plaintiff or defendant, by at least one of each, to the effect that the controversy is real, and the proceeding is taken in good faith to determine the rights of the parties. Where either party to the controversy is a public corporation, or a private corporation, the statement of the case may be subscribed and verified by any person who at the time sustains the relation to such corporation as would authorize the service of a summons upon him.

Statement to be filed with the clerk. Jurisdiction of court.

SEC. 250. The statement shall be filed with the clerk, and from the date of such filing the court shall have jurisdiction of the controversy as if the same were an action pending after a special verdict found, and shall proceed to hear and determine the same accordingly.

CHAPTER TWENTY-NINE.

OF THE MANNER OF GIVING AND ENTERING JUDGMENT.

Sec.

251. Judgment to be entered in journal; manner of entry.

252. If counterclaim exceeds plaintiff's demand, judgment for defendant.

253. Judgment in actions for the recovery of personal property.

254. What entry to state in judgment for want of answer.

255. Judgment on demurrer.

Sec.

256. When entry of judgment made.

257. Judgment notwithstanding the verdict.

258. When entry of judgment made after motion for new trial decided in vacation.

259. Entry of judgment after the time prescribed.

Judgment to be entered in journal; manner of entry.

SEC. 251. All judgments shall be entered by the clerk in the journal, and shall specify clearly the amount to be recovered, the relief granted, or other determination of the action. If entered in vacation, the entry shall be entitled and dated substantially as follows:

Second. In all other cases he shall attach together in like manner the summons and proof of service, the pleadings, bill of exceptions, all orders relating to change of parties, together with a copy of the entry of judgment, and all other journal entries or orders in any way involving the merits and necessarily affecting the judgment.

Third. In all cases the clerk shall attach upon the outside of the judgment roll a blank sheet of paper upon which he shall indorse the name of the court, the term at which judgment was given, the names of the parties to the action and the title thereof, for whom judgment was given, and the amount or nature thereof, and the date of its entry and docketing.

SEC. 264. Instead of the judgment roll prescribed in the section last preceding, there shall be a final record made of the cause, as provided in this section.

Final record; in what cases required.

First. When in any action it shall appear that the title to real property, or any interest therein, or any easement, franchise, or right in or to the same, is directly determined or affected by the judgment therein, on motion of either party the court shall order that a final record be made of the case and the expense of such record shall be taxed as other disbursements of the action.

Second. In all other actions, on motion of either party, the court shall order that a final record be made of the case at the cost of the party moving for the same.

When a final record is ordered, it shall be made by the clerk within the time prescribed to prepare a judgment roll, by recording the papers and journal entries required in such roll in the order prescribed therefor.

CHAPTER THIRTY-ONE.

OF THE ENFORCEMENT OF JUDGMENT.

Sec. 265. When judgment may be enforced by execution.	Sec. 283. Confirmation of sale of real estate, proceedings thereon.

erty, or either of them, may at any time after the entry thereof have a writ of execution issued for its enforcement, as provided in this chapter.

Different kinds of executions.

SEC. 266. There shall be three kinds of execution: One against the property of the judgment debtor, another against his person, and the third for the delivery of the possession of real or personal property, or such delivery with damages for withholding the same.

By whom issued, what to contain and require.

SEC. 267. The writ of execution shall be issued by the clerk and directed to the marshal. It shall contain the name of the court, the names of the parties to the action, and the title thereof; it shall substantially describe the judgment, and, if it be for money, shall state the amount actually due thereon, and shall require the marshal substantially as follows:

First. If it be against the property of the judgment debtor and the judgment directs particular property to be sold, it shall require the marshal to sell such particular property and apply the proceeds as directed by the judgment; otherwise it shall require the marshal to satisfy the judgment, with interest, out of the personal property of such debtor; and if sufficient personal property can not be found, then out of the real property belonging to him on the day when the judgment was docketed in the recording district, or at any time thereafter;

Second. If it be issued after the death of the judgment debtor, and be against real or personal property, it shall require the marshal to satisfy the judgment, with interest, out of any property belonging to the deceased debtor in the hands of the debtor's personal representatives, heirs, devisees, legatees, tenants of real property, or trustees as such;

Third. If it be against the person of the judgment debtor, it shall require the marshal to arrest such debtor and commit him to jail until he shall pay the judgment, with interest, or be discharged according to law.

Fourth. If it be for the delivery of the possession of real or personal property, it shall require the marshal to deliver the possession of the same, particularly describing it, to the party entitled thereto, and may at the same time require the marshal to satisfy any costs, charges, damages, or rents, and profits recovered by the same judgment, out of the personal property of the party against whom it was rendered, and the value of the property for which the judgment was recovered to be specified thereof, if a delivery thereof can not be had; and if sufficient personal property can not be found, then out of the real property, as provided in the first subdivision of this section, and in that respect it is to be deemed an execution against property.

How endorsed by marshal and when returnable.

SEC. 268. The marshal shall indorse upon the writ of execution the time when he received the same, and such execution shall be returnable, within sixty days after its receipt by the marshal, to the clerk's office from whence it issued.

When execution issued against the person.

SEC. 269. If the action be one in which the defendant might have been arrested, as provided by section ninety-nine, an execution against the person of the judgment debtor may be issued after the return of the execution against his property unsatisfied in whole or in part, as follows:

First. When it appears from the record that the cause of action is also a cause of arrest, as prescribed in section ninety-nine, such execution may issue of course;

Second. When no such cause of arrest appears from the record, such execution may issue for any of the causes prescribed in section ninety-nine that may exist at the time of the application therefor, upon leave of the court or judge thereof;

Third. When the defendant has been provisionally arrested in the action, or an order has been made allowing such arrest, and in either case the order has not been vacated, such execution may issue of course:

Fourth. When execution is issued against the person of the defendant by leave of the court, it shall be applied for and allowed in the manner provided in section one hundred for allowing a writ of arrest, except that the undertaking need not be for an amount exceeding the judgment. A defendant arrested on execution, who has not been arrested provisionally, may at any time be discharged from such arrest for the causes and in the manner provided in sections one hundred and twenty-one and one hundred and twenty-two for the discharge of a defendant who has been provisionally arrested.

SEC. 270. A person arrested on execution shall be imprisoned in jail, and kept at his own expense until satisfaction of the execution, or his legal discharge, but the plaintiff shall be liable in the first instance for such expense, as in other cases of arrest, in the same manner and to the same extent as prescribed in sections one hundred and eighteen and one hundred and nineteen.

How person arrested on execution imprisoned.

SEC. 271. Notwithstanding the death of a party after judgment, execution thereon against his property or for the delivery of real or personal property may be issued and executed in the same manner and with the same effect as if he were still living, but such execution shall not issue within six months from the granting of letters testamentary or of administration upon the estate of such party without leave of the commissioner having authority to issue letters testamentary or of administration upon said estate.

Execution against property may issue after death of judgment debtor, except.

SEC. 272. The homestead of any family, or the proceeds thereof, shall be exempt from judicial sale for the satisfaction of any liability hereafter contracted or for the satisfaction of any judgment hereafter obtained on such debt. Such homestead must be the actual abode of and owned by such family or some members thereof. It shall not exceed two thousand five hundred dollars in value, nor exceed one hundred and sixty acres in extent if not located in a town or city laid off into blocks or lots, or if located in any such town or city, then it shall not exceed one-fourth of one acre. This Act shall not apply to decrees for the foreclosure of any mortgage properly executed; but if the owners of such homestead be married, then it shall be executed by husband and wife. When any officer shall levy upon such homestead, the owner thereof, or the wife, husband, agent, or attorney of such owner, may notify such officer that he claims such premises as his homestead, describing the same by metes and bounds, lot or block, or legal subdivision of the United States, whereupon such officer shall notify the creditor of such claim, and if such homestead shall exceed the maximum in this section, and he deem it of greater value than two thousand five hundred dollars, then he may direct the marshal to select three disinterested persons, who shall examine and appraise such homestead, under oath, commencing with the twenty acres of lot upon which the dwelling is located, appraising each lot or twenty acres separately; and if the same exceed two thousand five hundred dollars, then the marshal shall proceed to sell all in excess of two thousand five hundred dollars by lots or smallest legal subdivisions, offering them in the order directed by the judgment debtor, if he chooses to direct; otherwise he shall sell the same as aforesaid so as to leave the homestead as compact as possible. The homestead aforesaid shall be exempt from sale or any legal process after the death of the person entitled thereto for the collection of any debts for which the same could not have been sold during his lifetime.

Exemption of homestead from judicial sale.

SEC. 273. All other property, including franchises or rights or interests therein, of the judgment debtor shall be liable to an execution, except as in this section provided. The following property shall be exempt from execution if selected and reserved by the judgment debtor or his agent at the time of the levy, or as soon thereafter before sale thereof as the same shall be known to him, and not otherwise:

First. The earnings of the judgment debtor, for his personal services rendered at any time within sixty days next preceding the levy of execution or attachment, when it appears by the debtor's affidavit or otherwise that such earnings are necessary for the use of his family supported in whole or in part by his labor;

Second. Books, pictures, and musical instruments owned by any person, to the value of seventy-five dollars;

Third. Necessary wearing apparel owned by any person for the use of himself or his family: Provided, Watches or jewelry exceeding in value the sum of one hundred dollars shall not be exempt by virtue of this subdivision;

Fourth. The tools, implements, apparatus, team, vehicle, harness, or library necessary to enable any person to carry on the trade, occupation, or profession by which such person habitually earns his living to the value of five hundred dollars; also sufficient quantity of food to support such team, if any, for six months; the word "team" in this subdivision shall not be construed to include more than one yoke of oxen, or a span of horses or mules, or two reindeers, or six dogs, as the case may be;

Fifth. The following property, if owned by the head of a family and in actual use or kept for use by and for his family, or when being removed from one habitation to another on a change of residence: Ten sheep with one year's fleece or the yarn or cloth manufactured therefrom; two cows and five swine; household goods, furniture, and utensils to the value of three hundred dollars; also food sufficient to support such animals, if any, for six months, and provisions actually provided for family use and necessary for the support of such person and family for six months;

Sixth. The seat or pew occupied by the head of a family or his family in a place of public worship;

Seventh. All property of any public or municipal corporation;

Eighth. No article of property, or if the same has been sold or exchanged, then neither the proceeds of such sale nor the articles received in exchange therefor, shall be exempt from execution issued on a judgment recovered for its price.

Execution against property, how executed.

SEC. 274. When the writ of execution is against the property of the judgment debtor, it shall be executed by the marshal as follows:

First. If property has been attached, he shall indorse on the execution, and pay to the clerk forthwith, the amount, if any, of the proceeds of sales of perishable property, or debts due the defendant received by him, sufficient to satisfy the judgment;

Second. If the judgment is not then satisfied and property has been attached and remains in his custody, he shall sell the same or sufficient thereof to satisfy the judgment;

Third. If then any portion of the judgment remains unsatisfied, or if no property has been attached, or the same has been discharged, he shall levy on the property of the judgment debtor sufficient to satisfy the judgment;

Fourth. Property shall be levied on in like manner and with like effect as similar property is attached, as provided in sections one hundred and forty, one hundred and forty-one, and one hundred and forty-three, omitting the filing of the certificate provided for in section one hundred and forty-two;

Fifth. Until a levy, property shall not be affected by the execution. When property has been sold or debts received by the marshal on execution, he shall pay the proceeds thereof, or sufficient to satisfy the judgment, to the clerk by the day on which the writ is returnable.

Sixth. When property has been attached, and it is probable that such property will not be sufficient to satisfy the judgment, the execution may be levied on other property of the judgment debtor without delay. If after satisfying the judgment any property or the proceeds thereof remain in the custody of the marshal, he shall deliver the same to the judgment debtor.

SEC. 275. In the case of property in the possession of or owing from any garnishee mentioned in section one hundred and forty-three the marshal shall proceed as follows: Same subject.

First. If it appear from the certificate of the garnishee that he is owing a debt to the judgment debtor, which is then due, if such debt is not paid by such garnishee to the marshal on demand, he shall levy on the property of the garnishee for the amount thereof, in all respects as if the execution was against the property of the garnishee. But if such debt be not then due, the marshal shall sell the same according to the certificate, as other property;

Second. If in like manner it appear that the judgment debtor has rights or shares in the stock of the garnishee, as provided in section one hundred and forty-three, the marshal shall sell the same according to the certificate, as other property;

Third. If in like manner it appear that the garnishee has other personal property of the judgment debtor in his possession, and the same has not been bailed to such garnishee for a period then unexpired, unless the same be delivered to the marshal on demand he shall levy upon the same wherever he may find it. But if such property is in the possession of such garnishee upon a bailment then unexpired, the marshal shall sell the same, or the interest of the judgment debtor therein, according to the certificate, as other property.

SEC. 276. When a marshal with an execution levies upon any of the personal property mentioned in subdivision three of section one hundred and forty, and if the same is not delivered, paid, or transferred to him at the time, and the garnishee furnish him the certificate required in section one hundred and forty-three, he shall proceed thereafter in reference to such property as provided in section two hundred and seventy-four of this title. Such property may be delivered, paid, or transferred to the marshal at the time of levy, or sufficient thereof to satisfy the execution, and the marshal's receipt to the person, association, or corporation, as the case may be, shall be a sufficient discharge therefor. When garnishee gives marshal certificate, how marshal to proceed.

SEC. 277. When the marshal shall levy upon personal property by virtue of an execution, he may permit the judgment debtor to retain the same, or any part thereof, in his possession until the day of sale, upon the defendant executing a written undertaking to the marshal with sufficient surety, in double the value of such property, to the effect that it shall be delivered to the marshal at the time and place of sale, and for nondelivery thereof an action may be maintained upon such undertaking by the marshal or the plaintiff in the execution; but the marshal shall not thereby be discharged from his liability to the plaintiff for such property. When marshal may leave personal property in possession of judgment debtor.

SEC. 278. Before the sale of property on execution, notice thereof shall be given, as follows: Notice of sale on execution, how given.

First. In case of personal property, by posting a written or printed notice of the time and place of sale in three public places within five miles of the place where the sale is to take place, not less than ten days prior to the day of sale; one of said notices shall be posted on the door of the post-office nearest to the place where the sale is to take place;

Second. In case of real property, by posting a similar notice, particularly describing the property, for four weeks prior to the day of sale, in three public places as provided in the first subdivision of this section and publishing a copy thereof once a week, for the same period, in a newspaper published nearest to the place of sale.

Sales, where and how made.

SEC. 279. All sales of property upon execution shall be made by auction, between nine o'clock in the morning and four o'clock in the afternoon. After sufficient property has been sold to satisfy the execution, no more shall be sold. Neither the officer holding the execution nor his deputy shall become a purchaser or be interested in any purchase at such sale. When the sale is of personal property capable of manual delivery, and not in the possession of a third person, association, or corporation, it shall be within view of those who attend the sale, and be sold in such parcels as are likely to bring the highest price, and when the sale is of real property, and consists of several known lots or parcels, they shall be sold separately or otherwise, as is likely to bring the highest price, or when a portion of such real property is claimed by a third person and he requires it to be sold separately, such portion of it shall be sold separately.

When marshal may adjourn sale.

SEC. 280. If, at the time appointed for the sale, the marshal should be prevented from attending at the place appointed, or, being present, should deem it for the advantage of all concerned to postpone the sale for want of purchasers, or other sufficient cause, he may postpone the sale not exceeding one week next after the day appointed, and so from time to time for the like cause, giving notice of every adjournment by public proclamation made at the same time. The marshal for like causes may also adjourn the sale from time to time, not exceeding thirty days beyond the day at which the writ is made returnable, with the consent of the plaintiff indorsed upon the writ.

Bill of sale and delivery by marshal of personal property.

SEC. 281. When the purchaser of any personal property capable of manual delivery, and not in the possession of a third person, association, or corporation; shall pay the purchase money, the marshal shall deliver to him the property, and if desired shall give him a bill of sale containing an acknowledgment of the payment. In all other sales of personal property the marshal shall give the purchaser a bill of sale with the like acknowledgment.

When execution not to issue except by leave of the court and how leave obtained.

SEC. 282. Whenever, after the entry of judgment, a period of five years shall elapse without an execution being issued on such judgment, thereafter an execution shall not issue except as in this section provided:

First. The party in whose favor a judgment is given shall file a motion with the clerk of the court where the judgment is entered for leave to issue an execution. The motion shall state the names of the parties to the judgment, the date of its entry, and the amount claimed to be due thereon, or the particular property of which the possession was thereby adjudged to such party remaining undelivered. The motion shall be subscribed and verified in like manner as a complaint in an action;

Second. At any time after filing such motion the party may cause a summons to be served on the judgment debtor in like manner and with like effect as in an action. In case such judgment debtor be dead, the summons may be served upon his representative by publication as in the case of a nonresident, or by actual service of the summons;

Third. The summons shall be substantially the same as in an action, but instead of a notice therein required it shall state the amount claimed or the property sought to be recovered, in the manner prescribed in subdivision one of this section;

Fourth. The judgment debtor, or, in case of his death, his representatives, may file an answer to such motion within the time allowed to answer a complaint in an action, alleging any defense to such motion which may exist. If no answer be filed within the time prescribed, the motion shall be allowed of course. The moving party may demur or reply to the answer. The party opposed to the motion may demur to the same or to the reply. The pleading shall be subscribed and verified and the proceedings conducted as in an action;

Fifth. The word "representatives" in this section shall be deemed to include any or all of the persons mentioned in subdivision two of section two hundred and sixty-seven in whose possession property of the judgment debtors may be which is liable to be taken and sold or delivered in satisfaction of the execution and not otherwise;

Sixth. The order shall specify the amount for which execution is to issue, or the particular property possession of which is to be delivered; it shall be entered in the journal and docketed as a judgment, and a roll thereafter prepared and filed, or a final record made of the proceedings, as the case may be, in the same manner as a judgment.

SEC. 283. Whenever real property is sold on execution the provisions of this section shall apply to the subsequent proceedings.

Confirmation of sale of real estate, proceedings thereon.

First. The plaintiff in the writ of execution shall be entitled, on motion therefor, to have an order confirming the sale at the term next following the return of the execution, or if it be returned in term time, then at such term, unless the judgment debtor, or, in case of his death, his representative, shall file with the clerk ten days before such term, or if the writ be returned in term time, then five days after the return thereof, his objections thereto;

Second. If such objections be filed, the court shall, notwithstanding, allow the order confirming the sale, unless on the hearing of the motion it shall satisfactorily appear that there were substantial irregularities in the proceedings concerning the sale, to the probable loss or injury of the party objecting. In the latter case, the court shall disallow the motion and direct that the property be resold, in whole or in part, as the case may be, as upon an execution received of that date;

Third. Upon the return of the execution the marshal shall pay the proceeds of the sale to the clerk, who shall then apply the same, or so much thereof as may be necessary, in satisfaction of the judgment. If an order of resale be afterwards made, and the property sell for a greater amount to any person other than the former purchaser, the clerk shall first repay to such purchaser the amount of his bid out of the proceeds of the latter sale;

Fourth. Upon a resale the bid of the purchaser at the former sale shall be deemed to be renewed and continue in force, and no bid shall be taken except for a greater amount. If the motion to confirm be not heard and decided at the term at which it is made, it may be continued and heard and determined before the judge, or at any term thereafter. An order confirming a sale shall be a conclusive determination of the regularity of the proceedings concerning such sale, as to all persons, in any other action, or proceeding whatever;

Fifth. If, after the satisfaction of the judgment, there be any proceeds of the sale remaining, the clerk shall pay such proceeds to the judgment debtor, or his representative, as the case may be, at any time before the order is made, upon the motion to confirm the sale, provided such party file with the clerk a waiver of all objections made or to be made to the proceedings concerning the sale; but if the sale be confirmed, such proceeds shall be paid to such party of course, otherwise they shall remain in the custody of the clerk until the sale of the property has been disposed of.

SEC. 284. If the purchaser of real property sold on execution, or his successor in interest, be evicted therefrom in consequence of the reversal of the judgment, he may recover the price paid, with legal interest and the costs and disbursements of the action by which he was evicted, from the plaintiff in the writ of execution.

Who liable for purchase money in case of eviction of purchaser.

SEC. 285. When property liable to an execution against several persons is sold thereon, and more than a due proportion of the judgment is levied upon the property of one of them, or one of them pays without a sale more than his proportion, he may compel contributions from the others; and when a judgment is against several, and is upon an obligation or contract of one of them as security for another, and the surety pays the amount, or any part thereof, either by sale of his property or before sale, he may compel repayment from the principal. In such cases the person so paying or contributing shall be entitled to the benefit of the judgment to enforce contribution or repayment, if within thirty days after his payment he file with the clerk of the court where the judgment was rendered notice of his payment and claim to contribution or repayment; upon filing such notice the clerk shall make an entry thereof in the margin of the docket where the judgment is entered.

Contribution among joint judgment debtors.

Sale of real property, when absolute and when subject to redemption.

SEC. 286. Upon a sale of real property, when the estate is less than a leasehold of two years' unexpired term, the sale shall be absolute. In all other cases such property shall be subject to redemption, as hereinafter provided in this chapter. At the time of sale the marshal shall give to the purchaser a certificate of the sale containing—

First. A particular description of the property sold;

Second. The price bid for each distinct lot or parcel;

Third. The whole price paid;

Fourth. When subject to redemption, it shall be so stated.

The matters contained in such certificate shall be substantially stated in the marshal's return of his proceedings upon the writ.

Who may redeem.

SEC. 287. Property sold subject to redemption, as provided in the last section, or any part thereof separately sold, may be redeemed by the following persons, or their successors in interest:

First. The judgment debtor, or his successor in interest, in the whole or any part of the property separately sold;

Second. A creditor having a lien by judgment, or mortgage, on any portion of the property, or any portion of any part thereof, separately sold, subsequent in time to that on which the property was sold.

The persons mentioned in subdivision two of this section, after having redeemed the property, are to be termed redemptioners.

When lien creditor may redeem from purchaser.

SEC. 288. A lien creditor may redeem the property within sixty days from the date of the order confirming the sale, by paying the amount of the purchase money, with interest at the rate of eight per centum per annum thereon from the time of sale, together with the amount of any taxes which the purchaser may have paid thereon, and if the purchaser be also a creditor having a lien prior to that of the redemptioner, the amount of such lien with interest.

When lien creditor may redeem from redemptioner.

SEC. 289. If the property be so redeemed, any other lien creditor may, within sixty days from the last redemption, again redeem it, on paying the sum paid on the last redemption, with interest at the rate of eight per centum per annum thereon from the date of the last preceding redemption in addition, together with any taxes which the last redemptioner may have paid thereon, and, unless his lien be prior to that of such redemptioner, the amount of such lien, with interest. The property may be again, and as often as any lien creditor or redemptioner is disposed, redeemed from the last previous redemptioner, within sixty days from the date of the last redemption, on paying the sum paid on the last previous redemption, with interest at the rate of eight per centum per annum thereon from the date of such previous redemption, together with the amount of any taxes paid thereon by such last redemptioner, and the amount of any liens held by such last redemptioner, prior to his own, with interest.

When judgment debtor may redeem.

SEC. 290. The judgment debtor, or his successor in interest, may redeem the property at any time prior to the confirmation of sale, on paying the amount of the purchase money, with interest at the rate of eight per centum per annum thereon from the date of sale, together with the amount of any taxes which the purchaser may have paid thereon after the purchase. But if the judgment debtor do not redeem until after the confirmation of the sale, thereafter he shall redeem within twelve months from such order of confirmation and not otherwise.

SEC. 291. If redemption be not made as prescribed in this Act, or when redemption is made and a period of sixty days shall have elapsed without any other redemption, the purchaser or the redemptioner, as the case may be, shall be entitled to a conveyance from the marshal. If the judgment debtor redeem at any time before the time for redemption expires, the effect of the sale shall terminate and he shall be restored to his estate.

Purchaser or redemptioner, when entitled to conveyance.

SEC. 292. The mode of redeeming shall be as provided in this section.

Mode of proceeding to redeem.

The person seeking to redeem may redeem by paying to the marshal the sum required. The marshal shall give the person redeeming a certificate, as in case of sale on execution, adding therein the sum paid on redemption, from whom redeemed, and the date thereof and shall at once give notice of such redemption to the party from whom redeemed. A party seeking to redeem shall submit to the marshal the evidence of his right thereto, as follows:

First. If he be a lien creditor, a copy of the docket of the judgment under which he claims the right to redeem, certified by the clerk of the court where such judgment is docketed, or if he seek to redeem upon a mortgage, the certificate of the record thereof;

Second. A copy of any assignment necessary to establish his claim, verified by the affidavit of himself or agent; an affidavit by himself or agent showing the amount then actually due on the judgment or mortgage;

Third. If the redemptioner or purchaser have a lien prior to that of the lien creditor seeking to redeem, such redemptioner or purchaser shall submit to the marshal the like evidence thereof and of the amount due thereon, or the same may be disregarded.

When two or more persons apply to the marshal to redeem at the same time, he shall allow the person having the prior lien to redeem first, and so on. The marshal shall immediately pay the money over to the person from whom the property is redeemed, if he attend at the redemption, or if not, at any time thereafter when demanded. Where a marshal shall wrongfully refuse to allow any person to redeem, his right thereto shall not be prejudiced thereby, and upon the submission of the evidence and the tender of the money to the marshal as herein provided, he may be required by order of the court or judge thereof to allow such redemption.

SEC. 293. Until the expiration of the time allowed for redemption, the court or judge thereof may restrain the commission of waste on the property by order granted with or without notice, on the application of the purchaser or judgment creditor; but it shall not be deemed waste for the person in possession of the property at the time of sale or entitled to possession afterwards during the period allowed for redemption to continue to use it in the same manner in which it was previously used, or to use it in the ordinary course of husbandry, or to make the necessary repairs to buildings thereon, or to use wood or timber on the property therefor, or for the repair of fences, or for fuel in his family while he occupies the property.

Court may restrain waste prior to conveyance.

SEC. 294. The purchaser from the day of sale until a resale or a redemption, and a redemptioner from the day of his redemption until another redemption, shall be entitled to the possession of the property purchased or redeemed, unless the same be in the possession of a tenant holding under an unexpired lease, and in such case shall be entitled to receive from such tenant the rents or the value of the use and occupation thereof during the same period.

Who entitled to possession from time of sale to conveyance.

Order to examine judgment debtor.

SEC. 295. After the issuing of an execution against property, and upon proof by the affidavit of the plaintiff in the writ, or otherwise, to the satisfaction of the court or judge thereof that the judgment debtor has property liable to execution which he refuses to apply toward the satisfaction of the judgment, such court or judge may, by an order, require the judgment debtor to appear and answer under oath concerning the same before such court or judge, or before a referee appointed by such court or judge, at a time and place specified in the order.

Examination of judgment debtor, proceedings thereon.

SEC. 296. On the appearance of the judgment debtor, he may be examined on oath concerning his property. His examination, if required by the plaintiff in the writ, shall be reduced to writing and filed with the clerk by whom the execution was issued. Either party may examine witnesses in his behalf, and if by such examination it appear that the judgment debtor has any property liable to execution the court or judge before whom the proceeding takes place, or to whom the report of the referee is made, shall make an order requiring the judgment debtor to apply the same in satisfaction of the judgment, or that such property be levied on, by execution, in the manner and with the effect as provided in this chapter, or both, as may seem most likely to effect the object of the proceeding.

Restraining order against judgment debtor.

SEC. 297. At the time of allowing the order prescribed in section two hundred and ninety-six, or at any time thereafter pending the proceeding, the court or judge may make an order restraining the judgment debtor from selling, transferring, or in any manner disposing of any of his property liable to execution pending the proceeding. For disobeying any order or requirement authorized by sections two hundred and ninety-five, two hundred and ninety-six, and two hundred and ninety-seven the judgment debtor may be punished as for a contempt.

When judgment debtor may be arrested.

SEC. 298. Instead of the order requiring the attendance of the judgment debtor, as provided in the last two sections, the court or judge may, upon proof by affidavit of the party, or otherwise to his satisfaction, that there is danger of the debtor leaving the district, or concealing himself therein, and that there is reason to believe he has property which he unjustly refuses to apply to such judgment, issue a warrant requiring the marshal to arrest him and bring him before the court or judge. Upon being brought before the court or judge he may be examined on oath, and if it then appear that there is danger of the debtor leaving the district, and that he has property which he unjustly refused to apply to such judgment, he may be ordered to enter into an undertaking with one or more sureties that he will from time to time attend before the court or judge, as may be directed, and that he will not, during the pendency of the proceedings, dispose of any portion of his property not exempt from execution. In default of entering into such undertaking he may be committed to jail by warrant of the judge.

Order to examine garnishee, proceedings thereon.

SEC. 299. Whenever the marshal, with an execution against the property of the judgment debtor, shall apply to any person or officer mentioned in subdivision three of section one hundred and forty for the purpose of levying on any property therein mentioned, such person or officer shall forthwith give to the marshal a certificate in the manner prescribed in section one hundred and forty-two. If such person or officer refuse to do so, or if the certificate be unsatisfactory to the plaintiff in the writ, he may in like manner have the order prescribed in such section against such person or officer. Thereafter the proceeding upon such order shall be conducted in the manner prescribed from section one hundred and fifty-two to section one hundred and sixty-one, inclusive.

What officers not liable to answer as garnishee.

SEC. 300. No public officer shall be liable as garnishee for moneys in his possession as such officer, belonging to or claimed by any judgment debtor.

CHAPTER THIRTY-TWO.

OF ACTIONS TO RECOVER THE POSSESSION OF REAL PROPERTY.

Sec.	Sec.
301. Who may bring such action, and against whom.	308. Order to make survey of the property.
302. When landlord may be made defendant in place of tenant.	309. Same subject.
303. What to be pleaded in complaint.	310. Action not to be prejudiced by alienation of person in possession.
304. Defendant not to be allowed to give evidence in certain matters, unless. Judgment, when conclusive against landlord.	311. Mortgagee can not maintain action against mortgagor.
305. What the jury shall find by their verdict.	312. Action by tenant in common or for dower, what must be shown.
306. What damages may be recovered, and when the value of permanent improvements may be set off against such damages.	313. Action against lessee on failure to pay rent.
307. Verdict when right of possession expires after commencement of action.	314. When judgment conclusive, and upon whom.
	315. Possession not to be affected by order allowing new trial.
	316. Admeasurement of dower after judgment.

SEC. 301. Any person who has a legal estate in real property, and a present right to the possession thereof, may recover such possession, with damages for withholding the same, by an action. Such action shall be commenced against the person in the actual possession of the property at the time, or, if the property be not in the actual possession of anyone, then against the person acting as the owner thereof.

Who may bring such action, and against whom.

SEC. 302. A defendant who is in actual possession may, for answer, plead that he is in possession only as tenant of another, naming him and his place of residence; and thereupon the landlord, if he apply therefor, shall be made defendant in place of the tenant, and the action shall proceed in all respects as if originally commenced against him. If the landlord do not apply to be made defendant within the day the tenant is allowed to answer, thereafter he shall not be allowed to, but he shall be made defendant if the plaintiff require it. If the landlord be made defendant on motion of the plaintiff, he shall be required to appear and answer within twenty days from notice of the pendency of the action and the order making him defendant, or such further time as the court or judge thereof may prescribe.

When landlord may be made defendant in place of tenant.

SEC. 303. The plaintiff in his complaint shall set forth the nature of his estate in the property, whether it be in fee, for life, or for a term of years, and for whose life, or the duration of such term, and that he is entitled to the possession thereof, and that the defendant wrongfully withholds the same from him to his damage in such sum as may be therein claimed. The property shall be described with such certainty as to enable the possession thereof to be delivered if a recovery be had.

What to be pleaded in complaint.

SEC. 304. The defendant shall not be allowed to give in evidence any estate in himself, or another in the property, or any license or right to the possession thereof, unless the same be pleaded in his answer. If so pleaded, the nature and duration of such estate, or license, or right to the possession shall be set forth with the certainty and particularity required in a complaint. If the defendant does not defend for the whole of the property, he shall specify for what particular part he does defend. In an action against a tenant the judgment shall be conclusive against the landlord who has been made defendant in place of the tenant to the same extent as if the action had been originally commenced against him.

Defendant not to be allowed to give evidence in certain matters, unless.

Judgment, when conclusive against landlord.

SEC. 305. The jury by their verdict shall find as follows:

First. If the verdict be for the plaintiff, that he is entitled to the possession of the property described in the complaint, or some part thereof, or some undivided share or interest in either, and the nature and duration of his estate in such property, part thereof, or undivided share or interest in either, as the case may be;

What the jury shall find by their verdict.

Second. If the verdict be for the defendant, that the plaintiff is not entitled to the possession of the property described in the complaint, or to such part thereof as the defendant defends for, and the estate in such property or part thereof, or license or right to the possession of either, established on the trial by the defendant, if any; in effect as the same required to be pleaded.

What damages may be recovered, and when the value of permanent improvements may be set off against such damages.

SEC. 306. The plaintiff shall only be entitled to recover damages for withholding the property for the term of six years next preceding the commencement of the action, and for any period that may elapse from such commencement to the time of giving a verdict therein, exclusive of the use of permanent improvements made by the defendant. When permanent improvements have been made upon the property by the defendant, or those under whom he claims, holding under color of title adversely to the claim of plaintiff, in good faith, the value thereof at the time of trial, not exceeding such damages, shall be allowed as a set-off.

Verdict when right of possession expires after commencement of action.

SEC. 307. If the right of the plaintiff to the possession of the property expire after the commencement of the action, and before the trial, the verdict shall be given according to the fact, and judgment shall be given only for the damages.

Order to make survey of the property.

SEC. 308. The court or judge thereof, on motion, and after notice to the adverse party, may, for cause shown, grant an order allowing the party applying therefor to enter upon the property in controversy, and make survey and admeasurement thereof, for the purposes of the action.

Same subject.

SEC. 309. The order shall describe the property, and a copy thereof shall be served upon the defendant, and thereupon the party may enter upon the property and make such survey and admeasurement, but if any unnecessary injury be done to the premises he shall be liable therefor.

Action not to be prejudiced by alienation of person in possession.

SEC. 310. An action for the recovery of the possession of real property against a person in possession can not be prejudiced by any alienation made by such person either before or after the commencement of the action; but if such alienation be made after the commencement of the action, and the defendant does not satisfy the judgment recovered for damages for withholding the possession, such damages may be recovered by action against the purchaser.

Mortgagee can not maintain action against mortgagor.

SEC. 311. A mortgage of real property shall not be deemed a conveyance so as to enable the owner of the mortgage to recover possession of the real property without a foreclosure and sale according to law, and a judgment thereon.

Action by tenant in common or for dower, what must be shown.

SEC. 312. In an action for the recovery of dower before admeasurement, or by a tenant in common of real property against a cotenant, the plaintiff shall show, in addition to the evidence of his right of possession, that the defendant either denied the plaintiff's right or did some act amounting to such denial.

Action against lessee on failure to pay rent.

SEC. 313. When in case of a lease of real property and the failure of tenant to pay rent, the landlord has a subsisting right to reenter for such a failure, and may bring an action to recover the possession of such property, and such action is equivalent to a demand of the rent and a reentry upon the property. But if, at any time before judgment in such action, the lessee or his successor in interest as to the whole or a part of the property pay to the plaintiff or bring into court the amount of rent then in arrear, with interest, and the costs of the action, and perform the other covenants or agreements on the part of the lessee, he shall be entitled to continue in the possession according to the terms of the lease.

When judgment conclusive, and upon whom.

SEC. 314. In an action to recover the possession of real property the judgment therein shall be conclusive as to the estate in such property and the right to the possession thereof, so far as the same is thereby determined, upon the party against whom the same is given and against all persons claiming from, through, or under such party after the commencement of such action, except as in this section provided. When service of the summons is made by publication and judgment is given for want of answer, at any time within two years from the entry thereof, the defendant or his successor in interest as to the whole or any part of the property shall, upon application to the court or judge thereof, be entitled to an order vacating the judgment and granting him a new trial upon the payment of the costs of the action.

SEC. 315. If the plaintiff has taken possession of the property before the judgment is set aside and a new trial granted, as provided in the section last preceding, such possession shall not be thereby affected in any way, and if judgment be given for the defendant in the new trial he shall be entitled to restitution by execution in the same manner as if he were plaintiff.

Possession not to be affected by order allowing new trial.

SEC. 316. In an action to recover the possession of real property by a tenant in dower or his successor in interest, if such a state in dower has not been admeasured before the commencement of the action, the plaintiff shall not have execution to deliver the possession thereof until the same be admeasured, as follows:

Admeasurement of dower after judgment.

First. At any time after the entry of judgment in favor of the plaintiff, he may, upon notice to the adverse party, move the court for the appointment of referees to admeasure the dower out of the real property of which the possession is recovered by the action. The court shall allow such motion unless it appear probable on the hearing that a partition of such property can not be made without prejudice to the interests of the other owners. In the latter case the court shall disallow the motion, and thereafter the plaintiff shall only proceed for partition or sale of such real property as provided in the chapter of this code entitled "Of Actions for the Partition of Real Property;"

Second. If the court allow the motion, thereafter the proceedings shall be conducted as provided in such chapter. At any time after the confirmation of the report of the referees the plaintiff may have execution for the delivery of the possession of the property according to the admeasurement thereof, and for the damages recovered, if any, for withholding the same, if such damages remain unsatisfied;

Third. If the motion for admeasurement be made at the term at which judgment was given, the notice thereof shall be served on the adverse party at such time as the court by general rule or special order may prescribe.

CHAPTER THIRTY-THREE.

OF ACTIONS FOR NUISANCE, WASTE, AND TRESPASS ON REAL PROPERTY.

Sec.	Sec.
317. Private nuisance, and action therefor; when warrant allowed to abate it.	320. Sureties in undertaking, when to justify.
318. How warrant issued, and mode of proceeding under.	321. Action for waste, and judgment therein.
319. When defendant may have stay of warrant.	322. Actions for trespass in particular cases, and of judgment therein.
	323. Same subject.

SEC. 317. Any person whose property is affected by a private nuisance, or whose personal enjoyment thereof is in like manner thereby affected, may maintain an action for damages therefor. If judgment be given for the plaintiff in such action, he may, in addition to the execution to enforce the same, on motion, have an order allow-

Private nuisance, and action therefor; when warrant allowed to abate it.

ing a warrant to issue to the marshal to abate such nuisance. Such motion must be made at the term at which judgment is given, and shall be allowed of course, unless it appear on the hearing that the nuisance has ceased, or that such remedy is inadequate to abate or prevent the continuance of the nuisance, in which latter case the plaintiff may proceed to have the defendant enjoined.

How warrant issued, and mode of proceeding under.

SEC. 318. If the order be made, the clerk shall thereafter, at any time within six months, when requested by the plaintiff, issue such warrant directed to the marshal, requiring him forthwith to abate the nuisance at the expense of the defendant, and return the warrant as soon thereafter as may be, with his proceedings indorsed thereon. The expense of abating the nuisance may be levied by the marshal on the property of the defendant, and in this respect the warrant is to be deemed an execution against property.

When defendant may have stay of warrant.

SEC. 319. At any time before the order is made, or the warrant issues, the defendant may, on motion to the court or judge thereof, have an order to stay the issue of such warrant for such period as may be necessary, not exceeding six months, and to allow the defendant to abate the nuisance himself, upon his giving an undertaking to the plaintiff in a sufficient amount, with one or more sureties, to the satisfaction of the court or judge thereof, that he will abate it within the time and in the manner specified in such order.

Sureties in undertaking, when to justify.

SEC. 320. If the plaintiff is not notified of the time and place of the application for the order provided for in section three hundred and nineteen, the sureties therein provided for shall justify as bail upon arrest, otherwise such justification may be omitted, unless the plaintiff require it. If such order be made and undertaking given, and the defendant fails to abate such nuisance within the time specified in said order, thereafter, at any time within six months, the warrant for the abatement of the nuisance may issue as if the same had not been stayed.

Action for waste, and judgment thereon.

SEC. 321. If a guardian, tenant in severalty or in common for life or for years, of real property, commit waste thereon, any person injured thereby may maintain an action for damages therefor against such guardian or tenant, in which action there may be judgment for treble damages, forfeiture of the estate of the party committing or permitting the waste, and of eviction from the property. But judgment of forfeiture and eviction shall only be given in favor of the person entitled to the reversion against the tenant in possession when the injury to the estate in reversion is determined in the action to be equal to the value of the tenant's estate or unexpired term, or to have been done or suffered in malice.

Actions for trespass in particular cases, and of judgment thereon.

SEC. 322. Whenever any person shall cut down, girdle, or otherwise injure, or carry off any tree, timber, or shrub on the land of another person, or on the street or highway in front of any person's house, village, town, or city lot, or cultivated grounds, or on the commons or public grounds of any village, town, or city, or on the street or highway in front thereof, without lawful authority, in an action by such person, village, town, or city against the person committing such trespasses, or any of them, if judgment be given for the plaintiff it shall be given for treble the amount of damages claimed or assessed therefor, as the case may be.

Same subject.

SEC. 323. If upon the trial of such action it shall appear that the trespass was casual or involuntary, or that the defendant had probable cause to believe that the land on which such trespass was committed was his own, or that of the person in whose service or by whose direction the act was done, or that such tree or timber was taken from unclosed woodland for the purpose of repairing any public highway or bridge upon the land or adjoining it, judgment shall only be given for single damages.

CHAPTER THIRTY-FOUR.

ACTIONS ON OFFICIAL UNDERTAKINGS, AND FOR FINES AND FORFEITURES.

Sec. 324. Official undertakings, to whom deemed a security.	Sec. 329. Who may maintain action for fines and forfeitures.
325. Who may maintain action thereon.	330. Actions for penalties not to exceed certain amount.
326. When leave must be obtained before action can be commenced.	331. Judgment by collusion between plaintiff and defendant.
327. Judgment no bar to action for another delinquency.	332. Disposition of fines and forfeitures.
328. Amount of judgment.

SEC. 324. The official undertaking or other security of a public officer to any county, city, town, or other municipal or public corporation of like character therein, shall be deemed a security to the United States, or to such city, town, or other municipal or public corporation as the case may be, and also to all persons severally for the official delinquency against which it is intended to provide.

Official undertakings, to whom deemed a security.

SEC. 325. When a public officer, by official misconduct or neglect of duty, shall forfeit his official undertaking or other security, or render his sureties therein liable upon such undertaking or other security, any person injured by such misconduct or neglect, or who is by law entitled to the benefit of the security, may maintain an action thereon in his own name, against the officer and his sureties, to recover the amount to which he may by reason thereof be entitled.

Who may maintain action thereon.

SEC. 326. Before such action can be commenced by a plaintiff other than the United States, or the municipal or public corporation named in the undertaking or other security, leave shall be obtained of the court or judge thereof where the action is triable. Such leave shall be granted upon the production of a certified copy of the undertaking or other security, and an affidavit of the plaintiff, or some person in his behalf, showing the delinquency. But if the matters set forth in the affidavit be such that, if true, the party applying would clearly not be entitled to recover in the action, the leave shall not be granted. If it does not appear from the complaint that the leave herein provided for has been granted, the defendant on motion shall be entitled to judgment of nonsuit; if it does, the defendant may controvert the allegation, and if the issue be found in his favor, judgment may be given accordingly.

When leave must be obtained before action can be commenced.

SEC. 327. A judgment in favor of a party for one delinquency shall not preclude the same or another party from maintaining another action on the same undertaking, or other security, for another delinquency.

Judgment no bar to action for another delinquency.

SEC. 328. In an action upon an official undertaking or other security, if judgment has already been recovered against the surety therein, other than by confession, equal in the aggregate to the penalty or any part thereof of such undertaking or other security, and if such recovery be established on the trial, judgment shall not be given against such surety for an amount exceeding such penalty, or such portion thereof as is not already recovered against him.

Amount of judgment.

SEC. 329. Fines and forfeitures may be recovered by an action in the name of the officer or person to whom they are by law given, or in the name of the officer or person who by law is authorized to prosecute for them.

Who may maintain action for fines and forfeitures.

SEC. 330. When an action shall be commenced for a penalty which by law is not to exceed a certain amount, the action may be commenced for that amount, and if judgment be given for the plaintiff, it may be for such amount or less, in the discretion of the court, in proportion to the offense.

Actions for penalties not to exceed certain amount.

SEC. 331. A recovery of a judgment for a penalty or forfeiture by collusion between the plaintiff and defendant, with intent to save the Judgment by collusion between plaintiff and defendant.

defendant, wholly or partially, from the consequences contemplated by law, in case where the penalty or forfeiture is given, wholly or partly, to the person who prosecutes, shall not bar the recovery of the same by another person.

Disposition of fines and forfeitures.

SEC. 332. Fines and forfeitures not specially granted or otherwise appropriated by law, when recovered, shall be paid to the clerk of the district court. Whenever, by the provisions of law, any property, real or personal, shall be forfeited to the United States, or to any officer for its use, the action for the recovery of such property may be commenced wherever the defendant may be found, or wherever such property may be.

CHAPTER THIRTY-FIVE.

ACTIONS BY AND AGAINST PUBLIC CORPORATIONS AND OFFICERS.

Sec.

333. How actions may be maintained by public corporations, and for what causes.

334. Actions against public corporations, and what causes.

Sec.

335. How pleadings of public corporations verified.

336. How judgment against public corporation satisfied.

How actions may be maintained by public corporations, and for what causes.

SEC. 333. An action may be maintained by any incorporated town, school district, or other public corporation of like character in the district in its corporate name, and upon a cause of action accruing to it in its corporate character, and not otherwise, in either of the following cases:

First. Upon a contract made with such public corporation;

Second. Upon a liability prescribed by law in favor of such public corporation;

Third. To recover a penalty or forfeiture given to such public corporation;

Fourth. To recover damages for an injury to the corporate rights or property of such public corporation.

Actions against public corporations, and for what causes.

SEC. 334. An action may be maintained against any of the public corporations in the district mentioned in the last preceding section in its corporate character, and within the scope of its authority, or for an injury to the rights of the plaintiff arising from some act or omission of such public corporation.

How pleadings of public corporations are verified.

SEC. 335. In such actions the pleadings of the public corporation shall be verified by the chief officer representing it in its corporate capacity or by such other officer, agent, or attorney as he may designate, in the same manner as if such officer were a defendant in the action.

How judgment against public corporations satisfied.

SEC. 336. If judgment be given for the recovery of money or damages against a public corporation, no execution shall issue thereon for the collection of such money or damages, but such judgment in such respect shall be satisfied as follows:

First. The party in whose favor such judgment is given may, at any time thereafter, when an execution might issue on a like judgment against a private person, present a certified transcript of the record thereof to the officer of such public corporation who is authorized to draw orders on the treasurer thereof;

Second. On the presentation of such transcript, such officer shall draw an order on such treasurer for the amount of the judgment in favor of the party for whom the same was given. Thereafter such order shall be presented for payment, and paid, with like effect and in like manner as other orders upon the treasurer of such public corporation;

Third. The certified transcript herein provided for shall not be furnished by the clerk, unless at the time an execution might issue on such judgment if the same were against a private person, nor until satisfaction of the judgment in respect to such money or damages be acknowledged as in ordinary cases. The clerk shall include in the transcript a memorandum of such acknowledgment of satisfaction and the entry thereof. Unless the transcript contain such memorandum no order upon the treasurer shall issue thereon.

CHAPTER THIRTY-SIX.

OF ACTIONS TO AVOID CHARTERS, LETTERS PATENT, AND TO PREVENT THE USURPATION OF AN OFFICE OR FRANCHISE AND TO DETERMINE THE RIGHT THERETO.

Sec.	Sec.
337. Scire facias and quo warranto abolished.	343. When relator's right may be pleaded and determined in the action.
338. Action against public or private corporation to be commenced on the direction of the governor.	344. If judgment be given in favor of relator what he may do.
339. Action to annul the existence of corporation.	345. Relator after judgment may have action for damages.
340. Action for the usurpation of office or franchise.	346. Actions against several persons claiming office or franchise.
341. Who to prosecute actions, pleadings by whom verified, how leave granted, and who deemed complainant.	347. Judgment against usurper. Court may fine him.
342. Duty of prosecuting attorney as to commencing action.	348. Judgment against corporation.
	349. Copy of judgment roll to be filed.
	350. How judgment enforced.

SEC. 337. The writ of scire facias, the writ of quo warranto, and proceedings by information in the nature of quo warranto are abolished, and the remedies heretofore obtainable under those forms may be obtained by an action in the mode prescribed in this chapter.

Scire facias and quo warranto abolished.

SEC. 338. An action may be maintained in the name of the United States, whenever the governor shall so direct, against a corporation either public or private, for the purpose of avoiding the act of incorporation, or the act renewing or modifying its corporate existence, on the ground that such act or either of them was procured upon some fraudulent suggestion or concealment of a material fact by the persons incorporated, or some of them, or with their knowledge and consent; or for annulling the existence of such corporation, when the same has been formed under any general law operating in this district therefor, on the ground that such incorporation, or any renewal or modification thereof, was procured in like manner.

Action against public or private corporation to be commenced on the direction of the governor.

SEC. 339. An action may be maintained in the name of the United States against a corporation other than a public one on leave granted by the court or judge thereof where the action is triable, for the purpose of avoiding the charter or annulling the existence of such corporation, whenever it shall—

Action to annul the existence of corporation.

First. Offend against any of the provisions of the acts, or either of them, creating, renewing, or modifying such corporation or the provisions of any general law under which it became incorporated; or,

Second. Violate the provisions of any law by which such corporation forfeits its charter by abuse of its powers; or,

Third. Whenever it has forfeited its privileges or franchises by failure to exercise for a period of one year its powers; or,

Fourth. Whenever it has done or omitted any act which amounts to a surrender of its corporate rights, privileges, and franchises; or,

Fifth. Whenever it exercises a franchise or privilege not conferred upon it by law.

Sixth. Whenever any such corporation or association of persons shall combine for the purpose of forming a trust or agreement to prevent competition or to control the price, production or sale of any goods, products, or merchandise.

Action for the usurpation of office or franchise.

SEC. 340. An action may be maintained in the name of the United States upon the information of the United States attorney or upon the relation of a private party against the person offending in the following cases:

First. When any person shall usurp, intrude into, or unlawfully hold or exercise any public office, civil or military, or any franchise within the district, or any office in a corporation, either public or private, created or formed by or under the authority of the district; or,

Second. When any public officer has done or suffered an act which, by the provisions of law, makes a forfeiture of his office; or,

Third. When any association or number of persons act within the district as a corporation without being duly incorporated.

Who to prosecute actions, pleadings by whom verified, how leave granted, and who deemed complainant.

SEC. 341. The actions provided for in this chapter shall be commenced and prosecuted by the United States attorney. When the action is upon the relation of a private party, as allowed in section three hundred and forty, the pleadings on behalf of the district shall be verified by such relator as if he were the plaintiff in the action, or otherwise as provided in section seventy-one; in all other cases such pleading shall be verified by the attorney in like manner, or otherwise as provided in such section. When an action can only be commenced by leave as provided in section three hundred and thirty-nine, such leave shall be granted when it appears by affidavit that the acts or omissions in such section specified have been done or suffered by such corporation. When an action is commenced on the information of a private person, as allowed in section three hundred and forty, having an interest in the question, such party, for all the purposes of the action, and as to the effect of any judgment that may be given therein, shall be deemed a complainant.

Duty of prosecuting attorney as to commencing action.

SEC. 342. When directed by the governor, as prescribed in section three hundred and thirty-eight, it shall be the duty of the prosecuting attorney to commence the action therein provided for accordingly. In all other actions provided for in this chapter it shall be his duty to commence such action upon leave given where leave is required in every case of public interest, whenever he has reason to believe that a cause of action exists and can be proven, and also for like reasons in every case of private interest only in which satisfactory security is given to the district to indemnify it against the costs and expenses that may be incurred thereby.

When relator's right may be pleaded and determined in the action.

SEC. 343. Whenever an action is brought against a person for any of the causes specified in subdivision one of section three hundred and forty, the United States attorney, in addition to the statement of the cause of action, may also separately set forth in the complaint the name of the person rightfully entitled to the office or franchise, with a statement of the facts constituting his right thereto. In such case, judgment may be given upon the right of the defendant, and also upon the right of the person so alleged to be entitled, or only upon the right of the defendant as justice may require.

If judgment be given in favor of relator what he may do.

SEC. 344. If judgment be given upon the right of the person so alleged to be entitled, and the same be in favor of such person, he shall be entitled to the possession and enjoyment of such franchise, or to take upon himself the execution of such office, after qualifying himself therefor as required by law, and to demand and receive the possession of all the books, papers, and property of whatever nature belonging thereto.

Relator after judgment may have action for damages.

SEC. 345. If judgment be given upon the right and in favor of the person so alleged to be entitled, he may afterwards maintain an action to recover the damages which he may have sustained by reason of the premises. In such action the defendant may be arrested and held to bail in the same manner and with the like effect as in other actions where the defendant is subject to arrest.

SEC. 346. Several persons may be joined as defendants in an action for the causes specified in subdivision one of section three hundred and forty, and in such action their respective rights to such office or franchise may be determined.

Actions against several persons claiming office or franchise.

SEC. 347. When a defendant, whether a natural person or a corporation, against whom an action has been commenced for any of the causes specified in subdivision one of section three hundred and forty, is determined to be guilty of usurping, or intruding into, or unlawfully holding or exercising any office or franchise, judgment shall be given that such defendant be excluded therefrom. The court may also in its discretion impose a fine upon the defendant not exceeding two thousand dollars.

Judgment against usurper. Court may fine him.

SEC. 348. If it be determined that a corporation against which an action has been commenced pursuant to this chapter has forfeited its corporate rights, privileges, and franchises, judgment shall be given that such corporation be excluded therefrom, and that the corporation be dissolved.

Judgment against corporation.

SEC. 349. If judgment be given against a corporation the effect of which is that such corporation ceases to exist, or whereby any letters patent are determined to be vacated or annulled, it shall be the duty of the United States attorney to cause a copy of the judgment roll to be filed with the officer issuing the certificate of corporation or the letters patent to such corporation.

Copy of judgment roll to be filed.

SEC. 350. A judgment given in any action provided for in this chapter in respect to costs and disbursements, may be enforced by execution as a judgment which requires the payment of money, and in all other respects obedience thereto may be enforced by attachment of the body of the defendant, or, if the defendant be a corporation, the body of any or all of the officers or members of such corporation refusing or neglecting obedience thereto.

How judgment enforced.

OF ACTIONS BY AND AGAINST EXECUTORS OR ADMINISTRATORS.

Sec.

351. What causes of action do not survive.

352. What causes of action do survive.

353. When a death ensues from an injury.

354. Representatives regarded as one person.

355. When judgment for want of answer is evidence of assets.

356. Effect of inventory as evidence, and how it may be contradicted or avoided.

Sec.

357. Executor of his own wrong not liable as such.

358. When action may be commenced against executor or administrator.

359. Claim must be presented before action can be commenced.

360. When provisional remedies allowed against executors or administrators.

SEC. 351. A cause of action arising out of an injury to the person dies with the person of either party, except as provided in section three hundred and fifty-three; but the provisions of this chapter shall not be construed so as to abate the action mentioned in section thirty-six, or to defeat or prejudice the right of action given by section thirty-one.

What causes of action do not survive.

SEC. 352. All other causes of action by one person against another, whether arising on contract or otherwise, survive to the personal representatives of the former and against the personal representatives of the latter. When the cause of action survives, as herein provided, the executors or administrators may maintain an action thereon against the party against whom the cause of action accrued, or, after his death, against his personal representatives.

What causes of action do survive.

When a death ensues from an injury.

SEC. 353. When the death of a person is caused by the wrongful act or omission of another, the personal representatives of the former may maintain an action therefor against the latter, if the former might have maintained an action, had he lived, against the latter for an injury done by the same act or omission. Such action shall be commenced within two years after the death, and the damages therein shall not exceed ten thousand dollars, and the amount recovered, if any, shall be exclusively for the benefit of the decedent's husband or wife and children when he or she leaves a husband, wife, or children, him or her surviving; and when any sum is collected it must be distributed by the plaintiff as if it were unbequeathed assets left in his hands, after payment of all debts and expenses of administration, and when he or she leaves no husband, wife, or children, him or her surviving, the amount recovered shall be administered as other personal property of the deceased person; but the plaintiff may deduct therefrom the expenses of the action, to be allowed by the proper court upon notice, to be given in such manner and to such persons as the court deems proper.

Representatives regarded as one person.

SEC. 354. In an action against several executors or administrators, they shall all be considered as one person, representing their testator or intestate, and judgment may be given and execution issued against all of them who are defendants in the action, although the summons be served only on part of them, in the same manner and with the like effect as if served on all, except as provided in the next section.

When judgment for want of answer is evidence of assets.

SEC. 355. When a judgment is given against an executor or administrator, for want of an answer such judgment is not to be deemed evidence of assets in his hands unless it appear that the complaint alleged assets and that the summons was served upon him.

Effect of inventory as evidence, and how it may be contradicted or avoided.

SEC. 356. In an action against executors or administrators, in which the fact of their having administered the estate of their testator or intestate, or any part thereof, is put in issue and the inventory of the property of the deceased returned by them is given in evidence, the same may be contradicted or avoided by evidence—

First. That any property has been omitted in such inventory, or was not returned therein at its full value, or that since the return thereof such property has increased in value;

Second. That such property has perished or been lost without the fault of such executors or administrators, or that it has been fairly and duly sold by them at a less price than the value so returned, or that since the return of the inventory such property has deteriorated in value. In such action the defendants can not be charged for any things in action specified in their inventory unless it appear that they have been collected, or with due diligence might have been.

Executor of his own wrong not liable as such.

SEC. 357. No person is liable to an action as executor of his own wrong for having taken, received, or interfered with the property of a deceased person, but is responsible to the executors or administrators of such deceased person for the value of all property so taken or received and for all injury caused by his interference with the estate of the deceased.

When action may be commenced against executor or administrator.

SEC. 358. An action may be commenced against an executor or administrator at any time after the expiration of twelve months from the granting of letters testamentary or of administration and until the final settlement of the estate and discharge of such executor or administrator from the trust, and not otherwise.

Claim must be presented before action can be commenced.

SEC. 359. Such action shall not be commenced until the claim of the plaintiff has been duly presented to such executor or administrator, and by him disallowed. If such claim is presented after the expiration of the period of six months, mentioned in sections eight hundred and twenty and eight hundred and twenty-one, the executor or administrator in an action therefor shall only be liable to the extent of the assets in his hands at the time the summons is served upon him.

SEC. 360. In an action against an executor or administrator, as such, the provisional remedies of arrest and attachment shall not be allowed on account of the acts of his testator or intestate; but for his own acts as such executor or administrator such remedies shall be allowed for the same causes and in like manner and with like effect as in actions generally.

When provisional remedies allowed against executors or administrators.

CHAPTER THIRTY-EIGHT.

GENERAL PROVISIONS RELATING TO ACTIONS OF AN EQUITABLE NATURE.

Sec.	Sec.
361. Limitation of actions.	367. What objections if not taken by demurrer or answer may be made on the trial.
362. In whose name an action to be prosecuted.	368. Counterclaim of defendant.
363. Plaintiffs and defendants, who may be.	369. What causes of actions may be united.
364. Same subject.	370. Arrest and bail in actions of equitable nature.
365. Service of the summons.
366. Service of the summons by publication.

SEC. 361. An action of an equitable nature shall only be commenced within the time limited to commence an action as provided in chapter two of this title; and an action for the determination of any right or claim to or interest in real property shall be deemed within the limitations provided for actions for the recovery of the possession of real property; but no action shall be maintained to set aside, cancel, annul, or otherwise affect a patent to lands issued by the United States, or to compel any person claiming or holding under such patent to convey the lands described therein or any portion of them to the plaintiff in such action, or to hold the same in trust for or to the use and benefit of such plaintiff, or on account of any matter, thing, or transaction which was had, done, suffered, or transpired prior to the date of such patent, unless such action is commenced within ten years from the date of such patent. In an action upon a new promise, fraud, or mistake the limitation shall only be deemed to commence from the making of the new promise or the discovery of the fraud or mistake: Provided, This section shall not be construed so as to bar an equitable owner in possession of real property from defending his possession by means of his equitable title; and in any action for the recovery of any real property, or the possession thereof, by any person or persons claiming or holding the legal title to the same under such patent against any person or persons in possession of such real property under any equitable title, or having in equity the right to the possession thereof as against the plaintiff in such action, such equitable right of possession may be pleaded by answer in such action or set up by complaint to enjoin such action or execution upon any judgment rendered therein; and the right of such equitable owner to defend his possession in such action, or by complaint for injunction, shall not be barred by lapse of time while an action for the possession of such real property is not barred by the provisions of chapter two of this title.

Limitation of actions.

—construction, etc.

SEC. 362. Every action of an equitable nature shall be prosecuted in the name of the real party in interest, except as in this section otherwise provided. An executor or an administrator, a trustee of an express trust, or a person expressly authorized to sue by statute, may sue without joining with him the person for whose benefit the action is prosecuted. A trustee of an express trust within the meaning of this section shall be construed to include a person with whom and in whose name a contract is made for the benefit of another.

In whose name an action to be prosecuted.

SEC. 363. All persons having an interest in the subject of the action and in obtaining the relief demanded may be joined as plaintiffs,

Plaintiffs and defendants, who may be.

except as in this chapter otherwise provided. Any person may be made a defendant who has or claims an interest in the controversy adverse to the plaintiff, or who is a necessary party to a complete determination or settlement of the questions involved therein.

Same subject

SEC. 364. Of the parties to the action, those who are united in interest must be joined as plaintiffs or defendants; but if the consent of anyone who should have been joined as plaintiff can not be obtained, he may be made a defendant, the reason thereof being stated in the complaint; and when the question is one of a common or general interest of many persons, or when the parties are very numerous, and it may be impracticable to bring them all before the court, one or more may sue or defend for the benefit of the whole.

Service of the summons.

SEC. 365. When there is more than one defendant in the action, service of only one copy of the complaint shall be required, the same to be served on the defendant designated by the plaintiff or his attorney by a direction indorsed on such summons, but the summons served on the other defendants shall contain a brief statement of the cause of action and relief demanded.

Service of the summons by publication.

SEC. 366. In addition to the causes enumerated in the subdivisions of section forty-seven, service of the summons may be made by publication in the following cases:

First. When the subject of the action is real or personal property in the district, and the defendant has or claims a lien or interest actual or contingent therein, or the relief demanded consists wholly or partly in excluding the defendant from any lien or interest therein;

Second. When the action is for divorce, as hereinafter provided.

What objections if not taken by demurrer or answer may be made on the trial.

SEC. 367. The objection to the jurisdiction of the court, or that the complaint does not state facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action, if not taken by demurrer or answer, may be made on the trial.

Counterclaim of defendant.

SEC. 368. The counterclaim of the defendant shall be one upon which an action might be maintained by the defendant against the plaintiff in the action; and in addition to the cases specified in the subdivisions of section sixty-four, it is sufficient if it be connected with the subject of the action.

What causes of actions may be united.

SEC. 369. The plaintiff in an action of an equitable nature may unite several causes of action in the same complaint, where they all arise out of—

First. The same transaction, or transactions connected with the same subject of action;

Second. Contract, express or implied; or,

Third. Injuries, with or without force, to property;

Fourth. Claims to real property, or any interest therein, with or without an account for the rents and profits thereof;

Fifth. Claims to personal property, or any interest therein, with or without an account for the use thereof;

Sixth. Claims against a trustee by virtue of a contract or by operation of law.

But the causes of action so united must all belong to one of these classes, and must affect all the parties to the action, and not require different places of trial, and shall be separately stated.

Arrest and bail in actions of equitable nature.

SEC. 370. The writ of ne exeat is abolished, and instead thereof the plaintiff in an action may have the defendant arrested and held to bail in like manner and with like effect as provided in the chapter of this title "Of arrest and bail." A cause of arrest in an action shall be the same as those specified in section ninety-nine, so far as the same may exist, and not otherwise.

CHAPTER THIRTY-NINE.

OF THE TRIAL OF ISSUES IN ACTIONS OF AN EQUITABLE NATURE.

Sec.	Sec.
371. Certain provisions to apply.	377. Judgment of dismissal before trial and effect thereof.
372. How and when testimony taken.	378. Same after trial.
373. Conduct of the trial.	379. Chapters 26, 27, and 28 to apply.
374. Objections to depositions, when and how made.	380. When judgment may be given in vacation; entry, roll, and final record thereof.
375. Same subject.
376. Chapters 20 and 24 shall apply.

SEC. 371. The provisions of chapter fifteen of this title shall apply to actions of an equitable nature except as in this chapter otherwise or specially provided. Both issues of law and fact shall be tried by the court, unless referred. Whenever it becomes necessary or proper to inquire of any fact by the verdict of a jury, the court may direct a statement thereof, and that a jury be formed to inquire of the same. The statement shall be tried as an issue of fact in an action, and the verdict may be read as evidence on the trial of the action. Certain provisions to apply.

SEC. 372. All issues of fact in actions of an equitable nature may be tried by the court, and if tried by the court, the evidence shall be presented and the trial conducted in the same manner as other actions: Provided, The court may, in its discretion, refer the case to a referee pursuant to the provisions of this title. In all such actions the court, in rendering its decisions therein, shall set out in writing its findings of fact upon all the material issues of fact presented by the pleadings, together with its conclusions of law thereon; but such findings of fact and conclusions of law shall be separate from the judgment, and shall be filed with the clerk, and shall be incorporated in, and constitute a part of, the judgment roll of the case; and such findings of fact shall have the same force and effect, and be equally conclusive, as the verdict of a jury in an action. Exceptions may be taken during the trial to the ruling of the court, and also to its findings of fact, and a statement of such exceptions prepared and settled as in an action, and the same shall be filed with the clerk within ten days from the entering of the decree, or such further time as the court may allow. How and when testimony taken.

SEC. 373. When the action is called for trial, the trial shall proceed in the order prescribed in subdivisions one, two, three, four, and five of section one hundred and eighty-seven, unless the court for special reasons otherwise directs. Conduct of the trial.

SEC. 374. Upon the trial either party may object to the reading of a deposition, or any part thereof, when offered by the other because the witness is incompetent, or the testimony is so, or irrelevant, and not otherwise. All other objections to depositions shall be taken by written exceptions filed with the clerk within twenty days from the filing of the testimony, and may be heard and decided by the court or judge thereof at any time thereafter before the trial of the action. Objections to depositions, when and how made.

SEC. 375. When it appears from the deposition that a party was present at the examination of a witness, such party shall not be heard to object to anything in or concerning such deposition not excepted to at the time of taking the same, except the objections allowed to be taken on the trial as provided in section three hundred and seventy-two of this title. When any part of the examination of a witness is excluded for any reason, so much of the cross-examination as relates to the same matter is excluded also. Same subject.

SEC. 376. The provisions of chapters twenty and twenty-four of this title shall apply to actions of an equitable nature, but the final determination of the rights of the parties thereto is called a judgment, and any intermediate determination is called an order. Chapters 20 and 24 shall apply three of section two hundred and thirty-seven, except the last clause of such subdivision three. Such judgment is a determination of the action, but shall not have the effect to bar another action for the same cause or any part thereof.

SEC. 377. A judgment dismissing an action may be given against the plaintiff in any of the cases specified in subdivisions one, two, and Judgment of dismissal before trial and effect thereof.

Same after trial.

SEC. 378. Whenever upon the trial it is determined that the plaintiff is not entitled to the relief claimed, or any part thereof, a judgment shall be given dismissing the action, and such judgment shall have the effect to bar another action for the same cause or any part thereof, unless such determination be on account of a failure of proof on the part of the plaintiff, in which case the court may, on motion of such plaintiff, give such judgment without prejudice to another action by the plaintiff for the same cause or any part thereof.

Chapters 26, 27, and 28 to apply.

SEC. 379. The provisions of chapters twenty-six and twenty-seven of this title, from and inclusive of section two hundred and forty-one to and inclusive of section two hundred and forty-four, shall apply to actions of an equitable nature. The provisions of chapter twenty-eight shall apply to controversies which might be the subject of such an action.

When judgment may be given in vacation; entry, roll, and final record thereof.

SEC. 380. When upon the submission of such an action the court is unadvised as to what judgment ought to be given therein, it may reserve the case for further consideration, and may decide the same and give such judgment in vacation by filing the same with the clerk. When a judgment is given in an action of an equitable nature, unless otherwise ordered by the court, it shall be entered by the clerk within the day it is given. Sections two hundred and fifty-one, two hundred and fifty-two, two hundred and fifty-four, two hundred and fifty-five, and two hundred and fifty-nine, of this title shall apply to actions of an equitable nature. The provisions of chapter thirty of this title shall apply to judgments and the final record or roll thereof.

CHAPTER FORTY.

OF THE MODE OF ENFORCING A JUDGMENT IN ACTIONS OF AN EQUITABLE NATURE.

Sec.

381. When equivalent to performance.

Sec.

382. Certain chapters to apply.

When equivalent to performance.

SEC. 381. A judgment requiring a party to make a conveyance, transfer, release, acquittance, or other like act within a period therein specified shall, if such party do not comply therewith, be deemed and taken to be equivalent thereto. The court or judge thereof may enforce an order or judgment in an action of an equitable nature, other than for the payment of money, by punishing the party refusing or neglecting to comply therewith, as for a contempt.

Certain chapters to apply.

SEC. 382. The provisions of chapter thirty-one of this title shall apply to the enforcement of judgments so far as the nature of the judgment may require or admit of it, but the mode of trial of an issue of fact in a proceeding against a garnishee shall be according to the mode of trial of such issue in an action.

CHAPTER FORTY-ONE.

OF INJUNCTION.

Sec.

383. Definition of, and how permanent injunction enforced.

384. Allowance of injunction.

385. Service of the order allowing the injunction.

Sec.

386. When defendant may be restrained during the pendency of the action.

387. Allowance of injunction after answer.

388. Motion to vacate or modify injunction.

Definition of, and how permanent injunction enforced.

SEC. 383. An injunction is an order requiring a defendant in an action to refrain from a particular act. It is only allowed as a provisional remedy, and when a judgment is given enjoining a defendant, such judgment shall be effectual and binding on such defendant without other proceeding or process, and may be enforced, if necessary, as provided in section three hundred and eighty-one.

SEC. 384. An injunction may be allowed by the court or judge thereof at any time after the commencement of the action and before judgment. Before allowing the same the court or judge shall require of the plaintiff an undertaking, with one or more sureties, to the effect that he will pay all costs and disbursements that may be decreed to the defendant, and such damages, not exceeding an amount therein specified, as he may sustain by reason of the injunction if the same be wrongful or without sufficient cause. Allowance of injunction.

SEC. 385. The undertaking and affidavits, if any, upon which the injunction is allowed, shall be filed with the clerk. The order may be served as a summons and returned to the clerk, with a proof of service indorsed thereon, except that the service shall be made upon the defendant personally. The order may be filed with the clerk at once, and shall be deemed to be served upon the defendant from the date of its allowance, if it appear therefrom that the defendant appeared before the court or judge at the allowance thereof. Service of the order allowing the injunction.

SEC. 386. When it appears by the complaint that the plaintiff is entitled to the relief demanded, and such relief, or any part thereof, consists in restraining the commission or continuance of some act the commission or continuance of which during the litigation would produce injury to the plaintiff; or when it appears by affidavit that the defendant is doing, or threatens or is about to do, or is procuring or suffering to be done, some act in violation of the plaintiff's rights concerning the subject of the action, and tending to render the judgment ineffectual; or when it appears by affidavit that the defendant threatens or is about to remove or dispose of his property, or any part thereof, with intent to delay or defraud his creditors, an injunction may be allowed to restrain such act, removal, or disposition. When defendant may be restrained during the pendency of the action.

SEC. 387. An injunction shall not be allowed after the defendant has answered, except upon notice, but in such case the defendant may be restrained until the decision of the court or judge allowing or refusing the injunction; and before answer, if the court or judge deem it proper that the defendant should be heard before allowing an injunction, an order may be made requiring the defendant to show cause, at a specified time and place, why the injunction should not be allowed, and in the meantime the defendant may be restrained. Allowance of injunction after answer.

SEC. 388. If the injunction be allowed without notice, the defendant may, at any time after answer, and before trial, apply, upon notice, to the court or judge thereof, to vacate or modify the same. The application may be made upon affidavits in addition to the answer, and if so, the plaintiff may oppose the same by affidavits, or other evidence, in addition to those upon which the injunction was allowed. If, upon the hearing of the motion, it satisfactorily appear that the injunction should not have been allowed, either in whole or in part, it shall be vacated or modified accordingly. Motion to vacate or modify injunction.

CHAPTER FORTY-TWO.

OF THE FORECLOSURE OF LIENS UPON REAL PROPERTY.

Sec.	Sec.
389. Liens upon real property, how foreclosed.	394. Action for foreclosure can not be maintained during pendency of action for the debt.
390. Parties defendant.	395. Nature of judgment where debt payable in installments some of which not due.
391. Where two or more liens upon the same property.	396. Effect of payment before sale.
392. How judgment enforced.
393. Property sold upon foreclosure, how redeemed.

SEC. 389. A lien upon real property, other than that of a judgment, whether created by mortgage or otherwise, shall be foreclosed, and Liens upon real property, how foreclosed.

the property adjudged to be sold to satisfy the debt secured thereby, by an action of an equitable nature. In such action, in addition to the judgment of foreclosure and sale, if it appear that a promissory note or other personal obligation for the payment of the debt has been given by the mortgagor or other lien debtor, or by any other person as principal or otherwise, the court shall also adjudge a recovery of the amount of such debt against such person or persons, as the case may be, as in the case of an ordinary judgment for the recovery of money.

Parties defendant.

SEC. 390. Any person having a lien subsequent to the plaintiff upon the same property or any part thereof, or who has given a promissory note or other personal obligation for the payment of the debt or any part thereof, secured by the mortgage or other lien which is the subject of the action, shall be made a defendant in the action, and any person having a prior lien may be made defendant at the option of the plaintiff, or by the order of the court when deemed necessary.

Where two or more liens upon the same property.

SEC. 391. When it is adjudged that any of the defendants have a lien upon the property, the court shall make a like judgment in relation thereto and the debt secured thereby as if such defendant were a plaintiff in the action; and when a judgment is given foreclosing two or more liens upon the same property or any portion thereof in favor of different persons not united in interest, such judgment shall determine and specify the order of time, according to their priority, in which the debts secured by such lien shall be satisfied out of the proceeds of the sale of the property.

How judgment enforced.

SEC. 392. The judgment may be enforced by execution as an ordinary judgment for the recovery of money, except as in this section otherwise or specially provided:

First. When a judgment of foreclosure and sale is given, an execution may issue thereon against the property adjudged to be sold. If the judgment is in favor of the plaintiff only, the execution may issue as in ordinary cases, but if it be in favor of different persons not united in interest, it shall issue upon the joint request of such persons, or upon the order of the court or judge thereof, on the motion of either of them;

Second. When the judgment is also against the defendants or any one of them in person, and the proceeds of the sale of the property upon which the lien is foreclosed is not sufficient to satisfy the judgment as to the sum remaining unsatisfied to either, the judgment may be enforced by execution as in ordinary cases. When in such case the judgment is in favor of different persons not united in interest, it shall be deemed a separate judgment as to such persons, and may be enforced accordingly.

Property sold upon foreclosure, how redeemed.

SEC. 393. A judgment of foreclosure shall have the effect to bar the equity of redemption, and property sold on execution issued upon a judgment may be redeemed in like manner and with like effect as real property sold on an execution issued on a judgment.

Action for foreclosure can not be maintained during pendency of action for the debt.

SEC. 394. During the pendency of an action for the recovery of a debt secured by any lien mentioned in section three hundred and eighty-nine, an action can not be maintained for the foreclosure of such lien, nor thereafter, unless judgment be given in such action that the plaintiff recover such debt or some part thereof, and an execution thereon against the property of the defendant in the judgment is returned unsatisfied in whole or in part.

Nature of judgment where debt payable in installments some of which not due.

SEC. 395. When an action is commenced to foreclose a lien by which a debt is secured, which debt is payable in installments, either of interest or principal, and any of such installments is not then due, the court shall adjudge a foreclosure of the lien, and may also adjudge a sale of the property for the satisfaction of the whole of such debt, or so much thereof as may be necessary to satisfy the installment then due, with costs of action; and in the latter case the judgment of foreclosure as to the remainder of the property may be enforced by an order of sale, in whole or in part, whenever default shall be made in the payment of the installments not then due.

SEC. 396. If, before a judgment is given, the amount then due, with the costs of action, is brought into court and paid to the clerk, the action shall be dismissed, and if the same be done after judgment and before sale, the effect of the judgment as to the amount then due and paid shall be terminated, and the execution, if any have issued, be recalled by the clerk. When an installment not due is adjudged to be paid, the court shall determine and specify in the judgment what sum shall be received in satisfaction thereof, which sum may be equal to such installment, or otherwise, according to the present value thereof. The provisions of this chapter as to liens upon personal property are not to be construed so as to exclude a person having such a lien from any other remedy or right in regard to such property.

Effect of payment
before sale.

SEC. 397. When several persons hold and are in possession of real property as tenants in common, in which one or more of them have an estate of inheritance, or for life or years, or when several persons hold as tenants in common a vested remainder or reversion in any real property, any one or more of them may maintain an action of an equitable nature for the partition of such real property, according to

Who may maintain an action for partition

the respective rights of the persons interested therein, and for a sale of such property, or a part of it, if it appears that a partition can not be had without great prejudice to the owners.

Complaint, what it shall contain.

SEC. 398. The interest of all persons in the property, whether such persons be known or unknown, shall be set forth in the complaint, specifically and particularly, as far as known to the plaintiff; and if one or more of the parties, or the share or quantity of interest of any of the parties, be unknown to the plaintiff, or be uncertain or contingent, or the ownership of the inheritance depend upon an executory device, or the remainder be a contingent remainder, so that such parties can not be named, that fact shall be set forth in the complaint.

What lien creditors may be made defendants, etc.

SEC. 399. The plaintiff shall make creditors having liens upon the property or any portion thereof, defendants in the action. When the lien is upon an undivided interest or estate of any of the parties, such lien, if a partition be made, is thenceforth a lien only upon the share assigned to such party, but such share shall be first charged with its just proportion of the costs of the partition, in preference to such lien.

Summons, how directed.

SEC. 400. The summons shall be directed by name to all the tenants in common who are known, and in the same manner to all lien creditors who are made parties to the action, and generally to all persons unknown, having or claiming an interest or estate in the property.

Upon whom summons may be served by publication.

SEC. 401. If a party having a share or interest in or lien upon the property be unknown, or either of the known parties reside out of the district or can not be found therein, and such fact be made to appear by affidavit, the summons may be served upon such absent or unknown party by publication, directed by the court or judge, as in ordinary cases. When service of the summons is made by publication, it must be accompanied by a brief description of the property which is the subject of the action.

Answer, what to contain.

SEC. 402. The defendant shall set forth in his answer the nature and extent of his interest in the property, and if he be a lien creditor, how such lien was created, the amount of the debt secured thereby, and remaining due, and whether such debt is secured in any other way, and if so, the nature of such other security.

Rights of the parties may be put in issue, etc.

SEC. 403. The rights of the several parties, plaintiffs as well as defendants, may be put in issue, tried, and determined in such action, and where a defendant fails to answer, or where a sale of the property is necessary, the title shall be ascertained by proof to the satisfaction of the court before the judgment for partition or sale is given.

When order of sale may be made instead of partition.

SEC. 404. If it be alleged in the complaint and established by evidence, or if it appear by the evidence, without such allegation in the complaint, to the satisfaction of the court, that the property, or any part of it, is so situated that partition can not be made without great prejudice to the owners, the court may order a sale thereof, and for that purpose may appoint one or more referees. Otherwise, upon the requisite proofs being made, it shall adjudge a partition according to the respective rights of the parties, as ascertained by the court, and appoint three referees therefor, and shall designate the portion to remain undivided for the owners whose interests remain unknown or not ascertained.

How referees to make partition.

SEC. 405. In making the partition the referees shall divide the property and allot the several portions thereof to the respective parties, quality and quantity relatively considered, according to the respective rights of the parties as determined by the court, designating the several portions by proper landmarks, and may employ a surveyor with the necessary assistants to aid them therein. The referees shall make a report of their proceedings, specifying therein the manner of executing their trust, describing the property divided and the shares allotted to each party, with a particular description of each share.

SEC. 406. The court may confirm or set aside the report in whole or in part, and if necessary appoint new referees. Upon the report being confirmed, a judgment shall be given that such partition be effectual forever, which judgment shall be binding and conclusive—

Proceedings on report of referees.

First. On all parties named therein, and their legal representatives, who have at the time any interest in the property divided, or any part thereof, as owners in fee, or as tenants for life or for years, or as entitled to the reversion, remainder, or inheritance of such property or any part thereof after the termination of a particular estate therein, or who by any contingency may be entitled to a beneficial interest in the property, or who have an interest in any undivided share thereof as tenants for years or for life;

Second. On all persons interested in the property who may be unknown, to whom notice shall have been given of the application for partition by publication, as directed by section four hundred and one; and Third. On all other persons claiming from such parties or persons, or either of them.

SEC. 407. But such judgment and partition shall not affect any tenants for years or for life of the whole of the property which is the subject of partition; nor shall such judgment or partition preclude any person, except such as are specified in the last section, from claiming title to the property in question, or from controverting the title of the parties between whom the partition shall have been made.

Who not affected thereby.

SEC. 408. The expenses of the referees, including those of a surveyor and his assistants, when employed, shall be ascertained and allowed by the court, and the amount thereof, together with the fees allowed by law to the referees, shall be paid by the plaintiff, and may be allowed as part of the charges.

Expenses of referees.

SEC. 409. If the referees report to the court that the property of which partition shall have been adjudged, or any separate portion thereof, is so situated that a partition thereof can not be made without great prejudice to the owners and the court is satisfied that such report is correct, it may thereupon, by an order, direct the referees to sell the property or separate portion thereof so situated.

When order of sale may be made upon report of referees.

SEC. 410. When a part of the property only is ordered to be sold, if there be an estate for life or years in an undivided share of the property, the whole of such estate may be set off in any part of the property not ordered to be sold.

In case of partial sale, how estate for life or years set off.

SEC. 411. If an order of sale be made, and before a distribution of the proceeds thereof, the plaintiffs shall produce to the court a certificate showing the liens remaining unsatisfied, if any, by judgment upon the property, or any portion thereof, and unless he do so the court shall order a referee to ascertain them.

When reference ordered to ascertain lien creditors.

SEC. 412. If it appear by such certificate, or reference in case the certificate is not produced, that any such liens exist, the court shall appoint a referee to ascertain what amount remains due thereon or secured thereby, respectively, and the order of priority in which they are entitled to be paid out of the property.

Referees to ascertain amount of liens.

SEC. 413. The plaintiff must cause a notice to be served, at least ten days before the time for appearance, on each person having such lien by judgment to appear before the referee at a specified time and place to make proof by his own affidavit or otherwise of the true amount due, or to become due, contingently or absolutely, on his judgment.

Notice to lien creditors.

SEC. 414. The referee shall receive the evidence and report the names of the creditors whose liens are established, the amounts thereon or secured thereby, and their priority, respectively, and whether contingent or absolute. He shall attach to his report the proof of service of the notices and the evidence before him.

Duties of referee.

Exceptions to report.

SEC. 415. The report of the referee may be excepted to by either party to the action or to the proceedings before the referee, in like manner and with like effect as in ordinary cases. If a lien creditor be absent from the district, or his residence therein be unknown, and that fact appear by affidavit, the court or judge thereof may by order direct that service of the notice may be made upon his agent or attorney of record or by publication thereof for such time and in such manner as the order may prescribe.

Effect of confirmation of report.

SEC. 416. If the report of the referee be confirmed, the order of confirmation is binding and conclusive upon all parties to the action and upon the lien creditors who have been duly served with the notice to appear before the referee as provided in section four hundred and thirteen.

Distribution of proceeds of sale.

SEC. 417. The proceeds of the sale of the incumbered property shall be distributed by the judgment of the court as follows:

First. To pay its just proportion of the general costs of the action;

Second. To pay the costs of the reference;

Third. To satisfy the several liens, in their order of priority, by payment of the sums due and to become due, according to the judgment;

Fourth. The residue among the owners of the property sold, according to their respective shares.

When party may be required to exhaust other securities.

SEC. 418. Whenever any party to the action or who holds a lien upon the property or any part thereof has other securities for the payment of the amount of such lien, the court may, in its discretion, order such securities to be exhausted before a distribution of the proceeds of sale, or may order a just deduction to be made from the amount of the lien on the property on account thereof.

Proceedings not to delay or affect certain parties.

SEC. 419. The proceedings to ascertain the amount of the liens and to determine their priority, as above provided, or those hereinafter authorized to determine the rights of parties to funds paid into court, shall not delay the sale nor affect any other party whose rights are not involved in such proceedings.

Proceeds of sale to be distributed or paid into court.

SEC. 420. The proceeds of sale and the securities taken by the referees, or any part thereof, shall be distributed by them to the persons entitled thereto whenever the court so directs. But if no such direction be given all such proceeds and securities shall be paid into court or deposited as directed by the court.

When action to continue.

SEC. 421. When the proceeds of sales of any shares or parcel belonging to persons who are parties to the action, and who are known, are paid into court, the action may be continued as between such parties for the determination of their respective claims thereto, which shall be ascertained and adjudged by the court. Further testimony may be taken in court, or by a referee, at the discretion of the court, and the court may, if necessary, require such parties to present the facts or law in controversy, by pleading, as in an original action.

Sale by referees, how made.

SEC. 422. All sales of real property made by the referees shall be made by public auction to the highest bidder, in the manner required for the sale of real property on execution. The notice shall state the time, place, and terms of sale, and if the property or any part of it is to be sold subject to a prior estate, charge, or lien, that shall be stated in the notice.

Court may direct sale to be made on credit.

SEC. 423. The court shall, in the order of sale, direct the terms of credit which may be allowed for the purchase money of any portion of the premises of which it may direct a sale on credit; and for that portion of which the purchase money is required by the provisions hereinafter contained to be invested for the benefit of unknown owners, infants, and parties out of the district.

SEC. 424. The referees may take separate mortgages and other securities for the whole or convenient portions of the purchase money of such parts of the property as are directed by the court to be sold on credit, in the name of the clerk of the court, and his successor in office; and for the shares of any known owner of full age, in the name of such owner.

Mortgages and other securities, how taken by referees.

SEC. 425. When the estate of any tenant for life or years, in any undivided part of the property in question, shall have been admitted by the parties, or ascertained by the court to be existing at the time of the order of sale, and the person entitled to such estate shall have been made a party to the action, such estate may be first set off out of any part of the property, and a sale made of such parcel, subject to the prior unsold estate of such tenant therein; but if in the judgment of the court a due regard to the interest of all the parties require that such estate be also sold, the sale may be so ordered.

Estate for life or years, how disposed of.

SEC. 426. Any person entitled to an estate for life or years in any undivided part of the property, whose estates shall have been sold, shall be entitled to receive such sum in gross as may be deemed upon principles of law applicable to annuities a reasonable satisfaction for such estate, and which the person so entitled shall consent to accept instead thereof, by an instrument duly acknowledged or proved in the same manner as deeds for the purpose of record, and filed with the clerk.

Compensation for such estate in case of sale.

SEC. 427. If such consent be not given, as provided in the last preceding section, before the report of sale, the court shall ascertain and determine what proportion of the proceeds of the sale, after deducting expenses, will be a just and reasonable sum to be invested for the benefit of the person entitled to such estate for life or years, and shall order the same to be deposited in court for that purpose.

If consent not given, court to determine the value of such estate.

SEC. 428. The proportion of the proceeds of the sale to be invested as provided in the section last preceding shall be ascertained and determined in the several cases as follows:

Rule for the determination of the value.

First. If an estate in dower be included in the order of sale, its proportion shall be one-third of the proceeds of the sale of the property, or of the sale of the undivided share in such property upon which the claim of dower existed;

Second. If an estate by the curtesy, or other estate for life or years, be included in the order of sale, its proportion shall be the whole proceeds of the sale of the property, or of the sale of the undivided share thereof in which such estate may be.

And in all cases the proportion of the expenses of the proceeding shall be deducted from the proceeds of the sale.

SEC. 429. If the persons entitled to such estate for life or years be unknown, the court shall provide for the protection of their rights in the same manner, as far as may be, as if they were known and had appeared.

Rights of unknown tenants to be protected.

SEC. 430. In all cases of sales in partition, when it appears that a married woman has an inchoate right of dower in any of the property sold, or that any person has a vested or contingent future right or estate therein, the court shall ascertain and settle the proportional value of such inchoate, contingent, or vested right or estate according to the principles of law applicable to annuities and survivorship, and shall direct such proportion of the proceeds of sale to be invested, secured, or paid over in such manner as to protect the right and interests of the parties.

Inchoate or contingent interests, how provided for.

SEC. 431. In all cases of sales of property, the terms shall be made known at the time; and if the premises consist of distinct farms or lots, they shall be sold separately, or otherwise if the court so directs.

Terms of sale to be made known at the time of sale.

SEC. 432. Neither of the referees, nor any person for the benefit of Referees not to purchase.

either of them, shall be interested in any purchase; nor shall the guardian of an infant party be interested in the purchase of any real property, being the subject of the action, except for the benefit of the infant. All sales contrary to the provisions of this section shall be void.

Report of referees, what to contain.

SEC. 433. After completing the sale, the referees shall report the same to the court, with a description of the different parcels of lands sold to each purchaser, the name of the purchaser, the price paid or secured, the terms and conditions of the sale, and the securities, if any, taken. The report shall be filed with the clerk.

Report may be excepted to; effect of confirmation.

SEC. 434. The report of sale may be excepted to by any party entitled to a share of the proceeds, in like manner and with like effect as in ordinary cases. If the sale be confirmed, the order of confirmation shall direct the referees to execute conveyances and take securities pursuant to such sale, which acts they are hereby authorized to do. Such order shall have the effect to discharge the property of the estate or interest of every person mentioned in section four hundred and six, and of tenants for life or years of the property sold, and shall be binding and conclusive upon all such persons, as if the same were a decree for the partition of such property, and upon all persons whomsoever as to the regularity of the proceedings concerning such sale, except as provided in section four hundred and thirty-two.

Proceedings when a party or incum-brancer becomes purchaser.

SEC. 435. When a party entitled to a share of the property or an incumbrancer entitled to have his lien paid out of the sale becomes a purchaser, the referees may take his receipt for so much of the proceeds of the sale as belongs to him.

When and what proceeds of sale to be invested.

SEC. 436. When there are proceeds of sale belonging to an unknown owner, or to a person without the district who has no legal representatives within it, or when there are proceeds arising from the sale of an estate subject to the prior estate of a tenant for life or years, which are paid into the court or otherwise deposited by order of the court, the same may be invested under such order in securities on interest for the benefit of the persons entitled thereto.

In whose name securities taken or investments made.

SEC. 437. When the security for the proceeds of sale is taken, or when an investment of any such proceeds is made, it shall be done, except as herein otherwise provided, in the name of the clerk of the court and his successors in office, who shall hold the same for the use and benefit of the parties interested, subject to the order of the court.

Same subject.

SEC. 438. When security is taken by the referees on a sale, and the parties interested in such security, by an instrument in writing under their hands delivered to the referee, agree upon the shares and proportions to which they are respectively entitled, or when shares and proportions have been previously adjudged by the court, such securities shall be taken in the names of and payable to the parties respectively entitled thereto, and shall be delivered to such parties upon their receipt therefor. Such agreement and receipt shall be returned and filed with the clerk.

When clerk to keep account and receive interest.

SEC. 439. The clerk in whose name a security is taken or by whom an investment is made, and his successors in office, shall receive the interest and principal as it becomes due, and apply and invest the same as the court may direct; and shall file in his office all securities taken, and keep an account in a book provided and kept for that purpose in the clerk's office, free for inspection by all persons, of investments and moneys received by him thereon, and the disposition thereof.

When equal partition can not be made, court may adjudge compensation.

SEC. 440. When it appears that partition can not be made equal between the parties, according to their respective rights, without prejudice to the rights and interests of some of them, the court may adjudge compensation to be made by one party to another on account of inequality of partition; but such compensation shall not be required to be made to others by owners unknown, nor by infants unless in case of an infant it appear that he has personal property sufficient for that purpose, and that his interest will be promoted thereby.

SEC. 441. When the share of an infant is sold the proceeds of the sale may be paid by the referees making the sale to his general guardian, or the special guardian appointed for him in the action, upon such guardian giving the security required by law or directed by order of the court.

When proceeds of sale paid to guardian of infant.

SEC. 442. The guardian who may be entitled to the custody and management of the estate of an insane person, or other person adjudged incapable of conducting his own affairs, whose interest in real property shall have been sold, may receive in behalf of such person his share of the proceeds of such real property from the referees on executing, with sufficient sureties, an undertaking, approved by the judge of the court, that he will faithfully discharge the trust reposed in him, and will render a true and just account to the person entitled, or to his legal representatives.

When paid to guardian of insane person.

SEC. 443. The costs of partition, including fees of referees and other disbursements, shall be paid by the parties respectively entitled to share in the lands divided, in proportion to their respective interests therein, and may be included and specified in the judgment. In that case they shall be a lien on the several shares, and the judgment may be enforced by execution against the parties separately. When, however, a litigation arises between some of the parties only, the court may require the expenses of such litigation to be paid by the parties thereto, or any of them.

Costs of partition, how apportioned.

CHAPTER FORTY-FOUR.

OF ACTIONS OF AN EQUITABLE NATURE BY AND AGAINST EXECUTORS, ADMINISTRATORS, LEGATEES, HEIRS, AND DEVISEES.

Sec.
444. In what actions chapter 37 shall apply.
445. An action against next of kin by creditor of the estate.
446. Each liable for the whole amount received.
447. Next of kin may maintain an action to compel contribution.
448. An action against legatees by creditor of the testator.
449. Apportionment of costs in an action against next of kin or legatees.
450. Payment of the amount recovered against any one satisfies the judgment as to such person.
451. Heirs or devisees liable for the debts of their ancestor or testator.
452. In what cases and to what extent not liable.

Sec.
453. Section 452 not to affect a case where debt charged upon real estate by will.
454. Preference of debts, and definition thereof.
455. How judgment against heir or devisee enforced.
456. When heirs or devisees personally liable.
457. Judgment against several heirs or devisees jointly to be apportioned among them.
458. Devisees not liable when there are assets.
459. Liable for deficiency only.
460. Two preceding sections not to affect a case where the debt is charged upon the real property by the will.

SEC. 444. The provisions of chapter thirty-seven of this title shall apply to actions of an equitable nature by and against executors and administrators, except as in this chapter otherwise or specially provided. Sections three hundred and fifty-one, three hundred and fifty-two, and three hundred and fifty-three of such chapter shall not so apply. All causes of actions of an equitable nature by one person against another, however arising, survive to the personal representatives of the former and against the personal representatives of the latter. When the cause of action survives, as herein provided, the executors or administrators may maintain an action of an equitable nature thereon against the party against whom the cause of action accrued, or after his death against his personal representatives.

In what actions chapter 37 shall apply.

An action against next of kin by creditor of the estate.

SEC. 445. The next of kin of a deceased person are liable to an action by a creditor of the estate to recover the distributive shares received out of such estate, or to so much thereof as may be necessary to satisfy his debt. The action may be against all the next of kin jointly or against any one or more of them severally.

Each liable for the whole amount received.

SEC. 446. In such action the plaintiff may recover the value of all the assets received by all the defendants in the action if necessary to satisfy his debt; and the amount of the recovery shall be apportioned among the defendants, in proportion to the value of the assets received by each; and no allowance or deduction shall be made from such amount on account of there being other next of kin to whom assets have also been delivered.

Next of kin may maintain an action to compel contribution.

SEC. 447. Any one of the next of kin against whom a recovery is had pursuant to section four hundred and forty-six may maintain an action against all the other next of kin of the deceased person to whom any such assets have been delivered jointly, or against any of them separately, for a just and equal contribution, and may recover of each defendant such amount as shall be in the same proportion to the whole sum collected of the plaintiff as the value of the assets delivered to such defendant bore to the value of all the assets delivered to all the next of kin of the deceased.

An action against legatees by creditor of the testator.

SEC. 448. Legatees are liable to an action by a creditor of the testator to recover the value of any legacy received by them. The action may be maintained against all the legatees jointly or against any one or more of them severally. In such action the plaintiff shall not recover unless he shows—

First. That no assets were delivered by the executor or administrator of the testator to his next of kin; or Second. That the value of such assets has been recovered by some other creditor; or Third. That such assets are not sufficient to satisfy the demand of the plaintiff.

And in the last case he shall recover only the deficiency. The whole amount which the plaintiff shall recover shall be apportioned among all the legatees of the testator in proportion to the value of their legacies respectively, and his proportion shall only be recovered of each legatee.

Apportionment of costs in an action against next of kin or legatees.

SEC. 449. In an action against several next of kin or legatees jointly for assets delivered to them, if a recovery be had against such next of kin or legatees, the cost of such action shall be apportioned among the several defendants in proportion to the amount recovered against each of them.

Payment of the amount recovered against any one satisfies the judgment as to such person.

SEC. 450. A decree against several next of kin or legatees shall be satisfied as to any one of them by the payment or satisfaction of the amount recovered against such defendant.

Heirs or devisees liable for the debts of their ancestor or testator.

SEC. 451. Heirs and devisees are liable to an action by a creditor of a deceased person to recover the debt of their ancestor or testator to the extent of the value of any real property inherited by or devised to them. If such action be against the heirs, all the heirs who are liable shall be made parties to the action.

In what cases and to what extent not liable.

SEC. 452. But the heirs are not liable for the debt, unless it appear that the personal assets of the deceased were insufficient to discharge it, or that after due proceedings the creditor has been unable to collect the debt from the personal representatives of the deceased, or from his next of kin or legatees. If the personal assets were sufficient to pay a part of the debt, or in case a part thereof shall have been collected, the heirs of such deceased person are liable for the residue.

Section 452 not to affect a case where debt charged upon real estate by will.

SEC. 453. The section last preceding shall not affect the liability of heirs for a debt of their ancestor where such debt was by his will expressly charged exclusively on the real properties descended to such heirs, or where such debt is by the will expressly directed to be paid out of the real property descended before resorting to the personal property.

SEC. 454. In cases where the next of kin, legatees, heirs, and devisees are liable for the debts of their ancestors, as herein provided, they shall be liable therefor without other priority or preference than such ancestors would be. The word "debt," as used in this chapter, shall be construed to include all claims for the payment of money which survive against the personal representatives of the deceased, as provided in section four hundred and forty-four.

Preference of debts, and definition thereof.

SEC. 455. A judgment against an heir or devisee on account of the debt of his ancestor or testator may be enforced by execution against the real property shown to have descended to the heir or devisee, and not otherwise. Such judgment shall have preference as a lien on such real property to any judgment or decree obtained against such heir or devisee on account of a debt or demand due in his own right.

How judgment against heir or devisee enforced.

SEC. 456. When it appears in the action that before the commencement thereof the heir or devisee has aliened the real property descended to him, or any part thereof, he shall be personally liable for the value of the property so aliened, and a judgment may be given against him therefor, to be enforced by execution, as if the judgment were for his own debt. No real property aliened in good faith and for a valuable consideration by an heir or devisee before action commenced against him is liable to an execution for the debt of his ancestor or testator, or in any manner affected by the judgment therefor against such heir or devisee.

When heirs or devisees personally liable.

SEC. 457. In an action against several heirs jointly, or several devisees jointly, the amount which the plaintiff recovers must be apportioned among all the heirs of the ancestor or devisees of the testator in proportion to the value of the real property descended or devised, and such proportion only can be recovered of each heir or devisee.

Judgment against several heirs or devisees jointly to be apportioned among them.

SEC. 458. A devisee shall not be liable to the creditor of his testator unless it appear that the personal assets of the testator and the real property descended to his heirs were insufficient to discharge the debt, or unless it appear that after due proceedings the creditor has been unable to recover the debt, or any part thereof, from the personal representatives of the testator or from his next of kin, legatees, or heirs.

Devisees not liable
when there are assets.

SEC. 459. In either of the cases specified in the section last preceding the amount of the deficiency of the personal assets, and of the real property descended, to satisfy the debt of the plaintiff, or the amount which such plaintiff may have failed to recover from the personal representatives of the testator, his next of kin, legatees, and heirs, may be recovered of the devisees of such testator, to the extent of the value of the real property devised to them respectively.

Liable for deficiency only.

SEC. 460. The two sections last preceding shall not affect the liability of devisees for a debt of their testator where such debt was by his will expressly charged exclusively upon the real property devised, or by the terms of the will made payable by the devisee, or out of the real property devised, before resorting to the personal property or to any other real property descended or devised.

Two preceding sections not to affect a case where the debt is charged upon the real property by the will.

CHAPTER FORTY-FIVE.

ACTIONS TO DECLARE VOID OR DISSOLVE THE MARRIAGE CONTRACT.

Sec.		Sec.
461.	Husband or wife may maintain action.	468.	Residence of parties.
462.	What marriages absolutely void.	469.	Same.
463.	What marriages void when so declared.	470.	Pleas in bar by defendant.
464.	At whose action marriages declared void.	471.	Maintenance and custody of children pending action.
465.	At whose action marriages declared voidable.	472.	Judgment for maintenance for the custody of children.
466.	Action to declare marriage valid.	473.	Power of court to modify decree.
467.	For what causes marriages may be dissolved.	474.	Right to remarry.

Husband or wife may maintain action.

SEC. 461. A husband or wife may maintain an action of an equitable nature against the other for the dissolution of the marriage contract, or to have the same declared void, as provided in this chapter.

What marriages absolutely void.

SEC. 462. All marriages which are prohibited by law on account of consanguinity between the parties, or on account of either of them having a former husband or wife then living, shall, if solemnized within the district, be absolutely void.

What marriages void when so declared.

SEC. 463. When either of the parties to a marriage shall be incapable of making such contract or assenting thereto for want of legal age or sufficient understanding, or when the consent of either party shall be obtained by force or fraud, such marriage shall be void from the time it is so declared by the decree of a court having jurisdiction thereof.

At whose action marriages declared void.

SEC. 464. A marriage may be declared void from the beginning, at the action of either party, for any of the causes specified in section four hundred and sixty-two, and whether so declared or not shall be deemed and held to be void in any action or proceeding whatever in which the same may come in question; but a marriage once declared to be valid by the judgment of a court having jurisdiction thereof, in an action for that purpose, can not afterwards be questioned for the same cause, directly or otherwise.

At whose action marriages declared voidable.

SEC. 465. A marriage shall not be declared void for any of the causes specified in section four hundred and sixty-three, except at the action or claim of the party laboring under the disability, or upon whom the force or fraud was imposed or practiced; nor at the action or claim of such party if it appears that the parties freely cohabited together as husband and wife after the party had arrived at legal age, acquired sufficient understanding, been restored to reason, freed from the force, or discovered the fraud, as the case may be.

Action to declare marriage valid.

SEC. 466. When either husband or wife shall claim or pretend that the marriage is void or voidable, as provided in sections four hundred and sixty-two and four hundred and sixty-three, the same may be declared valid and lawful at the action of the other; and in such action the court shall have power, if the pleadings and proof authorize it, to declare such marriage void from the beginning or from the time of the judgment, or that it is valid and lawful, and binding on the parties thereto.

For what causes marriages may be dissolved.

SEC. 467. The dissolution of the marriage contract may be declared at the action of the injured party for either of the following causes:

First. Impotency existing at the time of the marriage and continuing to the commencement of the action;

Second. Adultery;

Third. Conviction of felony;

Fourth. Willful desertion for the period of two years;

Fifth. Cruel and inhuman treatment calculated to impair health or endanger life;

Sixth. Habitual gross drunkenness contracted since marriage and continuing for one year prior to the commencement of the action.

SEC. 468. When a marriage has been solemnized in the district an action may be maintained to declare it void if the plaintiff is an inhabitant of the district at the commencement of the action. If the marriage has not been solemnized in the district, such action can only be maintained when the plaintiff has been an inhabitant thereof for three years prior to the commencement of the action.

Residence of parties.

SEC. 469. In an action for the dissolution of the marriage contract the plaintiff therein must be an inhabitant of the district at the commencement of the action and for three years prior thereto, which residence shall be sufficient to give the court jurisdiction without regard to the place where the marriage was solemnized or the cause of action arose.

Same.

SEC. 470. In an action for the dissolution of the marriage contract on account of adultery the defendant may admit the adultery and show in bar of the action either—

Pleas in bar by defendant.

First. That the act was committed by the procurement or with the connivance of the plaintiff; or,

Second. That the act had been expressly forgiven, or impliedly so, by the voluntary cohabitation of the parties after knowledge thereof; or,

Third. That the plaintiff has been guilty of adultery also without the procurement or connivance of the defendant and not forgiven as provided in subdivision second of this section; or,

Fourth. That the action has not been commenced within one year after the discovery of the act by the plaintiff.

When the action is for any of the causes specified in subdivisions third, fourth, fifth, or sixth of section four hundred and sixty-seven, the defendant may admit the charge and show in bar of the action that the act was committed by the procurement of the plaintiff, or that it has been expressly forgiven; and in case the action is founded on subdivision third of the section four hundred and sixty-seven, the defendant may also show in bar thereof that the action was not prosecuted within one year after the same occurred to the plaintiff.

SEC. 471. After the commencement of an action, and before a judgment therein, the court or judge thereof may, in its discretion, provide by order as follows:

Maintenance and custody of children pending action.

First. That the husband pay, or secure to be paid, to the clerk of the court such an amount of money as may be necessary to enable the wife to prosecute or defend the action, as the case may be;

Second. For the care, custody, and maintenance of the minor children of the marriage during the pendency of the action;

Third. For the freedom of the wife from the control of the husband during the pendency of the action, and the court may restrain either or both parties from disposing of the property of either party pending the action.

SEC. 472. Whenever a marriage shall be declared void or dissolved the court shall have power to further decree as follows:

Judgment for maintenance and for the custody of children.

First. For the future care and custody of the minor children of the marriage as it may deem just and proper, having due regard to the age and sex of such children, and unless otherwise manifestly improper giving the preference to the party not in fault;

Second. For the recovery of the party in fault, and not allowed the care and custody of such children, such an amount of money, in gross or installments, as may be just and proper for such party to contribute toward the nurture and education thereof;

Third. For the recovery of the party in fault such an amount of money, in gross or in installments, as may be just and proper for such party to contribute to the maintenance of the other;

Fourth. For the delivery to the wife, when she is not the party in fault, of her personal property in the possession or control of the husband at the time of giving the judgment;

Fifth. For the appointment of one or more trustees to collect, receive, expend, manage, or invest, in such manner as the court shall direct, any sum of money adjudged for the maintenance of the wife or the nurture and education of minor children committed to her care and custody;

Sixth. To change the name of the wife when she is not the party in fault.

Power of court to modify decree.

SEC. 473. At any time after a judgment is given the court or judge thereof, upon the motion of either party, on notice shall have power to set aside, alter, or modify so much of the judgment as may provide for alimony or for the appointment of trustees for the care and custody of the minor children, or the nurture and education thereof, or the maintenance of either party to the action.

Right to remarry

SEC. 474. A judgment declaring a marriage void or dissolved by the action or claim of either party shall have the effect to terminate such marriage as to both parties, except that neither party shall be capable of contracting marriage with a third person, and if he or she does so contract, shall be liable therefor as if such judgment had not been given, until the action has been heard and determined on appeal, and if no appeal be taken, the expiration of the period allowed by law to take such appeal.

CHAPTER FORTY-SIX.

OF ACTIONS TO DETERMINE ADVERSE CLAIMS AND BOUNDARIES.

Sec.

475. An action to determine adverse claims.

476. An action to establish boundaries.

477. Pleadings in such action.

Sec.

478. Mode of proceeding thereafter.

479. Oath and duties of commissioners.

480. Their report.

An action to determine adverse claims.

SEC. 475. Any person in possession, by himself or his tenant, of real property, may maintain an action of an equitable nature against another who claims an estate or interest therein adverse to him, for the purpose of determining such claim, estate, or interest.

An action to establish boundaries.

SEC. 476. In any case where any dispute or controversy exists, or may hereafter arise, between two or more owners of adjacent or contiguous lands in the district, concerning the boundary lines thereof, or the location of the line or lines dividing such lands, either party or any party to such dispute or controversy may bring and maintain an action of an equitable nature in the district court of the district, for the purpose of having such controversy or dispute determined, and such boundary line or lines, or dividing lines, ascertained and marked by proper monuments, upon the ground where such line or lines may be ascertained to be, and established in such action.

Pleadings in such action.

SEC. 477. The complaint in such action shall be sufficient if it appears therefrom that the plaintiff and defendant or defendants are owners of adjacent lands; that there is a controversy or dispute between the parties concerning their boundary or dividing line or lines, and it shall not be necessary to set forth the nature of such dispute or controversy further than that the plaintiff shall describe the boundary or dividing line as he shall claim it to be. The defendant, in his answer, shall set forth the nature of his claim with reference to the location of the line in controversy.

Mode of proceeding thereafter.

SEC. 478. The mode of proceeding under this Act shall be analogous to that of other actions of an equitable nature: Provided, At the time of entering the judgment fixing the true location of the disputed boundary or dividing line the court shall appoint three disinterested commissioners, one of whom shall be a practical surveyor, and shall direct the commissioners to go upon the lands of the parties and establish and mark out upon the grounds, by proper marks and monuments, the boundary or dividing line as ascertained and determined by the court in its judgment.

SEC. 479. Before entering upon the discharge of their duties the commissioners shall make and file their oath, in writing, to faithfully and impartially perform their duties as such commissioners, and after designating the line by proper marks and monuments, they shall file, in the court and cause, a report of their doings as such commissioners, and the same shall be, when approved or confirmed by the court, a part of the judgment roll in the cause.

Oath and duties of commissioners.

SEC. 480. The report of the commissioners may be confirmed by the court, upon written motion of either party to such action, whenever it shall appear to the court that the motion was served upon the adverse party two days before the presentation thereof, and that no exceptions have been filed to the report within two days after the service. If exceptions are filed as aforesaid to the report, the exceptions may be heard with the motion to confirm, and the motion may confirm, modify, or set aside the report, as shall seem just, and in the latter case may appoint a new commission or refer the matter to the same commissioners with appropriate instructions.

Their report.

CHAPTER FORTY-SEVEN.

GENERAL PROVISIONS CONCERNING ACTIONS.

Sec.

- 481. Lost papers, how supplied.
- 482. Successive actions.
- 483. Consolidation of actions.
- 484. When court has jurisdiction.

Sec.

- 485. Jurisdiction over corporations.
- 486. Exercise of jurisdiction.
- 487. When majority of referees may act.
- 488. Computation of time.

SEC. 481. If an original paper or pleading be lost or withheld by any person, the court or judge thereof may order a verified copy thereof to be filed and used instead of the original.

Lost papers, how supplied.

SEC. 482. Successive actions may be maintained upon the same contract or transaction whenever, after the former action, a new cause of action arises therefrom.

Successive actions.

SEC. 483. Whenever two or more actions are pending at one time between the same parties and in the same court upon causes which might have been joined, the court may, upon the motion of the defendant, order the same to be consolidated. An action is deemed to be pending from the commencement thereof until its final determination upon appeal, or until the expiration of the period allowed to take an appeal.

Consolidation of actions.

SEC. 484. No natural person is subject to the jurisdiction of the district court of the district unless he appear in the court, or be found within the district, or be a resident thereof, or have property therein; and in the last case only to the extent of such property at the time the jurisdiction attached. But this section is not to be construed to limit the power of the said court to declare a marriage void or a dissolution thereof when the defendant is a nonresident of the district, in the cases provided for in chapter forty-five.

When court has jurisdiction.

SEC. 485. No corporation is subject to the jurisdiction of the district court of the district unless it appear in the court, or have been created by or under the laws of the district, or have an agency established therein for the transaction of some portion of its business, or have property therein; and in the last case only to the extent of such property at the time the jurisdiction attached.

Jurisdiction over corporations.

Exercise of jurisdiction.

SEC. 486. When the court has jurisdiction of the parties it may exercise it in respect to any cause of action, wherever arising, except for the specific recovery of real property situated without the district, or for injury thereto.

When majority of referees may act.

SEC. 487. Whenever there is more than one referee all must meet, but a majority of them may do any act which might be done by all; and whenever any authority is conferred on three or more persons it may be exercised by a majority of them, upon the meeting of all, unless expressly otherwise provided.

Computation of time.

SEC. 488. The time within which an act is to be done, as provided in this code, shall be computed by excluding the first day and including the last, unless the last day fall upon a Sunday, Christmas, or other legal holiday, in which case the last day shall also be excluded. The time for the publication of legal notices shall be computed so as to exclude the first day of publication and to include the day on which the act or event of which notice is given is to happen or which completes the full period required for publication.

CHAPTER FORTY-EIGHT.

OF OFFERS TO COMPROMISE AND THE INSPECTION OF WRITINGS.

Sec.

489. Offers to compromise, how accepted and effect thereof.

Sec.

490. Order for the inspection of papers.

Offers to compromise, how accepted and effect thereof.

SEC. 489. The defendant may, at any time before trial, serve upon the plaintiff and offer to allow judgment to be given against him for the sum, or the property, or to the effect therein specified. If the plaintiff accept the offer, he shall, by himself or attorney, indorse such acceptance thereon, and file the same with the clerk before trial, and within three days from the time it was served upon him; and thereupon judgment shall be given accordingly, as in case of a confession. If the offer be not accepted and filed within the time prescribed, it shall be deemed withdrawn, and shall not be given in evidence on the trial; and if the plaintiff fail to obtain a more favorable judgment, he shall not recover costs accruing after the service of the notice of the offer, but the defendant shall recover of him costs and disbursements from the time of such service.

Order for the inspection of papers.

SEC. 490. The court, or judge thereof, while an action is pending, may order either party to give the other, within a specified time, an inspection and copy, or permission to take a copy, of any book, document, or paper in his possession, or under his control, containing evidence or matters relating to the merits of the action, or the defense therein. If obedience to the order be neglected or refused, the court may exclude the book, document, or paper from being given in evidence, or, if wanted as evidence by the party applying therefor, may direct the jury to presume it to be such as he alleges it to be; and the court may also punish the party so neglecting or refusing as for a contempt. This section is not to be construed to prevent a party from compelling another to produce books, documents, or papers when he is examined as a witness.

CHAPTER FORTY-NINE.

OF MOTIONS AND ORDERS.

Sec.

491. Order and motion, definition of.

492. Motions, to whom and where made.

493. Notice of motion, time of, and when necessary.

Sec.

494. Application refused not to be repeated.

Order and motion, definition of.

SEC. 491. Every direction of a court or judge made or entered in writing, and not included in a judgment is denominated an order. An application for an order is a motion.

SEC. 492. Motions shall be made to the court or judge, as provided in other parts of this code. They shall be made at the place where the action is triable, except when made to a judge of the court before whom the action is pending and without notice, in which case an order may be made by such judge in any part of the district.

Motions, to whom and where made.

SEC. 493. When a notice of a motion is necessary, it shall be served twenty days before the time appointed for the hearing; but the court, or judge thereof, may prescribe, by order indorsed upon the notice, a shorter time. Notice of a motion is not necessary, except when this code requires it, or when directed by the court or judge in pursuance thereof.

Notice of motion, time of, and when necessary.

SEC. 494. If an application for an order, made to a judge of the court in which the action or proceeding is pending, be refused in whole or in part, or be granted conditionally, no subsequent application for the same order shall be made to any other judge. A violation of this section is punishable as a contempt, and an order made contrary thereto may be revoked by the judge who made it, or vacated by the court, or judge thereof, in which the action or proceeding is pending.

Application refused not to be repeated.

CHAPTER FIFTY.

OF NOTICE AND THE SERVICE AND FILING OF PAPERS.

Sec.
495. Notices to be in writing.
496. Notices and other papers, how served and upon whom.
497. When service may be made by mail; time allowed for distance.
498. How copy deposited and when service deemed to be made.
499. Appearance, how made; defendant not to be heard before appearance.

Sec.
500. When party absent from the district; when service to be made on attorney.
501. Foregoing provisions not to apply to summons.
502. Notice is valid, though defective in form.
503. Filing of papers.

SEC. 495. Notices shall be in writing, and notices and other papers shall be served on the party or attorney in the manner prescribed in this chapter where not otherwise provided by this code.

Notices to be in writing.

SEC. 496. The service or deposit in the post-office, when served by mail, may be made by any person other than the party himself. The proof of service shall be the same as proof of service of a summons, and shall be returned with the original notice, or other paper of which service is made, at the time and place therein prescribed for the hearing or other proceeding to be had thereon. The service may be personal by delivery of a copy of the notice or other paper to the party or attorney on whom the service is required to be made, or it may be as follows:

Notices and other papers, how served and upon whom.

First. If upon an attorney, it may be made during his absence from his office by leaving the copy with his clerk therein, or with the person having charge thereof; or when there is no person in the office, by leaving it between the hours of six in the morning and nine in the evening in a conspicuous place in the office, or if it be not open to admit of such service, then by leaving it at the attorney's residence with some person of suitable age and discretion.

Second. If upon a party, it may be made by leaving the copy at his residence between the hours of six in the morning and nine in the evening with some person of suitable age and discretion.

SEC. 497. Service by mail may be made when the person for whom the service is made and the person on whom it is made reside in different places, between which there is a communication by mail, adding one day to the time of service for every twenty miles of distance between the place of deposit and the place of address.

When service may be made by mail; time allowed for distance.

SEC. 498. In case of service by mail the copy must be deposited in the post-office, addressed to the person on whom it is to be served at his place of residence, and the postage paid. The service shall be deemed to be made on the first day after the deposit in the post-office that the mail leaves the place of deposit for the place of the address, and not otherwise.

How copy deposited and when service deemed to be made.

Appearance, how made; defendant not to be heard before appearance.

SEC. 499. A defendant appears in an action when he answers, demurs, or gives the plaintiff written notice of his appearance, and until he does so appear he shall not be heard in such action or in any proceeding pertaining thereto, except the giving of the undertakings allowed to the defendant in the provisional remedies of arrest, attachment, and the delivery of personal property. When the defendant has not appeared, notice of a motion or other proceeding need not be served upon him, unless he be imprisoned for want of bail, or unless directed by the court, or judge thereof, in pursuance of this title.

When party absent from the district; when service to be made on attorney.

SEC. 500. When a party is absent from the district and has no attorney in the action, service may be made by mail if his residence be known; if not known, on the clerk for him. When a party, whether absent or not from the district, has an attorney in the action, service of notice or other papers shall be made upon the attorney.

Foregoing provisions not to apply to summons.

SEC. 501. The foregoing provisions do not apply to the service of a summons or other process, nor so much thereof as allows service to be made of any notice or other paper to bring a party into contempt, otherwise than upon such party personally.

Notice is valid, though defective in form.

SEC. 502. A notice or other paper is valid and effectual, although defective either in respect to the title of the action in which it is made, or the name of the court or the parties, if it intelligently refer to such action.

Filing of papers.

SEC. 503. All undertakings, affidavits, or other papers required by or provided for in this code shall be filed with the clerk, except when this code otherwise specially provides. A pleading or paper shall be filed by delivering the same to the clerk at his office, who shall indorse upon it the day of the month and the year, and subscribe his name thereto. The clerk shall not be required to receive for filing any paper unless the name of the court, the title of the cause and the paper, and the names of the parties, and the attorney, if there be one, is intelligibly indorsed on the back of it, or unless the contents thereof can be read by a person of ordinary skill.

CHAPTER FIFTY-ONE.

OF APPEALS AND WRITS OF ERROR.

Sec.

504. Appeals and writs of error, how taken.

505. What judgments shall be final.

506. When may be taken.

Sec.

507. From what an appeal may be taken.

508. Laws regulating procedure and practice on appeal.

Appeals and writs of error, how taken.

SEC. 504. Appeals and writs of error may be taken and prosecuted from the final judgments of the district court for the district of Alaska or any division thereof direct to the Supreme Court of the United States in the following cases, namely: In prize causes and in all cases which involve the construction or application of the Constitution of the United States, or in which the constitutionality of any law of the United States, or the validity or construction of any treaty made under its authority is drawn in question, or in which the constitution or law of a State is claimed to be in contravention of the Constitution of the United States; and that in all other cases where the amount involved or the value of the subject-matter exceeds five hundred dollars the United States circuit court of appeals for the ninth circuit shall have jurisdiction to review by writ of error or appeal the final judgments, orders, of the district court.

SEC. 505. The judgments of the circuit court of appeals shall be final in all cases coming to it from the district court, but whenever the judges of the circuit court of appeals may desire the instruction of the Supreme Court of the United States upon any question or proposition of law which shall have arisen in any case pending before the circuit court of appeals on writ of error to or appeal from the district court, judges may certify such question or proposition to the Supreme Court, and thereupon the Supreme Court shall give its instruction upon the questions and propositions certified to it, and its instruction shall be binding upon the circuit court of appeals.

What judgments shall be final.

SEC. 506. No appeal or writ of error by which any final order or judgment may be reviewed under the provisions of this Act shall be taken or sued out except within one year after the entry of the order or judgment sought to be reviewed.

When may be taken.

SEC. 507. An appeal may be taken to the circuit court of appeals from any interlocutory order granting or dissolving an injunction, refusing to grant or dissolve an injunction, made or rendered in any cause pending before the district court within sixty days after the entry of such interlocutory order. The proceedings in other respects in the district court in the cause in which such interlocutory order was made shall not be stayed during the pendency of such appeal, unless otherwise ordered by the district court.

From what an appeal may be taken.

SEC. 508. All provisions of law now in force regulating the procedure and practice in cases brought by appeal or writ of error to the Supreme Court of the United States or to the United States circuit court of appeals for the ninth circuit, except in so far as the same may be inconsistent with any provision of this Act, shall regulate the procedure and practice in cases brought to the courts, respectively, from the district court for the district of Alaska. The provisions of this chapter shall apply to all cases pending in the district court of Alaska at the time this Act takes effect.

Laws regulating procedure and practice on appeal.

CHAPTER FIFTY-TWO.

OF COSTS AND DISBURSEMENTS.

Sec.	Sec.
509. Costs; compensation of attorney.	519. Fees of referees.
510. When costs allowed to plaintiff.	520. Costs on postponement, etc.
511. Costs in several actions on same cause.	521. Plea of tender and effect as to costs.
512. Costs, when allowed to defendant.	522. Guardian of infant plaintiff liable.
513. Disbursements, when allowed.	523. Costs where person sues or defends in the right of another.
514. Costs and disbursements in an action of an equitable nature.	524. Costs on review of inferior court.
515. Who liable for fees.	525. Costs in certain cases.
516. Costs and disbursements, how taxed.	526. Security for costs.
517. When objections made.	527. Same subject.
518. Effect of such appeal.	528. Costs on motion, etc.

SEC. 509. The measure and mode of compensation of attorneys shall be left to the agreement, expressed or implied, of the parties; but there may be allowed to the prevailing party in the judgment certain sums by way of indemnity for his attorney fees in maintaining the action or defense thereto, which allowances are termed costs.

Costs; compensation of attorney.

SEC. 510. Costs are allowed of course to the plaintiff upon a judgment in the district court in his favor in the following cases:

When costs allowed to plaintiff.

First. In an action for the recovery of the possession of real property, or where a claim of title or interest in real property, or right to the possession thereof, arises upon the pleadings, or is certified by the court to have come in question upon the trial;

Second. In actions for fines and forfeitures, and the actions provided for in chapters thirty-five and thirty-six of this title;

Third. In an action involving an open mutual account, where it appears to the satisfaction of the court that the sum total of such accounts of both parties exceeds one hundred and fifty dollars;

Fourth. In an action for the recovery of personal property;

Fifth. In an action not hereinbefore specified, for the recovery of money or damages, when the plaintiff shall recover fifty dollars or more.

But in an action for assault, battery, false imprisonment, libel, slander, malicious prosecution, criminal conversation, seduction, or breach of promise of marriage, if the plaintiff recovers less than fifty dollars damages, he shall recover no more costs and disbursements than damages; and in an action to recover the possession of personal property, if the plaintiff recover property or the value thereof, as established on the trial, and damages for the detention of the same, in all less than fifty dollars, he shall recover no more costs and disbursements than the sum of such value and damages.

Costs in several actions on same cause.

SEC. 511. When several actions shall be prosecuted for the same cause of action, against several parties who might have been joined as defendants in the same action, disbursements shall be allowed the plaintiff in each action if he prevail therein; but costs shall not be allowed such plaintiff in more than one of such actions, which shall be at his election, unless the party or parties prosecuted in such other action or actions shall at the time of the commencement of the previous action have been without the district or sequestered therein.

Costs, when allowed to defendant.

SEC. 512. Costs are allowed of course to the defendant in the actions mentioned in section five hundred and eleven unless the plaintiff be entitled to costs therein; and when there are several defendants not united in interest, and making separate defenses by separate answers, costs shall be allowed or not to each of such defendants as if the action were commenced against him separately.

Disbursements, when allowed.

SEC. 513. A party entitled to costs shall also be allowed for all necessary disbursements, including the fees of officers and witnesses, the necessary expenses of taking depositions by commission or otherwise, the expense of publication of the summons or notices, and the postage where the same are served by mail, the compensation of referees, and the necessary expense of copying any public record, book, or document used as evidence on the trial.

Costs and disbursements in an action of equitable nature.

SEC. 514. In an action of equitable nature costs and disbursements shall be allowed to a party in whose favor a judgment is given in like manner and amount as in other actions, without reference to the amount recovered or the value of the subject of the action, unless the court otherwise directs.

Who liable for fees.

SEC. 515. Every officer, witness, or other person required to do or perform any act or service for any party to any action or proceeding whatever shall be entitled to demand and receive from such party the compensation which the law allows therefor in advance; but a party to any action or proceeding in any court of justice in the district may, at his option, pay the fees of the officers thereof in advance or give such officers an undertaking with sufficient sureties therefor. The costs and disbursements which a party is entitled to recover from another may be collected by the execution to enforce the judgment as a part thereof. The fees secured to the officers of the court, or either of them, by any party to the judgment may be collected by an execution against the property of such party and that of his sureties in the undertaking therefor. Such officers' execution may issue in the name of the clerk as plaintiff in the writ and for the benefit of all officers of the court to whom fees are so due and secured, whenever an execution might issue to enforce the judgment at the instance of the prevailing party therein.

Costs and disbursements, how taxed.

SEC. 516. Costs and disbursements shall be taxed and allowed by the clerk. No disbursements shall be allowed any party unless he shall file with the clerk within five days from the entry of judgment a statement of the same, which statement must be verified except as to fees of officers. A statement of disbursements may be filed with the clerk at any time after five days, but in such case a copy thereof must be served upon the adverse party. A disbursement which a party is entitled to recover must be taxed, whether the same has been paid or not by such party. The statement of disbursements thus filed, and costs, shall be allowed of course unless the adverse party, within two days from the time allowed to file the same, shall file his objections thereto, stating the particulars of such objections.

SEC. 517. When objections are made to the claim for costs and disbursements, the clerk shall forthwith pass upon the same, and indorse upon the verified statement, or append thereto, the charges allowed or disallowed. Any party aggrieved by the decision of the clerk in the allowance of costs or disbursements may appeal from such decision to the court within five days from the date of such decision, by serving a notice of such appeal, and in what particulars, upon the adverse party or his attorney, which appeal shall be heard and determined by such court, or judge thereof, as soon thereafter as convenient.

SEC. 518. Such appeal shall stay the proceedings as to the costs and disbursements to which the appeal is taken or relates, unless the respondent file with the clerk an undertaking, with one or more sureties, to the effect that if the decision of the clerk be reversed or modified he will make such restitution as the court or judge may direct. The sufficiency of the sureties in the undertaking may be excepted to by the appellant, and they be required to justify in like manner and with like effect as in an ordinary undertaking for an appeal.

SEC. 519. The fees of referees shall be four dollars per day to each for every day spent in the business of the reference, but the parties may agree in writing upon any other rate of compensation, and thereupon such rates shall be allowed.

SEC. 520. Upon an application to postpone a trial, the payment to the adverse party of a sum, not exceeding ten dollars, as costs may be imposed by the court as a condition of granting the postponement; and in all cases where this code authorizes a court or judge to allow a party to do any act in an action or proceeding upon terms, such court or judge may, as a condition of such allowance, impose upon such party the payment of a like sum as costs.

SEC. 521. When in any action for the recovery of money or damages only the defendant shall allege in his answer that before the commencement thereof he tendered to the plaintiff a certain amount of money in full payment or satisfaction of the cause of action, and now brings the same into court and deposits it with the clerk for the plaintiff, if such allegation of tender be found true, and the plaintiff do not recover a greater sum than the amount so tendered, he shall not recover costs off the defendant, but the defendant shall recover them off him.

SEC. 522. When costs or disbursements are adjudged against an infant plaintiff, the guardian by whom he appeared in the action shall be responsible therefor, as if he were the actual plaintiff in such action, and payment thereof may be enforced against him accordingly.

SEC. 523. In an action prosecuted or defended by an executor, administrator, trustee of an express trust, or a person expressly authorized by statute to prosecute or defend therein, costs shall be recovered as in ordinary cases, but such costs shall only be chargeable upon or collected off the estate, fund, or party represented, unless the court or judge thereof shall order the same to be recovered off the plaintiff or defendant personally for mismanagement or bad faith in such action or the defense thereto.

SEC. 524. When the decision of any officer, tribunal, or court of inferior jurisdiction is brought before a court for review, such review

When objections made.

Appeal.

Effect of such appeal.

Fees of referees.

Costs on postponement, etc.

Plea of tender and effect as to costs.

Guardian of an infant plaintiff liable.

Costs where person sues or defends in the right of another

Costs on review of inferior court.

shall, for all the purposes of costs or disbursements, be deemed an appeal to such court upon errors in law, and costs therein shall be allowed and recovered accordingly.

Costs in certain cases.

SEC. 525. In all actions prosecuted or defended in the name and for the use of any public corporation in the district the public corporation shall be liable for and may recover costs in like manner and with like effect as in the case of natural persons. When the action is upon the information of any natural person, he shall be liable in the first instance for the defendant's costs; and such costs shall not be recovered from the United States until after execution issued therefor against such person and returned unsatisfied in whole or in part.

Security for costs.

SEC. 526. The attorney of a plaintiff who resides out of the district, or is a foreign corporation, against whom costs are adjudged in favor of the defendant, is liable to such defendant therefor; and if he neglect to pay the same upon the information of such defendant, shall be punished as for a contempt. The attorney may relieve or discharge himself from such liability by filing an undertaking at the commencement of the action, or at any time thereafter before judgment, for the payment to the defendant of the costs and disbursements that may be adjudged to him, executed by one or more sufficient sureties.

Same subject.

SEC. 527. The sureties in such undertaking shall possess the qualifications of sureties in an undertaking for bail on arrest, and their sufficiency may be excepted to by the defendant at any time within five days from notice of filing the same, and if so, they shall justify in an amount not less than two hundred dollars, in like manner and with like effect as such sureties for bail on arrest. Until the time for excepting to the sufficiency of the sureties has expired, or if excepted to, until they be found sufficient, the attorney is liable as if no undertaking had been given. A deposit of two hundred dollars, or other sum which the court or judge may direct, with the clerk may be made in lieu of such undertaking.

Costs on motion, etc.

SEC. 528. A sum not exceeding five dollars as costs may be allowed to the prevailing party on a motion, in the discretion of the court, and may be absolute or directed to abide the event of the action. In any action or proceeding as to which the allowance and recovery of costs may not be provided for in this title, costs may be allowed or not, according to the measure herein prescribed, and apportioned among the parties, in the discretion of the court.

CHAPTER FIFTY-THREE.

OF THE RECORDS AND FILES OF COURT.

Sec.

529. Records of court, what constitute.
530. Register, how kept.
531. Journal, what to be entered therein.
532. Judgment docket, how arranged.
533. Execution docket, how kept.
534. Fee book, what to be entered therein.

Sec.

535. Final record, what to be recorded therein.
536. Jury book, how kept.
537. Files of the court, what are.
538. Custody of the records and files.
539. Search and examination of records and files.

Records of court, what constitute.

SEC. 529. The records of the district court are a register, journal, judgment docket, execution docket, fee book, jury book, and final record.

Register, how kept.

SEC. 530. The register is a book wherein the clerk shall enter, by its title, every action or proceeding commenced in, or transferred or appealed to, the court whereof he is clerk, according to the date of its commencement, transfer, or appeal; and thereafter, until the entry of judgment, note therein, according to the date thereof, the filing or return of any paper or process, or the making of any order, rule, or other direction in or concerning such action or proceeding.

SEC. 531. The journal is a book wherein the clerk shall enter the proceedings of the court during term time, and such proceedings in vacation as this code specially directs. Journal, what to be entered therein.

SEC. 532. The judgment docket is a book wherein the judgments are docketed, as elsewhere provided in this code. Each page thereof shall be divided into eight columns, and headed as follows: Judgment debtors; Judgment creditors; Amount of judgment; Date of entry in journal; When docketed; Appeal, when taken; Decision on appeal; Satisfaction, when entered. Judgment docket, how arranged.

SEC. 533. The execution docket is a book wherein the clerk shall note, under the title of every cause, the issue and return of execution, and generally the filing or return of any paper or process, or the making of any order, rule, or other direction therein, from and after the entry of judgment or decree until satisfaction or performance thereof. Execution docket how kept.

SEC. 534. The fee book is one wherein the clerk shall enter, under the title of every cause, against the party to which the service is rendered, the clerk's fees earned, and received or not received, and none other, except as specially directed by this code. Fee book, what to be entered therein.

SEC. 535. The final record is a book wherein the clerk shall record the papers, pleadings, and proceedings in a cause, as elsewhere provided in this code. Final record, what to be recorded therein.

SEC. 536. The jury book is one wherein the clerk shall enter the names of the persons attending upon the court at a particular term as grand or trial jurors, the time of the attendance of each, and when discharged or excused, and the amount of fees and mileage earned by each. Jury book, how kept.

SEC. 537. The files of the court are all papers or process filed with or by the clerk of the court in any action or proceeding therein or before the judge thereof. Files of the court, what are.

SEC. 538. The records and files of the court are to be kept in the clerk's office in the custody of the clerk, and he is responsible for them. They shall not be taken out of the office by anyone, except by the judge of the court, or an attorney thereof when allowed by special order of the court or judge, or some general rule therefor prescribed by the court and entered in the journal. Custody of the records and files.

SEC. 539. Whenever requested the clerk, upon being tendered legal fees therefor, shall furnish to any person a certified copy of any portion of such records or files, and no person other than such clerk is entitled to make such copy or to the use of the records or files for such purposes. Whenever requested the clerk shall search such records and files and give a certificate thereof according to the nature of the inquiry. Search and examination of records and files.

CHAPTER FIFTY-FOUR.

GENERAL PROVISIONS CONCERNING SPECIAL PROCEEDINGS.

Sec. 540. Parties to special proceedings, how designated.	Sec. 541. Judgments, orders, and motions.
--	--

SEC. 540. The party prosecuting a writ of review, writ of mandamus, writ of habeas corpus, or a proceeding for contempt shall be known as the plaintiff, and the adverse party as the defendant. Parties to special proceedings, how designated.

SEC. 541. A judgment in a special proceeding is the final determination of the rights of the parties therein. The definition of a motion and an order in an action are applicable to similar acts in a special proceeding. Judgments, orders, and motions.

CHAPTER FIFTY-FIVE.

OF THE WRIT OF REVIEW.

Sec.	Sec.
542. Writ of certiorari to be known as writ of review.	547. To whom directed.
543. Who may prosecute.	548. Stay of proceedings; when returnable.
544. By whom allowed and how applied for.	549. When and by whom writ issued; how served.
545. When allowed.	550. Incomplete return; limitation of writ.
546. Undertaking of plaintiff.	551. Power of court to review.

Writ of certiorari to be known as writ of review.

Whom may prosecute.

SEC. 542. The writ formerly known as the writ of certiorari is known in this title as the writ of review.

SEC. 543. Any party to any process or proceeding before or by any inferior court, officer, or tribunal may have the decision or determination thereof reviewed for errors therein as in this chapter prescribed. Upon a review, the court may review any intermediate order involving the merits necessarily affecting the decision or determination sought to be reviewed.

By whom allowed and how applied for.

SEC. 544. The writ shall be allowed by the district court or judge thereof, upon the petition of the plaintiff, describing the decision or determination sought to be reviewed with convenient certainty, and setting forth the errors alleged to have been committed therein. Such petition shall be signed by the plaintiff or his attorney, and verified by the certificate of an attorney of the court, to the effect that he had examined the process or proceeding and the decision or determination therein, and that the same is erroneous, as alleged in the petition.

When allowed.

SEC. 545. The writ shall be allowed in all cases where there is no appeal or other plain, speedy, and adequate remedy, and where the inferior court, officer, or tribunal in the exercise of judicial functions appears to have exercised such functions erroneously, or to have exceeded it or his jurisdiction, to the injury of some substantial right of the plaintiff.

Undertaking of plaintiff.

SEC. 546. Before allowing the writ, the court or judge shall require the party applying therefor to give an undertaking, with one or more sureties, subject to its or his approval, in the amount to be fixed by it or him, conditioned that he will perform the judgment or decision sought to be reviewed in case the district court shall so order, and judgment may be given by said court against the applicant and his surety or sureties in case the judgment or decision sought to be reviewed shall be affirmed for the amount thereof, and the costs of said proceeding.

To whom directed.

SEC. 547. The writ shall be directed to the court, officer, or tribunal whose decision or determination is sought to be reviewed, or to the clerk or other person having the custody of its records or proceedings, requiring it or them to return the writ to the district court, within a time therein specified, with a certified copy of the record or proceedings in question annexed thereto, that the same may be reviewed by such district court, and requiring the defendant to desist from further proceedings in the matter to be reviewed.

Stay of proceedings; when returnable.

SEC. 548. The words in the writ requiring the stay of proceedings may be inserted or omitted in the discretion of the court or judge issuing the same, and the proceedings shall be stayed or not accordingly. The writ shall be made returnable at the next term of the district court, or in vacation, and if the latter, the same may be tried and judgment given therein, by the judge thereof, in like manner and with like effect as in term time.

When and by whom writ issued; how served.

SEC. 549. Upon the filing of the order allowing the writ, and the petition and undertaking of the plaintiff, the clerk shall issue the writ, according to the direction of the order. The writ shall be served by delivering a copy of the original to the opposite party in the action or proceeding sought to be reviewed, at least ten days before the return of the original writ, and may be served by an officer or person authorized to serve a summons, who shall indorse on the original writ the manner of service thereof.

SEC. 550. If the return to the writ be incomplete, the court may order a further return to be made. In no case shall a writ be allowed unless the application therefor be made within six months from the date of the decision or determination complained of.

Incomplete return: limitation of writ.

SEC. 551. Upon the review the court shall have power to affirm, modify, reverse, or annul the decision or determination reviewed, and, if necessary, to award restitution to the plaintiff, or, by mandate, direct the inferior court, officer, or tribunal to proceed in the matter reviewed according to its decision. From the judgment of the district court on review an appeal may be taken in like manner and with like effect as from a judgment of such district court in an action.

Power of court to review.

CHAPTER FIFTY-SIX.

OF THE WRIT OF MANDAMUS.

Sec.	Sec.
552. Mandamus to be known as in this chapter.	559. If defendant fail to show cause, peremptory writ to issue.
553. To whom writ may issue; not to control judicial discretion.	560. Pleadings and mode of proceeding therein.
554. How writ applied for and by whom allowed and issued.	561. Recovery of damages.
555. How directed and served.	562. Recovery of damages a bar to other suit or action.
556. Either alternative or peremptory; what to contain.	563. When court may impose fine upon defendant.
557. When peremptory writ shall be issued in first instance.	564. How tried.
558. When defendant may show cause, and how.	565. Appeal from judgment of district court.

SEC. 552. The writ of mandamus is known in this code as prescribed and regulated in this chapter.

Mandamus to be known as in this chapter.

SEC. 553. It may be issued to any inferior court, corporation, board, officer, or person, to compel the performance of an act which the law specially enjoins as a duty resulting from an office, trust, or station. But though the writ may require such court, corporation, board, officer, or person to exercise its or his judgment, or proceed to the discharge of any of its or his functions, it shall not control judicial discretion. The writ shall not be issued in any case where there is a plain, speedy, and adequate remedy in the ordinary course of the law.

To whom writ may issue; not to control judicial discretion.

SEC. 554. The writ shall be allowed by the court, or judge thereof, upon the petition, verified as a complaint in an action, of the party beneficially interested. It may be allowed with or without notice to the adverse party, as in the case of a writ of review. Upon the filing of the petition and order of allowance, the writ shall be issued by the clerk in accordance therewith.

How writ applied for and by whom allowed and issued.

SEC. 555. The writ shall be directed to the court, corporation, board, officer, or person mentioned or designated in the order of allowance, and may be served thereon by any officer or person authorized to serve a summons by delivery of a copy of the original to such officer or person, or to any member of such court, or to any officer of such corporation upon whom this code authorizes a summons to be served. The proof of service shall be the same as in a writ of review, and obedience to the writ may be enforced in such manner as the court, or judge thereof, shall direct.

How directed and served.

Either alternative or peremptory; what to contain.

SEC. 556. The writ is either alternative or peremptory. When it is alternative, it shall state concisely the facts according to the petition, showing the obligation of the defendant to perform the act, and his omission to perform it, and command him that immediately after the receipt of the writ, or at some other specified time, he do the act required to be performed, or show cause before the court or judge thereof by whom the writ was allowed, at a time and place therein specified, why he has not done so; and that he then and there return the writ, with his certificate annexed, of having done as he is commanded, or the cause of his omission thereof. When peremptory, the writ shall be in similar form, except that the words requiring the defendant to show cause why he has not done as commanded, and to return the cause therefor, shall be omitted.

When peremptory writ shall be issued in first instance.

SEC. 557. When the right to require the performance of the act is clear, and it is apparent that no valid excuse can be given for not performing it, a peremptory mandamus shall be allowed in the first instance; in all other cases the alternative writ shall be first issued.

When defendant may show cause, and how.

SEC. 558. On the return day of the alternative writ, or such further day as the court or judge thereof may allow, the defendant on whom the writ shall have been served may show cause by demurrer or answer to the writ in the same manner as to a complaint in an action.

If defendant fail to show cause, peremptory writ to issue.

SEC. 559. If the defendant do not show cause by demurrer or answer, a peremptory mandamus shall be allowed against him. If the answer contain new matter, the same may be demurred or replied to by the plaintiff within such time as the court or judge may prescribe. If the replication contain new matter, the same may be demurred to by the defendant within such time as the court or judge may prescribe, or he may countervail such matter on the trial or other proceedings by proof, either in direct denial or by way of avoidance.

Pleadings and mode of proceedings therein.

SEC. 560. The pleadings in the proceeding by mandamus are those mentioned in the two sections last preceding. They are to have the same effect, and to be construed and may be amended in the same manner, as pleadings in an action. Either party may move to strike out, or be allowed to plead over after motion or demurrer allowed or disallowed, and the issues joined shall be tried and the further proceedings thereon had in like manner and with like effect as in an action.

Recovery of damages.

SEC. 561. If judgment be given for the plaintiff, he shall recover the damages which he shall have sustained by reason of the premises, to be ascertained in the same manner as in an action, together with costs and disbursements, and a peremptory mandamus shall be awarded without delay.

Recovery of damages a bar to other suit or action.

SEC. 562. A recovery of damages by virtue of this chapter against a party who shall have made a return to a writ of mandamus is a bar to any other action against the same party for the same cause.

When court may impose fine upon defendant.

SEC. 563. Whenever a peremptory mandamus is directed to a public officer or body commanding the performance of any public duty specially enjoined by law, if it appear to the court or judge thereof that such officer or any member of such body has without just excuse refused or neglected to perform the duty so enjoined, the court or judge may imprison, or impose a fine, not exceeding one thousand dollars, upon every such officer or member of such body for each refusal.

How tried.

SEC. 564. In the district court the writ may be made returnable either in term time or vacation, and if the latter, may be tried and determined before the judge thereof in like manner and with like effect as in term time.

Appeal from judgment of district court.

SEC. 565. From the judgment of the district court, or judge thereof, refusing to allow a mandamus, or directing a peremptory mandamus, an appeal may be taken in like manner and with like effect as in an action.

CHAPTER FIFTY-SEVEN.

OF THE WRIT OF HABEAS CORPUS.

Sec.	Sec.
566. Who may prosecute.	589. When production of person dispensed with.
567. Who not entitled to prosecute.	590. Judgment of discharge or dismissal of proceedings.
568. By whom allowed, and application therefor.	591. Precept requiring the production of the person.
569. Petition for writ; what it shall contain.	592. Obedience to judgment of discharge, how enforced.
570. When allowed.	593. Person once discharged not again imprisoned.
571. What the writ shall contain.	594. When warrant to issue in lieu of habeas corpus.
572. Not to be disobeyed for want of form.	595. Arrest of the person having custody of the party.
573. What the return shall contain.	596. Warrant, how executed and the proceedings thereon.
574. Person to be produced.	597. Person arrested to be committed or bailed.
575. Warrant to issue in case of neglect or refusal to obey.	598. Penalty for refusing copy of order.
576. If officer neglects, to whom warrant to issue.	599. When district attorney may apply for a writ.
577. Precept to marshal.	600. By whom served; tender of fees and undertaking.
578. When cause to be inquired into.	601. How served.
579. If any legal cause shown, discharge granted.	602. Same subject.
580. When party to be remanded.	603. Duty to obey writ.
581. In certain cases, when to be discharged.	604. When charges for producing party may be ordered paid.
582. Legality of certain judgments and process not to be inquired into.	605. Proof of service.
583. On commitment for criminal offenses, how to proceed.	606. Within what time return to be made.
584. Until judgment given, how to be kept.	607. What court has jurisdiction.
585. When notice to be given to third party.	608. Appeal from judgment; question not to be reexamined.
586. Notice, when given to the district attorney.
587. Return may be controverted.
588. Pleadings on the return.

SEC. 566. Every person imprisoned, or otherwise restrained of his liberty, within the district, under any pretense whatsoever, except in the cases specified in the next section, may prosecute a writ of habeas corpus according to the provisions of this chapter, to inquire into the cause of such imprisonment or restraint, and if illegal to be delivered therefrom.

Who may prosecute.

SEC. 567. Persons properly imprisoned or restrained by virtue of the legal judgment of a competent tribunal of civil or criminal jurisdiction, or by virtue of an execution regularly and lawfully issued upon such judgment or decree, shall not be allowed to prosecute the writ.

Who not entitled to prosecute.

SEC. 568. The writ shall be allowed by the court, or the judge thereof, upon the petition of the party for whose relief it is intended, or by some other person in his behalf, signed and verified by the oath of the petitioner, to the effect that he believes it to be true.

By whom allowed, and application therefor.

SEC. 569. The petition shall state in substance—

Petition for writ; what it shall contain.

First. That the party in whose behalf the writ is applied for is imprisoned or restrained of his liberty, the place where, and officer or person by whom he is imprisoned or restrained, naming both parties, if their names be known, or describing them, if not known;

Second. That such person is not imprisoned or restrained by virtue of any order, judgment, or process specified in section five hundred and sixty-seven;

Third. The cause or pretense of such imprisonment or restraint, according to the best knowledge or belief of the petitioner;

Fourth. If the imprisonment or restraint be in virtue of any order, warrant, or process, a copy thereof shall be annexed to the petition, or it must be alleged that, by reason of the removal or concealment of the party before the application, a demand of such copy could not be made, or that such demand was made, and the legal fees therefor tendered to the person having the party in his custody, and that a copy was refused;

Fifth. If the imprisonment or restraint be alleged to be illegal, in what the alleged illegality consists;

Sixth. That the legality of the imprisonment or restraint has not been already adjudged upon a prior writ of habeas corpus to the knowledge or belief of the petitioner.

When allowed.

SEC. 570. The court or judge to whom the petition is presented must allow the writ without delay, unless it appears from the petition itself, or from the documents annexed thereto, that the person for whose relief it is intended is by the provisions of this chapter prohibited from prosecuting the writ. Upon the filing of the petition and the order of allowance with the clerk, the clerk shall issue the writ immediately in accordance therewith.

What the writ shall contain.

SEC. 571. The writ shall command the defendant to produce the person imprisoned or restrained, by whatsoever name he may be charged or called, and certify and return therewith the time and cause of his imprisonment or restraint, before the court or judge allowing the writ, at a time and place therein specified, or immediately after the receipt of the writ, to do and receive what shall then and there be considered concerning the person so imprisoned or restrained; or when it appears by the petition and documents thereto annexed that the cause or offense for which the person is imprisoned or restrained is not bailable, the production of the party may be dispensed with, though such production be prayed for in the petition, and the writ issued accordingly.

Not to be disobeyed for want of form.

SEC. 572. The writ shall not be disobeyed for any defect of form. It is sufficient—

First. If the officer or person having the custody of the party imprisoned or restrained be designated either by his name of office, if he have any, or by his own name, or if both such names be unknown or uncertain, he may be described by an assumed appellation; and anyone who may be served with the writ is to be deemed the officer or person to whom it was directed, although it may be directed to him by a wrong name or description, or to another person;

Second. If the person who is directed to be produced be designated by name, or if his name be uncertain or unknown, he may be described in any other way, so as to designate the person intended.

What the return shall contain.

SEC. 573. The officer or person upon whom the writ shall have been duly served shall state in his return, plainly and unequivocally—

First. Whether he has or has not the party in his custody or power or under his restraint, and if he have not, whether he has had the party in his custody or under his power or restraint at any and what time prior or subsequent to the date of the writ;

Second. If he has the party in his custody or power, or under his restraint, the authority and true cause of such imprisonment or restraint, setting forth the same at large;

Third. If the party be detained by virtue of any writ, warrant, or other written authority, a copy thereof shall be annexed to the return, and the original shall be produced and exhibited on the return of the writ to the court or judge before whom the same is returnable;

Fourth. If the person upon whom such writ shall have been served shall have had the party in his power or custody or under his restraint at any time prior or subsequent to the date of the writ, but has transferred such custody or restraint to another, the return shall state particularly to whom, at what time, for what cause, and by what authority such transfer took place. The return shall be signed by the person making the same; and, except where such person shall be a sworn public officer and shall make his return in his official capacity, it shall be verified by oath.

SEC. 574. The person or officer on whom the habeas corpus shall have been served shall also bring the body of the person in his custody, according to the command of such writ, except in the case of the sickness of such person, as hereinafter provided. Person to be produced.

SEC. 575. If the person upon whom such writ shall have been duly served shall refuse or neglect to obey the same by producing the party named in such writ and making a full and explicit return thereto within the time required, and no sufficient excuse be shown, it shall be the duty of the court or judge before whom such writ shall have been made returnable, upon due proof of the service thereof, forthwith to issue a warrant against such person, directed to the marshal, and commanding him forthwith to apprehend such person and bring him immediately before such court or judge; and on such person being so brought he shall be committed to close custody until he shall make return to such writ and comply with any order that may be made in relation to the person for whose relief such writ shall have been issued. Warrant to issue in case of neglect or refusal to obey.

SEC. 576. If the marshal or any deputy shall have neglected to return such writ, the warrant may be directed to any other person to be designated therein, who shall have full power to execute the same, and such marshal or deputy upon being brought up may be committed to any jail or other place of imprisonment in the district. If officer neglects, to whom warrant to issue.

SEC. 577. The court or judge by whom any such warrant shall be issued may also, at the same time or afterwards, issue a precept to the marshal or other person to whom such warrant shall have been directed, commanding him to bring forthwith before such court or judge the party for whose benefit such writ shall have been allowed, who shall thereafter remain in the custody of such marshal or person until discharged or remanded. Precept to marshal.

SEC. 578. The court or judge before whom the party shall be brought on such writ shall, immediately after the return thereof, proceed to examine into the facts contained in such return and into the cause of the imprisonment or restraint of such party, whether the same shall have been upon commitment for any criminal or supposed criminal matter or not. When cause to be inquired into.

SEC. 579. If no legal cause be shown for such imprisonment or restraint, or for the continuation thereof, the court or judge shall discharge such party from the custody or restraint under which he is held. If any legal cause shown, discharge granted.

SEC. 580. It shall be the duty of the court or judge forthwith to remand such party if it shall appear that he is legally detained in custody. When party to be remanded.

SEC. 581. If it appear on the return that the prisoner is in custody by virtue of an order or civil process of any court legally constituted, or issued by an officer in the course of judicial proceedings before him, authorized by law, such prisoner shall be discharged in either of the following cases: In certain cases, when to be discharged.

First. When the jurisdiction of such court or officer has been exceeded, either as to matter, place, sum, or person;

Second. When, though the original imprisonment was lawful, yet by some act, omission, or event which has taken place afterwards the party has become entitled to be discharged;

Third. When the order or process is defective in some matter of substance required by law, rendering such process void;

Fourth. When the order or process, though in proper form, has been issued in a case not allowed by law;

Fifth. When the person having the custody of the prisoner under such order or process is not the person empowered by law to detain him; or,

Sixth. When the order or process is not authorized by any judgment of any court, nor by any provision of law.

Legality of certain judgments and process not to be inquired into.

SEC. 582. But no court or judge, on the return of a writ of habeas corpus, has power to inquire into the legality or justice of any order, judgment, or process specified in section five hundred and sixty-seven, nor into the justice, propriety, or legality of any commitment for a contempt made by a court, officer, or body, according to law, and charged in such commitment, as provided by law.

On commitment for criminal offenses, how to proceed.

SEC. 583. If it appear that the party has been legally committed for a criminal offense, or if he appear by the testimony offered with the return, or upon the hearing thereof, to be probably guilty of such offense, although the commitment be irregular, he shall forthwith be remanded to the custody or placed under the restraint from which he was taken, if the officer or person under whose custody or restraint he was be legally entitled thereto; if not so entitled, he shall be committed to the custody of the officer or person so entitled.

Until judgment given, how to be kept.

SEC. 584. Until judgment be given upon the return, the party may either be committed to the custody of the marshal or placed in such care or under such custody as his age and other circumstances may require.

When notice to be given to third party.

SEC. 585. When it appears, from the return to the writ, that the party named therein is in custody on an order or process under which another person has an interest in continuing his imprisonment or restraint, no order shall be made for his discharge until it shall appear that the party so interested, or his attorney, shall have had notice of the time and place at which such writ shall have been made returnable.

Notice, when given to the district attorney.

SEC. 586. When it appears from the return that the party is imprisoned or restrained on a criminal accusation, the court or judge shall make no order for his discharge until notice of the return is given to the district attorney.

Return may be controverted.

SEC. 587. The plaintiff in the proceeding, on the return of the writ, may, by replication, verified as in an action, controvert any of the material facts set forth in the return, or he may allege therein any fact to show, either that his imprisonment or restraint is unlawful, or that he is entitled to his discharge; and thereupon the court or judge shall proceed in a summary way to hear such evidence as may be produced in support of the imprisonment or restraint, or against the same, and to dispose of the party as the law and justice of the case may require.

Pleadings on the return.

SEC. 588. The plaintiff may demur to the return, or the defendant may demur to the new matter, if any, set forth in the replication of the plaintiff, or by proof controvert the same, as upon a direct denial or avoidance. The pleadings herein provided for shall be made within such time as the court or judge shall direct, and they shall be construed and have the same effect as in an action.

When production of person dispensed with.

SEC. 589. Whenever, from the sickness or infirmity of the party, he can not without danger be produced, the officer or person in whose custody he is may state that fact in his return to the writ, and if satisfied of the truth of the allegation, and the return be otherwise sufficient, the court or judge shall proceed to decide on the return and to dispose of the matter in the same manner as if the party had been produced.

Judgment of discharge or dismissal of proceedings.

SEC. 590. If it appear that the party detained is illegally imprisoned or restrained, judgment shall be given that he be forthwith discharged; otherwise judgment shall be given that the proceeding be dismissed and the party remanded.

Precept requiring the production of the person.

SEC. 591. Notwithstanding the issuing of the writ without requiring the production of the person, the court or judge before whom the same was returnable may, before final decision, issue a precept to the officer or other person to whom the writ was directed, requiring the production of the person.

SEC. 592. Obedience to a judgment for the discharge of a person imprisoned or restrained, pursuant to the provisions of this chapter, may be enforced by the court or judge by proceedings for a contempt. No officer or other person is liable to any action or proceeding for obeying such judgment of discharge.

Obedience to judgment of discharge, how enforced.

SEC. 593. No person who has been finally discharged upon a proceeding by habeas corpus, pursuant to the provisions of this chapter, shall be again imprisoned, restrained, or kept in custody, for the same cause; but it is not to be deemed the same cause—

Person once discharged not again imprisoned.

First. If he have been discharged from a commitment on a criminal charge, and be afterwards committed for the same offense by the legal order or process of the court, wherein he is bound by recognizance or undertaking to appear, or in which he is indicted or convicted for the same offense; or,

Second. If, after a judgment or discharge for a defect of evidence, or for a material defect in the commitment, in a criminal case, the party be again arrested on sufficient evidence, and committed by legal process for the same offense; or,

Third. If, after a civil action, the party have been discharged for any illegality in the judgment, decree, or process hereinbefore specified, and be afterwards imprisoned for the same cause of action; or,

Fourth. If, in a civil action, he have been discharged from commitment on a writ of arrest, and be afterwards committed on execution, in the same action, or on a writ of arrest in another action, after the dismissal of the first one.

SEC. 594. Whenever it appears by satisfactory evidence that any person is illegally imprisoned or restrained, and that there is good reason to believe that he will be carried out of the district, or suffer some irreparable injury before he can be relieved by the issuing of a writ of habeas corpus, any court or judge authorized to issue such writ may issue a warrant reciting the facts, and directed to the marshal or any other person therein designated, commanding such officer or person to take such person, and forthwith to bring him before such court or judge, to be dealt with according to law.

When warrant to issue in lieu of habeas corpus.

SEC. 595. When the proof mentioned in the last section shall also be sufficient to justify an arrest of the person having the party in his custody, as for a criminal offense, committed in the taking or detaining of such party, the warrant may also contain an order for the arrest of such person for such offense.

Arrest of the person having custody of the party.

SEC. 596. Any officer or person to whom such warrant shall be directed shall execute the same by bringing the party therein named and the person who detains him, if so commanded by the warrant, before the court or judge issuing the same; and thereupon the person detaining such party shall make a return in like manner, and the like proceeding shall be had thereon as if a writ of habeas corpus had been issued in the first instance.

Warrant, how executed and the proceedings thereon.

SEC. 597. If the person having such party in his custody be brought before the court or judge as for a criminal offense, he shall be examined, committed, bailed, or discharged by the court or judge in like manner as in other criminal cases of the like nature.

Person arrested to be committed or bailed.

SEC. 598. Any officer or other person refusing to deliver a copy of any order, warrant, process, or other authority by which he shall detain any person to anyone who shall demand such copy and tender the fees therefor shall forfeit two hundred dollars to the person so detained.

Penalty for refusing copy of order.

SEC. 599. Whenever a writ of habeas corpus is required in any action or proceeding, civil or criminal, to which the United States is a party, the application therefor may be made by the district attorney, and

When district attorney may apply for a writ.

whenever so issued the court or judge shall state in the order of allowance that it was issued on such application.

By whom served;
tender of fees and undertaking.

SEC. 600. A writ of habeas corpus may be served by the marshal, or by any other person therein designated, at any place within the district, and the service thereof shall not be deemed complete, so as to require the prisoner to be brought up before the court or judge issuing the same, unless the party serving the same shall tender to the person in whose custody the prisoner may be, if such person be a marshal or other officer, the fees allowed by law for bringing up such prisoner; nor unless he shall also enter into an undertaking to such marshal or other officer, as the case may be, in a penalty double the amount of the sum for which such prisoner may be detained, if he be detained for any specific amount of money, and if not, then in such a sum as the judge granting the writ shall direct, not exceeding one thousand dollars, to the effect that such person shall pay the charges for carrying back such prisoner if he shall be remanded, and that such prisoner will not escape by the way, either in going to or returning from the place to which he is taken. If such fees be not paid, or such security be not tendered, the officer to whom the writ is directed shall make return thereto, in the manner required by section five hundred and seventy-three, and shall state therein the reason why such prisoner is not produced, and thereupon the court or judge granting the writ may proceed as if the prisoner were produced. But this section, from and inclusive of the words "and the service thereof," does not apply to a case wherein the writ is issued on the application of the district attorney.

How served

SEC. 601. The writ of habeas corpus may be served by delivery of a certified copy of the original to the officer or person to whom it is directed, or, if he can not be found, by leaving such copy at the jail or other place in which the party is imprisoned or restrained, with any under officer or other person having charge for the time of such party.

Same subject.

SEC. 602. If the officer or person on whom the writ ought to be served conceal himself, or refuse admittance to the person attempting to serve it, it may be served by affixing it in some conspicuous place on the outside either of his dwelling house or the jail or other place where the party is confined.

Duty to obey writ.

SEC. 603. It is the duty of the marshal or other officer upon whom a writ of habeas corpus has been served, whether such writ be directed to him or not, upon payment or tender of the fees allowed by law and the delivery or tender of the undertaking herein prescribed, to obey and return the writ according to the exigency thereof; and it is the duty of every other person upon whom the writ is served, having the custody of the person for whose benefit it is issued, to obey and return it in like manner without requiring the payment of any fees, unless the judgment of such fees has been required by the court or judge allowing such writ.

When charges for producing party may be ordered paid.

SEC. 604. Every court or judge allowing a writ of habeas corpus, directed to a person other than the marshal or other officer, may, in its discretion, require, in order to render the service effectual, that the charges of producing the party be paid by the applicant; and in such case the court or judge shall, in the order allowing the writ, specify the amount of such charges, which shall not exceed the fees allowed by law to marshals for similar services.

Proof of service.

SEC. 605. The proof of service of the writ of habeas corpus shall be the same as in the service of a summons, except that the same shall be indorsed upon a copy of the writ made by the officer or person serving it, and returned to the clerk who issued the writ.

Within what time return to be made.

SEC. 606. If the writ be returnable at a certain time, such return shall be made and the party produced, if required or there be no valid excuse therefor, as herein provided, at the time and place specified therein; if it be returnable forthwith, and the place of return be within twenty miles of the place of service, the return must be made and the party produced within twenty-four hours, and the same time is allowed for every additional twenty miles.

SEC. 607. At any time after the allowance of such writ or warrant by the court or judge thereof, the plaintiff therein, or the person applying therefor on his behalf, may give notice to the judge issuing the same, and thereupon, if necessary to avoid delay, such judge shall by order require that the return be made and the party produced before him at such time and place as may be convenient.

What court has jurisdiction.

SEC. 608. Any party to a proceeding by habeas corpus, including the United States when the district attorney appears therein, may appeal from the judgment of the district court refusing to allow such writ or any final judgment therein, either in term time or vacation, in like manner and with like effect as in an action. No question once finally determined upon a proceeding by habeas corpus shall be reexamined upon another or subsequent proceeding of the same kind.

Appeal from judgment; question not to be reexamined.

CHAPTER FIFTY-EIGHT.

OF THE PUNISHMENT OF CONTEMPTS.

Sec.

609. Contempts defined.

610. Punishment for contempt.

611. In presence of court, how punished.

612. In other cases, mode of proceeding.

613. If defendant imprisoned, may be brought up.

614. The United States is plaintiff; when district attorney may prosecute.

615. When defendant bailed; how warrant executed.

616. Bail, how given.

Sec.

617. Return of warrant, and proceedings on appearance.

618. Determination and sentence.

619. Judgment to indemnify party injured.

620. When party may be imprisoned.

621. Person also liable to indictment.

622. If party do not appear, proceedings thereon.

623. Appeal from judgment.

SEC. 609. The following acts or omissions, in respect to a court of justice, or proceedings therein, are deemed to be contempts of the authority of the court:

Contempts defined.

First. Disorderly, contemptuous, or insolent behavior toward the judge while holding the court, tending to impair its authority or to interrupt the due course of a trial or other judicial proceeding;

Second. A breach of the peace, boisterous conduct, or violent disturbance, tending to interrupt the due course of a trial or other judicial proceeding;

Third. Misbehavior in office, or other willful neglect or violation of duty, by an attorney, clerk, marshal, or other person appointed or selected to perform a judicial or ministerial service;

Fourth. Deceit, or abuse of the process or proceedings of the court, by a party to an action or special proceeding;

Fifth. Disobedience of any lawful judgment, order, or process of the court;

Sixth. Assuming to be an attorney or other officer of the court, and acting as such without authority in a particular instance;

Seventh. Rescuing any person or property in the custody of an officer by virtue of an order or process of such court;

Eighth. Unlawfully detaining a witness or party to an action or proceeding while going to, remaining at, or returning from the court where the same is for trial;

Ninth. Any other unlawful interference with the process or proceedings of the court;

Tenth. Disobedience of a subpoena duly served, or refusing to be sworn or answer as a witness;

Eleventh. When summoned as a juror in a court, improperly conversing with a party to an action or proceeding to be tried at such court, or with any other person in relation to the merits of such action, or proceeding, or receiving a communication from a party or other person in respect to it without immediately disclosing the same to the court;

Twelfth. Disobedience by an inferior tribunal, magistrate, or officer of the lawful judgment, order, or process of a superior court, or proceeding in an action or proceeding contrary to law, after such action or proceeding shall have been removed from the jurisdiction of such inferior tribunal, magistrate, or officer. The conduct specified in subdivisions first and second of this section, when committed before a judicial officer, or disobedience of the lawful order or process of such officer made in the cases specified in section seven hundred and eleven, is also to be deemed a contempt of the authority of such officer.

Punishment for contempt.

SEC. 610. Every court of justice and every judicial officer has power to punish contempt by fine or imprisonment, or both. But such fine shall not exceed three hundred dollars nor the imprisonment six months; and when the contempt is not one of those mentioned in subdivisions first and second of the last section, or in subdivision first of section seven hundred and eleven it must appear that the right or remedy of a party to an action or proceeding was defeated or prejudiced thereby before the contempt can be punished otherwise than by fine not exceeding one hundred dollars.

In presence of court, how punished.

SEC. 611. When a contempt is committed in the immediate view and presence of the court or officer, it may be punished summarily, for which an order must be made reciting the facts as occurring in such immediate view and presence, determining that the person proceeded against is thereby guilty of a contempt, and that he be punished as therein prescribed. In other cases of contempt the trial shall proceed upon testimony produced as in criminal cases and the accused shall be entitled to be confronted with the witnesses against him, but such trial shall be by the court or, in the discretion of the court, upon application of the accused, a trial by jury may be had as in any criminal case.

In other cases, mode of proceeding.

SEC. 612. In cases other than those mentioned in the section last preceding, before any proceedings can be taken therein the facts constituting the contempt must be shown by an affidavit presented to the court or judicial officer, and thereupon such court or officer may either make an order upon the person charged to show cause why he should not be arrested to answer, or issue a warrant of arrest to bring such person to answer in the first instance.

If defendant imprisoned, may be brought out.

SEC. 613. If the party charged be in the custody of an officer, by virtue of a legal order or process, civil or criminal, except upon a sentence for a felony, an order may be made for the production of such person by the officer having him in custody, that he may answer, and he shall thereupon be produced and held, until an order be made for his disposal.

The United States is plaintiff; when district attorney may prosecute.

SEC. 614. In the proceeding for a contempt the United States is the plaintiff. In all cases of public interest the proceeding may be prosecuted by the district attorney on behalf of the United States; and in all cases where the proceeding is commenced upon the relation of a private party, such party shall be deemed a coplaintiff with the United States.

When defendant bailed; how warrant executed.

SEC. 615. Whenever a warrant of arrest is issued pursuant to this chapter the court or judicial officer shall direct therein whether the person charged may be let to bail for his appearance upon the warrant or detained in custody without bail, and if he may be bailed, the amount in which he may be let to bail. Upon executing the warrant of arrest, the marshal must keep the person in actual custody, bring him before the court or judicial officer, and detain him until an order be made in the premises, unless the person arrested entitle himself to be discharged as provided in section six hundred and sixteen.

SEC. 616. The defendant shall be discharged from the arrest upon executing and delivering to the marshal, at any time before the return day of the warrant, an undertaking, with two sufficient sureties, to the effect that the defendant will appear on such return day, and abide the order or judgment of the court or officer thereupon, or pay, as may be directed, the sum specified in the warrant.

Bail, how given.

SEC. 617. The marshal shall return the warrant of arrest, and the undertaking, if any, given him by the defendant, by the return day therein specified. When the defendant has been brought up or has appeared, the court or judicial officer shall proceed to investigate the charge by examining such defendant and witnesses for or against him, for which an adjournment may be had from time to time if necessary.

Return of warrant, and proceedings on appearance.

SEC. 618. Upon the evidence so taken the court or judicial officer shall determine whether or not the defendant is guilty of the contempt charged, and if it be determined that he is so guilty, shall sentence him to be punished as provided in this chapter.

Determination and sentence.

SEC. 619. If any loss or injury to a party in an action or proceeding, prejudicial to his rights therein, have been caused by the contempt, the court or judicial officer, in addition to the punishment imposed for the contempt, may give judgment that the party aggrieved recover off the defendant a sum of money sufficient to indemnify him and to satisfy his costs and disbursements, which judgment, and the acceptance of the amount thereof, is a bar to any action or proceeding by the aggrieved party for such loss or injury.

Judgment to indemnify party injured.

SEC. 620. When the contempt consists in the omission or refusal to perform an act which is yet in the power of the defendant to perform, he may be imprisoned until he shall have performed it; and in such case the act must be specified in the warrant of commitment.

When party may be imprisoned.

SEC. 621. Persons proceeded against according to the provisions of this chapter are also liable to indictment for the same misconduct, if it be an indictable offense; but the court, before his conviction is had on the indictment, in passing sentence, shall take into consideration the punishment before inflicted.

Person also liable to indictment.

SEC. 622. When a warrant of arrest has been returned served, if the defendant do not appear on the return day, the court or judicial officer may issue another warrant of arrest, or may order the undertaking to be prosecuted, or both. If the undertaking be prosecuted, and the aggrieved party join in the action, and the sum specified therein be recovered, so much thereof as will compensate such party for the loss or injury sustained by reason of the misconduct for which the warrant was issued shall be deemed to be recovered for such party exclusively.

If party do not appear, proceedings thereon.

SEC. 623. Either party to a judgment in a proceeding for a contempt may appeal therefrom in like manner and with like effect as from a judgment in an action; but such appeal shall not have the effect to stay the proceeding in any other action or proceeding, or upon any judgment, decree, or order therein concerning which or wherein such contempt was committed. Contempts of justices' courts are punishable in the manner specially provided in the procedure before them.

Appeal from judgment.

CHAPTER FIFTY-NINE.

OF THE MEANS OF THE PRODUCTION OF EVIDENCE.

Sec.	Sec.
624. Subpœna for witness defined.	632. Disobedience to subpœna, how punished.
625. Subpœna, how and by whom issued.	633. Forfeiture therefor.
626. Subpœna, when and to whom issued in blank.	634. When warrant may be issued to bring witness.
627. Subpœna, how served.	635. Warrant of arrest or commitment.
628. How served if witness concealed.	636. If witness be a prisoner, how produced or examined.
629. Proof of service.
630. When witness obliged to attend.
631. Person present compelled to testify.

Subpœna for witness defined.

SEC. 624. The process by which the attendance of a witness is required is a subpœna. It is a writ directed to a person and requiring his attendance at a particular time and place, to testify as a witness in a particular action, suit, or proceeding therein specified, on behalf of a particular party therein mentioned. It may also require him to bring with him any books, documents, or other things under his control which he is bound by law to produce in evidence.

Subpœna, how and by whom issued.

SEC. 625. The subpœna is as follows:

First. To require attendance before a court of record, or at the trial of an issue therein, or out of such court in an action, suit, or proceeding pending therein, by the clerk of such court;

Second. To require attendance before a commissioner appointed to take testimony by a court of the United States, or any State or Territory, or any foreign country, by any clerk of a court of record, in places within the jurisdiction of such court;

Third. To require attendance before the judge, justice of the peace, or other person authorized by law to take the testimony or affidavit of another, by such judge, justice of the peace, or other person, in the places within their respective jurisdiction.

Subpœna, when and to whom issued in blank.

SEC. 626. The subpœnas authorized by subdivisions first and second of the last section, upon the request of a party and an attorney of the court, shall be issued by the clerk in blank, and delivered to such party or attorney, who may thereafter fill up such blank with the name of the witness or witnesses that he may desire to be subpœnaed, and cause the same to be served as in this chapter required.

Subpœna, how served.

SEC. 627. A subpœna may be served by the party or any other competent person over eighteen years of age. The service is made by reading and showing the original and delivering a copy to the witness personally, giving or offering to him at the same time the fees to which he is entitled for travel to and from the place designated, and one day's attendance there. Such service must be made so as to allow the witness a reasonable time for preparation and travel to the place of attendance.

How served if witness concealed.

SEC. 628. The marshal or any deputy or any person specially appointed by him, but none other, is authorized and required to break into any building or vessel in which a witness may be concealed, so as to prevent the service of a subpœna, and serve the same upon such witness.

Proof of service.

SEC. 629. Proof of service of a subpœna shall be made in the same manner as in the service of a summons.

When witness obliged to attend.

SEC. 630. A witness is not obliged to attend for oral examination or otherwise at a place distant more than one hundred miles from the place where he resides or at which he may be served with a subpœna; except that in an action or proceeding pending in a court of record the court or judge thereof, upon the affidavit of the party, or some one on his behalf, showing that the testimony of the witness is material and his oral examination important and desirable, may indorse upon the subpoena an order for the attendance of the witness; the service of such subpoena and order and the payment of legal fees to the witness are sufficient to require his attendance, if he be served within the district.

SEC. 631. A person present in court or before a judicial officer may be required to testify in the same manner as if he were in attendance before such court or officer on a subpoena.

Person present compelled to testify.

SEC. 632. Disobedience to a subpoena, or a refusal to be sworn, or to answer as a witness, or to subscribe an affidavit or deposition when required, may be punished as a contempt by the court or officer before whom he is required to attend or the refusal takes place, and if the witness be a party his complaint, answer, or reply may be stricken out.

Disobedience to subpoena, how punished.

SEC. 633. A witness disobeying a subpoena duly served shall forfeit to the party requiring his attendance the sum of fifty dollars and all damages which he may sustain by the failure of the witness to attend, which forfeiture and damages may be recovered by an action at law.

Forfeiture therefor.

SEC. 634. In case of the failure of a witness to attend, the court or officer before whom he is required to attend, upon proof of the due service of the subpoena and tender of his fees, may issue a warrant to the marshal requiring him to arrest the witness and bring him before the court or officer where his attendance was required.

When warrant may be issued to bring witness.

SEC. 635. Every warrant of commitment issued by a court or officer pursuant to this chapter shall specify therein the cause of the commitment; and if it be for refusing to answer a question such question shall be stated in the warrant.

Warrant of arrest or commitment.

SEC. 636. If the witness be a prisoner, confined in a prison within the district, an order for his examination in the prison upon a deposition, or for his temporary removal and production, before a court or officer, for the purpose of being orally examined, may be made as follows:

If witness be a prisoner, how produced or examined.

First. By the court or judge thereof in which the action or proceeding is pending, unless it be a court of a justice of the peace;

Second. By any judge of a court of record, when the action or proceeding is pending in a justice's court, or when the witness's deposition, affidavit, or oral examination is required before a judge or other person out of court;

Third. Such order shall only be made upon the affidavit of the party desiring the order, or some one on his behalf, showing the nature of the action or proceeding, the testimony expected from the witness, and its materiality;

Fourth. If the witness be imprisoned at the place where the action or proceeding is pending, and for a cause other than a sentence for felony, his production may be required; in all other cases his examination shall be taken by deposition.

try, otherwise than upon commission, must be authenticated as follows before it can be used in the district:

First. It must be certified by a commissioner appointed by the governor of the district to take affidavits and depositions in such State, Territory, District, or country, or Second. It must be certified by a judge of a court having a clerk and a seal to have been taken and subscribed before him at a time and place therein specified, and the existence of the court, the fact that such judge is a member thereof, and the genuineness of his signature shall be certified by the clerk of the court, under the seal thereof.

Affidavit, when may be used.

SEC. 638. An affidavit may be used to prove the service of a summons, notice, or other paper in an action or proceeding to obtain a provisional remedy, the examination of a witness, or a stay of proceedings, or upon a motion, and in any other case expressly provided for by law, except as provided in the next section.

When deponent to be produced for cross-examination.

SEC. 639. Whenever a provisional remedy has been allowed upon affidavit, the party against whom it is allowed may serve upon the party by whom it was obtained a notice requiring the person making the affidavit to be produced before some officer authorized to administer oaths, therein named, for cross-examination. Thereupon the party to whom the remedy was allowed shall lose the benefit of the affidavit and all proceedings founded thereon, unless within eight days, or such other time as the court or judge thereof may direct, upon a previous notice to his adversary of at least three days, he produce the deponent for examination before the officer mentioned in the notice, or some other of like authority, provided for in the order of the court or judge. Upon such production the deponent may be examined by either party, but a party shall not be obliged to produce a witness for examination as in this section provided, except within the district where the provisional remedy was allowed.

Proof of publication by affidavit.

SEC. 640. Proof of the publication of a document or notice required by law, or by an order of court or a judge, to be published in a newspaper, may be made by the affidavit of the printer of the newspaper or his foreman or principal clerk, annexed to a copy of the document or notice, specifying the times when and the paper in which the publication was made. But such affidavit must be made within six months after the last day of publication.

Where affidavit may be filed, and effect thereof.

SEC. 641. If such affidavit be made in an action or proceeding pending in a court, it may be filed with the clerk thereof; and the same is primary evidence of the facts therein stated.

642. Deposition, when used.

643. Testimony of witness out of the district.

Sec.

644. When deposition taken of witness within district.

Deposition, when used.

SEC. 642. In all cases other than those mentioned in section six hundred and thirty-eight where a written declaration under oath is used, it must be a deposition.

Testimony of witness out of the district.

SEC. 643. The testimony of a witness out of the district may be taken by deposition in an action at any time after the service of the summons or the appearance of the defendant, and in a special proceeding at any time after a question of fact has arisen therein.

When deposition taken of witness within district.

SEC. 644. The testimony of a witness in the district may be taken by deposition, in an action, at any time after the service of the summons, or the appearance of the defendant; and in a special proceeding after a question of fact has arisen therein, in the following cases:

First. When the witness is a party to the action or proceeding, by the adverse party;

Second. When the witness's residence is such that he is not obliged to attend in obedience to the subpoena, as provided in section six hundred and thirty;

Third. When the witness is about to go more than one hundred miles beyond the place of trial;

Fourth. When the witness, otherwise liable to attend the trial, is nevertheless too infirm to attend;

Fifth. When the testimony is required upon a motion, or in any other case where the oral examination of the witness is not required.

CHAPTER SIXTY-TWO.

OF THE MANNER OF TAKING DEPOSITIONS OUT OF THE DISTRICT.

Sec.	Sec.
645. Testimony of a witness out of the district, how taken.	649. Trial, when postponed therefor.
646. Commission, how and by whom issued.	650. Deposition taken out of district before commission.
647. Interrogatories may be annexed.	651. Either party may attend or require written interrogatories.
648. Contents of commission.

SEC. 645. The deposition of a witness out of the district may be taken upon commission issued from the court, or without commission before a commissioner appointed by the governor of the district to take depositions in any State, Territory, or District of the United States, or in any foreign country.

Testimony of a witness out of the district, how taken.

SEC. 646. The commission may be issued by the clerk of the court, or by a justice of the peace in a cause in his own court, on the application of either party upon five days' previous notice to the other. It shall be issued to a person agreed upon by the parties, or if they do not agree, to a judge, justice of the peace, notary public, or clerk of a court, selected by the officer issuing it.

Commission, how and by whom issued.

SEC. 647. Such interrogatories, direct and cross, as the respective parties may prepare, to be settled by the clerk or justice in a summary manner as to the form thereof, if the parties disagree, may be annexed to the commission, or when the parties agree to that mode, the examination may be without written interrogatories.

Interrogatories may be annexed.

SEC. 648. The commission shall authorize the commissioner to administer an oath to the witness and to take his deposition in answer to the interrogatories, or when the examination is to be without them, in respect to the question in dispute, and to certify the deposition to the court in a sealed envelope, directed to the clerk or justice who issued the commission, or other person designated and agreed upon, and forward it to him by mail or other usual channel of conveyance.

Contents of commission.

SEC. 649. A trial or other proceeding shall not be postponed by reason of a commission not being returned, except it appear by affidavit that the testimony of the witness is material and necessary, and that proper diligence has been used to obtain it.

Trial, when postponed therefor.

SEC. 650. The deposition of a witness out of the district, and in any State, Territory, or District of the United States, may also be taken before a commissioner appointed by the governor of the district to take depositions in such State, Territory, or District, upon giving to the adverse party eight days' notice of the time and place of the examination, the name of the commissioner, and the witness, if the distance of the place of examination from the place where the testimony is to be used does not exceed fifty miles, and one day in addition for every additional twenty-five miles.

by a written notice to the other within three days from the service of the original notice, require it, it shall be taken upon written interrogatories, to be settled, if not agreed upon, by the same officer and in the same manner as in case of a deposition upon commission; and in such case the deposition shall be taken, certified, and directed by the commissioner in the same manner as a deposition upon commission.

CHAPTER SIXTY-THREE.

OF THE MANNER OF TAKING DEPOSITIONS IN THE DISTRICT.

Sec.	Sec.
652. Depositions in the district, when taken, and notice thereof.	656. May be used by either party; objections to relevancy or form.
653. How taken; either party may attend.	657. Proof before using certain depositions; insufficient notice.
654. Certificate of officer.	658. Depositions may be read at any time; exclusion of a portion.
655. Deposition, to whom forwarded.

Depositions in the district, when taken, and notice thereof.

SEC. 652. Either party may take the testimony of a witness in the district by deposition, in the cases allowed by this code, before the clerk of a court of record, or other person authorized to administer oaths, on giving the adverse party previous notice of the time and place of the examination, the name of the officer, and the witness; such notice shall be given at least three days before the day of the examination, if the distance of the place of examination from the residence of the person to whom notice is given does not exceed twenty-five miles, and one day in addition for every additional twenty-five miles, unless the court or judge thereof by order prescribe a shorter time. When a shorter time is prescribed the order shall be served with the notice.

How taken; either party may attend.

SEC. 653. Either party may attend upon such examination and examine the witness upon oral interrogatories. The deposition shall be written by the officer taking the same, or by the witness, or by some disinterested person, in the presence and under the direction of such officer. When completed it shall be read to or by the witness and subscribed by him. Before subscribing it the witness shall be allowed, if he desire it, to correct or explain any statement in the deposition, but such statement, although corrected and explained, shall remain a part of the deposition.

Certificate of officer.

SEC. 654. The officer taking the deposition shall append thereto his certificate, under the seal of his office, if there be a seal, to the effect that the deposition was taken before him, at a place mentioned, between certain hours of a day or days mentioned, and reduced to writing by a person therein named; that, before proceeding to the examination, the witness may be duly sworn to tell the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth; that the deposition was read to or by the witness and then by him subscribed.

Deposition, to whom forwarded.

SEC. 655. The officer taking the deposition shall inclose the same in a sealed envelope, directed to the clerk of the court, or the justice of the peace before whom the action or proceeding is pending, or such other person as may by writing be agreed upon, and deliver or forward the same accordingly by mail or other usual channel of conveyance.

May be used by either party; objections to relevancy or form.

SEC. 656. A deposition taken pursuant to the provisions of this chapter may be used by either party upon the trial or proceeding against any party giving or receiving the notice, subject to all legal exceptions. But no objections can be made at the trial to the relevancy of the testimony or the form of the interrogatory, unless the same appear by the deposition or written interrogatories to have been taken at the time of the examination or the settling of such interrogatories. Section six hundred and fifty-three, except the first sentence thereof, and sections six hundred and fifty-four and six hundred and fifty-five shall apply to depositions taken out of the district on oral interrogatories.

SEC. 657. If a deposition be taken under subdivisions two, three, or four of section six hundred and sixty, before the same can be used proof shall be made that the witness did reside beyond the service of a subpoena, or that he still continues absent or infirm, as the case may be. A deposition taken, whether in the district or without, upon insufficient notice or otherwise, not substantially in conformity with the provisions of this chapter, may be excluded from the case, unless such insufficient notice or other omission has been waived by the consent or conduct of the adverse party.

Proof before using certain depositions; insufficient notice.

SEC. 658. When a deposition has once been taken, it may be read in the same action or proceeding, or in any other action or proceeding, between the same parties or their representatives upon the same subject, and is then to be deemed the evidence of the party reading it. When any portion of a deposition is excluded from a case, so much of the adverse examination as relates thereto is excluded also.

Depositions may be read at any time; exclusion of a portion.

CHAPTER SIXTY-FOUR.

OF THE GENERAL RULES OF EXAMINATION.

Sec. 659. Order of proof, how regulated.	Sec. 666. Cross-examination, as to what it extends.
660. Witness not under examination may be excluded.	667. Party not to impeach his own witness.
661. Interpreter sworn, when.	668. Witness, how reexamined.
662. Court may control mode of interrogation.	669. How witness impeached.
663. Direct and cross-examination defined.	670. Same subject.
664. Leading questions defined.	671. Evidence of good character, when allowed.
665. When witness may testify or refresh his memory from writing.	672. Writing shown to witness may be inspected by adverse party.

SEC. 659. The order of proof shall be regulated by the sound discretion of the court. Ordinarily, the party beginning the case shall exhaust his evidence before the other begins.

Order of proof, how regulated.

* SEC. 660. If either party require it, the judge may exclude from the court room any witness of the adverse party not at the time under examination, so that he may not hear the testimony of other witnesses.

Witness not under examination may be excluded.

SEC. 661. When a witness does not understand and speak the English language, an interpreter shall be sworn to interpret for him.

Interpreter sworn, when.

SEC. 662. The court may exercise a reasonable control over the mode of interrogation, so as to make it as rapid, as distinct, as little annoying to the witness, and as effective for the extraction of the truth as may be; but, subject to this rule, the parties may put such legal and pertinent questions as they see fit. The court, however, may stop the production of further evidence, upon any particular point, when the evidence upon it is already so full as to preclude reasonable doubt.

Court may control mode of interrogation.

SEC. 663. The examination of a witness by the party producing him is denominated the direct examination; the examination of the same witness upon the same matter, by the adverse party, the cross-examination. The direct examination must be completed before the cross-examination begins, unless the court otherwise direct.

Direct and cross examination defined.

SEC. 664. A question which suggests to the witness the answer which the examining party desires is denominated a leading or suggestive question. On a direct examination, leading questions are not allowed, unless merely formal or preliminary, except in the sound discretion of the court, under special circumstances, making it appear that the interests of justice require it.

Leading questions defined.

When witness may testify or refresh his memory from writing.

SEC. 665. A witness is allowed to refresh his memory, respecting a fact, by anything written by himself or under his direction at the time when the fact occurred or immediately thereafter, or at any other time when the fact was fresh in his memory and he knew that the same was correctly stated in the writing. But in either case the writing must be produced, and may be inspected by the adverse party, who may, if he choose, cross-examine the witness upon it, and may read it to the jury. So, also, a witness may testify from such a writing, though he retain no recollection of the particular facts; but such evidence shall be received with caution.

Scope of cross-examination.

SEC. 666. The adverse party may cross-examine the witness as to any matter stated in his direct examination or connected therewith, and in so doing may put leading questions; but if he examine him as to other matters, such examination is to be subject to the same rules as a direct examination.

Party not to impeach his own witness.

SEC. 667. The party producing a witness is not allowed to impeach his credit by evidence of bad character, but he may contradict him by other evidence, and may also show that he has made at other times statements inconsistent with his present testimony, as provided in section six hundred and seventy.

Witness, how reexamined.

SEC. 668. A witness once examined shall not be reexamined as to the same matter without leave of the court; but he may be reexamined as to any new matter upon which he has been examined by the adverse party. After the examinations on both sides are concluded the witness shall not be recalled without leave of the court. Leave is granted or withheld in the exercise of a sound discretion.

How witness impeached.

SEC. 669. A witness may be impeached by the party against whom he was called, by contradictory evidence, or by evidence that his general reputation for truth is bad, or that his moral character is such as to render him unworthy of belief, but not by evidence of particular wrongful acts; except that it may be shown by the examination of the witness or the record of the judgment that he has been convicted of a crime.

Same subject.

SEC. 670. A witness may also be impeached by evidence that he has made at other times statements inconsistent with his present testimony; but before this can be done the statements must be related to him, with the circumstances of times, places, and persons present; and he shall be asked whether he has made such statements, and, if so, allowed to explain them. If the statements be in writing, they shall be shown to the witness before any question is put to him concerning them.

Evidence of good character, when allowed.

SEC. 671. Evidence of the good character of a party is not admissible in a civil action or proceeding unless the issue therein involve his character, nor of a witness in any action or proceeding until the character of such witness has been impeached.

Writing shown to witness may be inspected by adverse party.

SEC. 672. Whenever a writing is shown to a witness it may be inspected by the adverse party, and if proved by the witness, shall be read to the jury before his testimony is closed, or it shall not be read, except on recalling the witness.

CHAPTER SIXTY-FIVE.

OF THE EFFECT OF EVIDENCE.

Sec.

673. On what points jury to be instructed.

On what points jury to be instructed.

SEC. 673. The jury, subject to the control of the court in the cases specified in this code, are the judges of the effect and value of evidence addressed to them, except when it is thereby declared to be conclusive. They are, however, to be instructed by the court on all proper occasions:

First. That their power of judging the effect of evidence is not arbitrary, but to be exercised with legal discretion and in subordination to the rules of evidence;

Second. That they are not bound to find in conformity with the declarations of any number of witnesses which do not produce conviction in their minds against a less number, or against a presumption or other evidence satisfying their minds;

Third. That a witness willfully false in one part of his testimony may be distrusted in others;

Fourth. That the testimony of an accomplice ought to be viewed with distrust and of the oral admissions of a party with caution;

Fifth. That in civil cases the affirmative of the issue shall be proved, and when the evidence is contradictory the finding shall be according to the preponderance of evidence; that in criminal cases guilt shall be established beyond reasonable doubt;

Sixth. That evidence is to be estimated not only by its own intrinsic weight, but also according to the evidence which it is in the power of one side to produce and of the other to contradict; and, therefore,

Seventh. That if the weaker and less satisfactory evidence is offered when it appears that stronger and more satisfactory was within the power of the party, the evidence offered should be viewed with distrust.

CHAPTER SIXTY-SIX.

OF THE RIGHTS AND DUTIES OF WITNESSES.

Sec

674. Witness bound to attend when subpoenaed.

675. What questions witness bound to answer.

676. Right of witness to protection.

Sec.

677. When witness protected from arrest.

678. To make affidavit if arrested.

679. Court may discharge witness from arrest.

SEC. 674. It is the duty of a witness, duly served with a subpoena and tendered mileage and fees for the day named, to attend at the time appointed, with any papers, books, documents, or other thing under his control required by the subpoena, to answer all pertinent and legal questions, and, unless sooner discharged, to remain until the testimony is closed; but a witness, at the end of each day's attendance, may demand of the party or his attorney the payment of his legal fees for the next following day, and if not then paid he is not obliged to remain longer in attendance. Witness bound to attend when subpoenaed.

SEC. 675. A witness shall answer questions legal and pertinent to the matter in issue, though his answer may establish a claim against himself. But he need not give an answer which will have a direct tendency to subject him to criminal prosecution, or to degrade his character, unless, in the latter case, it be as to the very fact in issue, or to a fact from which the fact in issue would be presumed. This privilege is the privilege of the witness, but a witness must answer as to the fact of his previous conviction for felony. What questions witness bound to answer.

SEC. 676. It is the right of the witness to be protected from irrelevant, insulting, or improper questions, or from harsh or insulting demeanor; to be detained only so long as the interests of justice require it; to be examined only as to matters legal and pertinent to the issue. Right of witness to protection.

SEC. 677. Every person who has been, in good faith, served with a subpoena to attend as a witness before a court, judge, commissioner, referee, or other officer, is exonerated from arrest in a civil case while going to the place of attendance, necessarily remaining there, and returning therefrom. The arrest of a witness contrary to this section is void, and when willfully made is a contempt of court; and the officer making it is responsible to the witness arrested for double the amount of damages which may be assessed against him therefor, and is also liable to When witness protected from arrest.

an action at the suit of the party serving the witness with the subpoena for the damages sustained by him in consequence of the arrest.

To make affidavit if arrested.

SEC. 678. But the officer making the arrest is not liable in any way therefor, unless the person making the exception make, if required, an affidavit stating—

First. That he has been served with a subpoena to attend as a witness before a court, judge, or other officer, specifying the same, the place of attendance, and the action or proceeding in which the subpoena was issued; and Second. That he has not been thus served by his own procurement, with the intention of avoiding an arrest. The affidavit may be taken by the officer, and exonerates him from liability for not making the arrest or for discharging the witness when arrested.

Court may discharge witness from arrest.

SEC. 679. The court, judge, or officer before whom the attendance of the witness is required may discharge a witness from an arrest made in violation of section six hundred and seventy-seven.

SEC. 680. Whoever pays money, or delivers an instrument or property, is entitled to a receipt therefor from the person to whom the payment or delivery is made, and may demand a proper signature to such receipt as a condition of the payment or delivery.

Objections to tender must be specified.

SEC. 681. The person to whom a tender is made shall at the time specify any objection he may have to the money, instrument, or property, or he must be deemed to have waived it; and if the objection be to the amount of money, the terms of the instrument, or the amount or kind of property, he must specify the amount, terms, or kind which he requires, or be precluded from objecting afterwards.

Rules for construing description of real property.

SEC. 682. The following are the rules for construing the descriptive part of a conveyance of real property when the construction is doubtful and there are no other sufficient circumstances to determine it:

First. Where there are certain definite and ascertained particulars in the description, the addition of others which are indefinite, unknown, or false does not frustrate the conveyance, but it is to be construed by such particulars, if they constitute a sufficient description to ascertain its application;

Second. When permanent and visible or ascertained boundaries or monuments are inconsistent with the measurement, either of lines, angles, or surfaces, the boundaries or monuments are paramount;

Third. Between different measurements which are inconsistent with each other, that of angles is paramount to that of surfaces, and that of lines paramount to both;

Fourth. When a road or stream of water not navigable is the boundary, the rights of the grantor to the middle of the road or the thread of the stream are included in the conveyance, except where the road or bed of the stream is held under another title;

Fifth. When tide water is the boundary, the rights of the grantor to low-water mark are included in the conveyance;

Sixth. When the description refers to a map, and that reference is inconsistent with other particulars, it controls them, if it appear that the parties acted with reference to the map; otherwise the map is subordinate to other definite and ascertained particulars.

SEC. 683. An offer of compromise is not an admission that anything is due; and no evidence thereof shall be permitted.

Offer of compromise not an admission.

SEC. 684. In an action for the dissolution of the marriage contract on the ground of adultery, a confession of adultery, whether in or out of the pleadings, is not of itself sufficient to justify a decree of dissolution.

Confession of adultery in divorce cases.

Evidence may be perpetuated.

SEC. 686. The order for taking the testimony may be made by any judge of the district court upon the application of the party desiring it, when it appears from the petition of such party, verified as a complaint—

Order for examination, how obtained.

First. That the applicant is a party or expects to be a party to an action or proceeding in a court in the district, or that he has an interest in real property or some easement or franchise therein about which a controversy may arise which would be the subject of such an action or proceeding;

Second. That the testimony of a witness, whose name and place of residence is stated, is material to the prosecution or defense, as the case may be, of such action or proceeding, or possible controversy, and generally the question involved therein, and the facts expected to be proved by the witness;

Third. The names and residence of the adverse parties or persons adversely interested, so far as the applicant knows or can ascertain them.

The judge may thereupon in his discretion make an order allowing the examination, prescribing therein the place thereof, and how long before the examination the order and notice of the time and place therefor shall be served.

SEC. 687. If it appear that the adverse parties or persons adversely interested, or any of them, reside out of the district, or are unknown, the judge shall direct that, as to such parties or persons, service of the order and notice shall be made by publication, in the same manner as a summons. Upon proof of the service, the deposition may be taken conditionally by the judge who made the order of examination, or by any other officer or person therein designated.

Service of the order and notice in case of nonresidents.

SEC. 688. Every interrogatory or answer, or declaration of the witness, shall be taken down, unless the parties otherwise agree. The deposition, when completed, shall be carefully read to and subscribed by the witness, and then certified by the judge or other officer or person taking the same and immediately thereafter filed in the office of the clerk of the court, together with the order for the examination of the witness, the petition on which the same was granted, the notice, and the proof of service of the order and notice.

How objected to when produced.

SEC. 691. The deposition when so taken, when produced in evidence, may be objected to as if it was the oral testimony of the witness, except that the form of the interrogatory shall not be objected to.

Power and duty of the officer taking deposition.

SEC. 692. The judge, officer, or other person taking the deposition shall control the examination, to the end that the whole truth may be declared by the witness, and if no one appears other than the applicant, he shall prevent leading and suggestive interrogatories by such applicant, except when the same may be necessary or merely formal, and shall himself cross-examine the witness, concluding with the general interrogatory to the effect whether the witness knows anything further in relation to the matter which would be of benefit to either party.

SEC. 693. Every court, judge, clerk of a court, commissioner, justice of the peace, or notary public is authorized to take testimony in any action or proceeding, and such other persons in particular cases as this code elsewhere authorizes. Every such court or officer is authorized to administer oaths and affirmations generally, and every such other person in the particular case authorized.

Form may be varied to suit witness' belief.

SEC. 694. Whenever the court or officer before which a person is offered as a witness is satisfied that he has a peculiar mode of swearing, connected with or in addition to the usual form of administration, which, in his opinion, is more solemn or obligatory, the court or officer may in its discretion adopt that mode.

Same subject.

SEC. 695. When a person is sworn who believes in any other than the Christian religion, he may be sworn according to the peculiar ceremonies of his religion, if there be any such.

Who may affirm.

SEC. 696. Any person who has conscientious scruples against taking an oath may make his solemn affirmation.

Affirmation equivalent to oath; when false to be deemed perjury.

SEC. 697. Whenever by any provision of this title an oath is required, an affirmation is to be deemed equivalent thereto, and a false affirmation is to be deemed perjury equally with a false oath.

CHAPTER SEVENTY.

OF COURTS OF JUSTICE.

Sec.

698. Judicial power, how vested.

699. The district court.

700. Justice's court.

701. Mode of proceeding.

702. Jurisdiction of justice's court.

703. Jurisdiction not to include certain cases.

704. Where action may be commenced.

705. Power of court respecting judicial proceedings.

706. Power, how exercised.

Sec.

707. Judicial officer, definition of. When disqualified to act.

708. Appointment of judge pro tempore.

709. Judicial officer not to act as attorney, except.

710. Power of a judge out of court.

711. Power of judicial officers.

712. Powers, how exercised.

713. Power to take and certify affidavits.

714. Same subject.

Judicial power, how vested.

SEC. 698. The judicial power in the district of Alaska is vested in a district court, in commissioners exercising the powers of probate courts, and in commissioners as ex officio justices of the peace.

SEC. 699. The district court is a court of general jurisdiction, civil and criminal, and also shall have admiralty jurisdiction.

The district court.

SEC. 700. A justice's court is a court held by a commissioner as ex officio justice of the peace within the precinct for which he may be appointed. There are no particular terms of such court, but the same is always open for the transaction of business, according to the mode of proceeding prescribed for it.

Justice's court.

SEC. 701. The mode of proceeding and the rules of evidence are the same in a justice's court as in a like action or proceeding in a court of record, except where otherwise specially provided.

Mode of proceeding.

SEC. 702. A justice's court has jurisdiction, but not exclusive, of the following actions:

Jurisdiction of justice's court.

First. For the recovery of money or damages only, when the amount claimed does not exceed one thousand dollars;

Second. For the recovery of specific personal property, when the value of the property claimed and the damages for the detention do not exceed one thousand dollars;

Third. For the recovery of any penalty or forfeiture, whether given by statute or arising out of contract, not exceeding one thousand dollars;

Fourth. Also, to give judgment without action upon the confession of the defendant for any of the cases specified in this section, except for a penalty or forfeiture imposed by statute.

SEC. 703. The jurisdiction conferred by the last section does not extend, however—

Jurisdiction not to include certain cases.

First. To an action in which the title to real property shall come in question;

Second. To an action for false imprisonment, libel, slander, malicious prosecution, criminal conversation, seduction, upon a promise to marry, in actions of an equitable nature or in admiralty causes.

SEC. 704. In an action in a justice's court to recover a penalty or forfeiture given by statute the cause of action or some part thereof must have arisen within the precinct where the action is commenced, or upon a lake, river, or other water bordering upon such precinct and opposite thereto; but otherwise than this the jurisdiction of justice's court does not depend upon where the cause arose, provided that the defendant shall reside in the precinct where the action is commenced, or personal service can be had on the defendant in such precinct; and if the defendant do not reside in the district, the action may be commenced in the precinct in which the plaintiff resides.

Where action may be commenced.

SEC. 705. Every court of justice has power—

First. To preserve and enforce order in its immediate presence;

Second. To enforce order in the proceedings before it, or before a person or body empowered to conduct a judicial investigation under its authority;

Power of court respecting judicial proceedings.

Third. To provide for the orderly conduct of proceedings before it or its officers;

Fourth. To compel obedience to its judgments, orders, and process, and to the orders of a judge out of court in an action or proceeding pending therein;

Fifth. To control, in furtherance of justice, the conduct of its ministerial officers, and of all other persons in any manner connected with a judicial proceeding before it in every matter appertaining thereto;

Sixth. To compel the attendance of persons to testify in an action or proceeding therein in the cases and manner provided by this code;

Seventh. To administer oaths in an action, or proceeding pending therein, and in all other cases where it may be necessary in the exercise of its powers or the performance of its duties.

Power, how exercised.

SEC. 706. For the effectual exercise of the powers specified in the last section, the court may punish for contempt in the cases and the manner provided in this code.

Judicial officer, definition of. When disqualified to act.

SEC. 707. A judicial officer is a person authorized to act as a judge in a court of justice. Such officer shall not act as such in a court of which he is a member in any of the following cases:

First. In an action or proceeding to which he is a party, or in which he is directly interested;

Second. When he was not present and sitting as a member of the court at the hearing of a matter submitted for its decision;

Third. When he is related to either party by consanguinity or affinity within the third degree;

Fourth. When he has been attorney in the action or proceeding in question for either party.

But this section does not apply to an application to change the place of trial or the regulation of the order of business in court. In the cases specified in subdivisions three and four the disqualification may be waived by the parties, and shall be deemed to be waived unless an application be made as provided in this code.

Appointment of judge pro tempore.

SEC. 708. Whenever it appears that the judge of the district court presiding in the division where the action is pending is disqualified under the provisions of the section last preceding the action shall be transferred to another division of said court unless a judge of another division will appear and preside during the disposition thereof: Provided, however, That the parties may by written stipulation agree upon a member of the bar of said court to try the same.

Judicial officer not to act as attorney, except.

SEC. 709. Any judicial officer may act as an attorney in any action or proceeding to which he is a party or in which he is directly interested. A justice of the peace, otherwise authorized by law, may act as an attorney in any court other than the one of which he is judge, except in an action or proceeding removed therefrom to another court for review; but no judicial officer shall act as attorney in any court, or otherwise other than as in this section allowed: Provided, No justice of the peace or other judicial officer shall have a partner who shall practice law or act as attorney in the court over which he presides.

Power of a judge out of court.

SEC. 710. A judge may exercise, out of court, all the powers expressly conferred upon a judge as contradistinguished from a court, and not otherwise.

Power of judicial officers.

SEC. 711. Every judicial officer has power—

First. To preserve and enforce order in his immediate presence, and in the proceedings before him, when he is engaged in the performance of a duty imposed upon him by this code or other statute;

Second. To compel obedience to his lawful orders, as provided in this code;

Third. To compel the attendance of persons to testify in a proceeding pending before him in the cases and manner provided in this code;

Fourth. To administer oaths to persons, in a proceeding pending before him, and in all other cases where it may be necessary, in the exercise of his powers and the performance of his duties.

Powers, how exercised.

SEC. 712. For the effectual exercise of the powers specified in the last section, a judicial officer may punish for contempt in the cases and manner provided in this code.

Power to take and certify affidavits.

SEC. 713. The judge of the district court has power in any part of the district to take and certify—

First. The proof and acknowledgment of a conveyance of real property, or any other written instrument authorized or required to be proved or acknowledged;

Second. The acknowledgment of satisfaction of a judgment in any court;

Third. An affidavit or deposition to be used in any court of justice or other tribunal of the district;

Fourth. To exercise any other power and perform any other duty conferred or imposed upon him by this code or other statutes.

SEC. 714. Every other judicial officer may, within the precinct in which he is chosen—

Same subject.

First. Exercise the powers mentioned in subdivisions one, two, and three of the last section;

Second. Exercise any other power and perform any other duty conferred or imposed upon him by this code or other statutes.

CHAPTER SEVENTY-ONE.

MISCELLANEOUS PROVISIONS RESPECTING THE COURTS AND JUDICIAL OFFICERS.

Sec.

715. Sittings of court to be public; exceptions.

716. Nonjudicial days; what legal business may be done.

717. If court appoint or adjourn for such day to be deemed for next judicial day.

718. When judge does not attend.

719. Proceedings not affected by failure of term or vacancy.

Sec.

720. Application to court or judge, how addressed.

721. Proceedings to be in English.

722. Power of court to adjourn proceedings.

723. Means to be used by court to execute its powers.

SEC. 715. The sittings of every court of justice are public, except as provided in this section. Upon the agreement of the parties to a civil action or proceeding, filed with the clerk or entered upon the journal, the court may direct the trial of an issue of law or fact, or any other proceeding therein, to be private; and upon such order being made all persons shall be excluded except the officers of the court, the parties, their witnesses, and counsel.

Sittings of court to be public; exceptions.

SEC. 716. Courts of justice may be held, and judicial business transacted, on any day except as provided in this section. No court can be opened, nor can any judicial business be transacted, on a Sunday, on a legal holiday, or on a day appointed by the Executive authority of the United States or of the district as a day of fasting or thanksgiving, except for the following purposes:

Nonjudicial days; what legal business may be done.

First. To give instructions to a jury then deliberating on their verdict;

Second. To receive the verdict of a jury;

Third. For the exercise of the powers of a magistrate in criminal actions, or in proceedings of a criminal nature: Provided, That this section shall not be so construed as to prevent the issuance of any writ or order for which the judge granting the same may think an emergency exists.

SEC. 717. If any of the days mentioned in the last section happen to be a day appointed for holding a court, or to which it is adjourned, it is deemed appointed for or adjourned to the next judicial day.

If court appoint or adjourn for such day to be deemed for next judicial day.

SEC. 718. If no judge attend on the day appointed for holding a court before four o'clock in the afternoon, the court shall stand adjourned until the next day at nine o'clock; and if no judge attend on that day before four o'clock in the afternoon it shall then stand adjourned for the term.

When judge does not attend.

SEC. 719. No proceeding in a court of justice, in any action or proceeding pending therein, is affected by a vacancy in the office of the judge, or by the failure of a term thereof.

Proceedings not affected by failure of term or vacancy.

Application to court or judge, how addressed.

SEC. 720. An application or other proceeding addressed to a court shall be addressed to it by its style, as given in this code; an application or other proceeding addressed to a judicial officer shall be addressed to him by his name, without any other title than his style of office.

Proceedings to be in English.

SEC. 721. Every writing in any action or proceeding whatever, in a court of justice of the district, or before a judicial officer, shall be in the English language; but such abbreviations as are now commonly used in that language may be used, and numbers may be expressed by figures or numerals in the customary manner.

Power of court to adjourn proceedings.

SEC. 722. A court or judicial officer has power to adjourn any proceeding before it or him from time to time, as may be necessary, unless otherwise expressly provided by this code.

Means to be used by court to execute its powers.

SEC. 723. When jurisdiction is by any law of the United States conferred on a court or judicial officer, all the means to carry it into effect are also given; and in the exercise of the jurisdiction, if the course of proceeding be not specially pointed out by this code, any suitable process or mode of proceeding may be adopted which may appear most conformable to the spirit of this code.

CHAPTER SEVENTY-TWO.

OF REFEREES.

Sec.

724. Referee, definition of.

Referee, definition of.

SEC. 724. A referee is a person appointed by the court or a judicial officer, with power—

First. To try an issue of law or of fact in a civil action or proceeding, and report thereon;

Second. To ascertain any other fact in a civil action or proceeding when necessary for the information of the court, and report the fact, or to take and report the evidence in an action of an equitable nature;

Third. To execute an order, judgment, or decree, or to exercise any other power or perform any other duty expressly authorized by this code.

CHAPTER SEVENTY-THREE.

OF COMMISSIONERS TO ACKNOWLEDGE DEEDS.

Sec.

725. How appointed, tenure of office, powers and duties.

Sec.

726. Seal and oath of office, and when and where filed.

How appointed, tenure of office, powers and duties.

SEC. 725. The governor may appoint as many commissioners in each State, Territory, and District of the United States as he may deem expedient, who shall hold their offices for four years, and may within the State, Territory, or District for which they are appointed, and not otherwise, take and certify—

First. The proof or acknowledgment of a conveyance of real property within the district or of any other written instrument to be used or operated therein;

Second. The acknowledgment of satisfaction of any judgment of a court of this district;

Third. An affidavit or deposition to be used in any court of justice or before any judicial officer of the district; and Fourth. To exercise any other power, and perform any other duty, conferred or imposed upon them by this code or other statutes.

Seal and oath of office, when and where filed.

SEC. 726. A commissioner appointed under the last section shall, before he can exercise the powers therein conferred, provide himself with a seal of office, and take and subscribe an oath before a judicial officer in the county, city, or town where he resides, faithfully to perform the duties of the office of a commissioner to take affidavits, depositions, and the proof and acknowledgment of deeds, out of the district, according to the laws thereof, and file such oath and an impression of such seal in the office of the secretary of the district. The secretary of the district shall collect five dollars for each certificate of appointment made under this chapter and disburse the same as provided in section thirty-two, title one, chapter one of this Act.

CHAPTER SEVENTY-FOUR.

OF THE CLERK OF THE DISTRICT COURT.

Sec.

727. Office hours.

728. Deputy, how appointed.

Sec.

729. Can not act as attorney.

730. Powers and duties of clerks.

SEC. 727. The clerk of the district court shall keep his office open for the transaction of business on every judicial day from nine to twelve in the forenoon and from one to five in the afternoon.

Office hours.

SEC. 728. The clerk of the district court or any division thereof may have a deputy, to be appointed by such clerk in writing, at each place where regular or special terms of court are held and to continue during his pleasure. Such deputy has the power to perform any act or duty relating to the clerk's office that his principal has, and his principal is responsible for his conduct; and for all money received by him in his official capacity each deputy clerk shall be entitled to such compensation as the court or judge thereof may, subject to the approval of the Attorney-General, allow, the same to be paid by the clerk on order of the court as other court expenses are allowed and paid.

Deputy, how appointed.

SEC. 729. The clerk of the district court is prohibited during his continuance in office from acting, or having a partner who acts, as an attorney of the court of which he is clerk.

Can not act as attorney.

SEC. 730. The clerk of the district court has power to take and certify the proof and acknowledgment of a conveyance of real property or any other written instrument authorized or required to be proved or acknowledged, and it is the duty of such clerk—

Powers and duties of clerks.

First. To keep the seal of the court and affix it in all cases where he is required by law;

Second. To record the proceedings of the court;

Third. To keep the records, files, and other books and papers appertaining to the court;

Fourth. To file all papers delivered to him for that purpose in any action or proceeding in the court;

Fifth. To attend the terms of the court of which he is clerk, to administer oaths, and receive the verdict of a jury in any action or proceeding therein in the presence and under the direction of the court;

Sixth. To keep the journal of the proceedings of the court at its terms, and under the direction of the court to enter its orders and judgments;

Seventh. To authenticate by certificate or transcript, as may be required, the records, files, or proceedings of the court, or any other paper appertaining thereto, and filed with him;

Eighth. To exercise the powers and perform the duties conferred and imposed upon him elsewhere by this code or other statute;

Ninth. In the performance of his duties to conform to the direction of the court.

CHAPTER SEVENTY-FIVE.

OF ATTORNEYS.

Sec.	Sec.
731. When cause may be prosecuted or defended in person or by attorney.	734. Women may be admitted.
732. Attorney a public officer; who may act as such.	735. Oath of office; order of admission.
733. Application for admission and proof thereon.	736. Attorneys of other States and countries may appear as counsel.

When cause may be prosecuted or defended in person or by attorney.

SEC. 731. Any action or proceeding may be prosecuted or defended by a party in person or by attorney, except that the United States or a corporation, either public or private, appears by attorney in all cases; and where a party appears by attorney the written proceedings must be in the name of the attorney, who is the sole representative of his client as between him and the adverse party.

Attorney a public officer; who may act as such.

SEC. 732. An attorney is a public officer, but any person may act in that capacity who has been admitted as such by the district court of the district, or may be hereafter admitted, as provided in this chapter.

Application for admission and proof thereon.

SEC. 733. An applicant for admission as attorney must apply to the district court, and must show—

First. That he is a citizen of the United States, or has declared his intention to become such, and is a resident of said district, and of the age of twenty-one years, which proof may be made by his own affidavit;

Second. That he is a person of good moral character, which may be proved by any evidence satisfactory to the court;

Third. That he has the requisite learning and ability, which must be shown by the examination of the applicant by the judges, or under their direction, at the term at which the application is made.

Women may be admitted.

SEC. 734. Hereafter women shall be admitted to practice law as attorneys in the courts of said district upon the same terms and conditions as men.

Oath of office; order of admission.

SEC. 735. If, upon the examination, the applicant be found qualified, the court shall administer an oath to the applicant to support the Constitution and laws of the United States and of the district, and to faithfully and honestly demean himself or herself in office. The court shall then direct an order to be entered to the effect that the applicant is a citizen of the United States and of the district, of the age of twenty-one years, of good moral character, and possessed of the requisite learning and ability to practice as an attorney in all the courts of the district, and has taken the oath of office; and upon the entry of the order and payment of the legal fee, he or she is entitled to practice as such attorney, and not otherwise.

Attorneys of other States and countries may appear as counsel.

SEC. 736. Whenever an applicant for admission as attorney shall present to the district court a certificate showing him to have been duly admitted to practice as an attorney in the highest courts of any State or Territory of the United States, or in one of the circuit courts, or the Supreme Court of the United States, such applicant may be admitted to practice as an attorney without further examination.

CHAPTER SEVENTY-SIX.

OF THE DUTIES OF ATTORNEYS, AND THEIR AUTHORITY.

Sec.	Sec.
737. Authority of an attorney.	747. If accused do not appear, court to proceed.
738. Proceedings when party alleges that attorney appears for him without authority.	748. May demur to or controvert the accusation.
739. When attorney may be compelled to show authority.	749. If demurrer not sustained must answer forthwith; judgment for want of answer or trial.
740. Attorney, how changed.	750. Accusation on knowledge of the court presumed to be true, but may be shown otherwise.
741. Notice of change.	751. Proceeding to compel an attorney to deliver over money or papers.
742. Lien of attorneys.	752. How court to proceed if attorney claim a lien.
743. By what court and for what causes an attorney may be removed or suspended.
744. By whom the proceedings to be instituted.
745. Accusation, how made.
746. Order for accused to appear and answer.

SEC. 737. An attorney has authority—

Authority of an attorney.

First. To bind his client in any of the proceedings in an action or proceeding by his agreement filed with the clerk or entered upon the journal of the court, and not otherwise;

Second. To receive money or property claimed by his client in an action or proceeding during the pendency thereof, or within three years after judgment, and, upon the payment or delivery thereof, and not otherwise, to discharge the claim or acknowledge satisfaction of the judgment. But this section does not prevent a party from employing a new attorney to issue execution upon a judgment, or to take the other proceedings prescribed by this code for its enforcement, and when he does so the authority of the former attorney ceases.

SEC. 738. If it be alleged by a party for whom an attorney appears that he does so without authority, and the allegation be verified by the affidavit of the party, the court may, if it find the allegation true, at any stage of the proceedings, relieve the party for whom the attorney has assumed to appear from the consequences of his act.

Proceedings when party alleges that attorney appears for him without authority.

SEC. 739. The court or judge thereof may, on motion of either party, and on showing reasonable grounds therefor, require the attorney for the adverse party, or for any one of several adverse parties, to produce or prove the authority under which he appears, and until he does so may stay all proceedings by him on behalf of the party for whom he assumes to appear.

When attorney may be compelled to show authority.

SEC. 740. The attorney in an action or proceeding may be changed at any time before judgment or final determination, as follows:

Attorney, how changed.

First. Upon his own consent, filed with the clerk or entered upon the journal; or,

Second. Upon the order of the court or judge thereof, on the application of the client or the attorney, for sufficient cause.

SEC. 741. When an attorney is changed, as provided in the last section, written notice of the change and of the substitution of a new attorney, or of the appearance of the party in person, shall be given to the adverse party. Until then, he is bound to recognize the former attorney.

Notice of change.

SEC. 742. An attorney has a lien for his compensation, whether specially agreed upon or implied, as provided in this section—

Lien of attorneys.

First. Upon the papers of his client which have come into his possession in the course of his professional employment;

Second. Upon money in his hands belonging to his client;

Third. Upon money in the hands of the adverse party in an action or proceeding in which the attorney was employed from the time of giving notice of the lien to that party;

Fourth. Upon a judgment to the extent of the costs included therein, or, if there be a special agreement, to the extent of the compensation specially agreed on, from the giving notice thereof to the party against whom the judgment is given and filing the original with the clerk where such judgment is entered and docketed. This lien is, however, subordinate to the rights existing between the parties to the action or proceeding.

By what court and for what causes an attorney may be removed or suspended.

SEC. 743. An attorney may be removed or suspended by the district court for either of the following causes, arising after his admission to practice:

First. Upon his being convicted of any felony or of a misdemeanor involving moral turpitude, in either of which cases the record of his conviction is conclusive evidence;

Second. For a willful disobedience or violation of the order of a court requiring him to do or forbear an act connected with or in the course of his profession;

Third. For being guilty of any willful deceit or misconduct in his profession;

By whom the proceedings to be instituted.

SEC. 744. The proceeding to remove an attorney as provided in the last section shall be taken by the court, of its own motion, for matters within its knowledge, or that of any of the judges thereof; otherwise it may be taken upon the information of another.

Accusation, how made.

SEC. 745. If the proceedings be upon the motion of the court or judges thereof, for matters within its knowledge, the accusation shall be made by an order of the court reciting the facts charged. If upon the information of another, the accusation must be presented to the court, in writing, and verified by the oath of the person making it, or of some other person, to the effect that the charges therein contained are true, as he believes.

Order for accused to appear and answer.

SEC. 746. After the accusation has been made or received the court shall forthwith make an order requiring the accused to appear and answer the accusation at a specified time in the same or a subsequent term, and shall cause a copy of the order and of the accusation to be served upon the accused within a prescribed time before the day appointed in the order to appear and answer. But when the proceeding is upon the information of another, the accusation shall be dismissed at once unless it appear therefrom that the accused should be required to appear and answer the same.

If accused do not appear, court to proceed.

SEC. 747. The accused must appear at the time appointed in the order and answer the accusation, unless, for sufficient cause, the court assign another day for that purpose. If he do not appear, the court may proceed and determine the accusation in his absence.

May demur to or controvert the accusation.

SEC. 748. The accused may demur to the accusation for insufficiency or controvert it by answer. The demurrer and answer shall be in writing, and the latter shall be verified by the oath of the accused in the same manner as a pleading in an action.

If demurrer not sustained must answer forthwith: judgment for want of answer or trial.

SEC. 749. If a demurrer, for insufficiency, be not sustained, the accused shall answer forthwith. If he plead guilty, or refuse to answer the accusation, the court shall proceed to judgment of removal or suspension. If he controvert the matters charged, the court shall then, or at such time as it may appoint, proceed to try the accusation, and give a judgment of removal, suspension, or acquittal, according to law and the right of the case.

Accusation on knowledge of the court presumed to be true, but may be shown otherwise.

SEC. 750. When an accusation is made upon the knowledge of the court, or the judges thereof, the facts shall be set forth as in other cases, and the accused may controvert the accusation, whereupon the issues of fact shall be by the court referred to at least three disinterested members of the bar, who shall report their findings of fact to the court, and the judgment of the court shall be entered according to such findings.

SEC. 751. When an attorney refuses to deliver over money or papers to a person from or for whom he has received them in the course of professional employment, whether in a judicial proceeding or not, he may be required, by an order of the court, to do so within a specified time or show cause why he should not be punished for a contempt.

Proceeding to compel an attorney to deliver over money or papers.

SEC. 752. If, however, the attorney claim a lien upon the money or papers, under the provisions of section seven hundred and forty-two, the court shall—

How court to proceed if attorney claim a lien.

First. Impose, as a condition of making the order, that the client give security, in form and amount to be directed, to satisfy the lien when determined in an action; or,

Second. Summarily inquire into the facts on which the claim of a lien is founded, and determine the same; or,

Third. Direct the trial of the controversy by a jury, or refer it, and upon the verdict or report determine the same as in other cases.

CHAPTER SEVENTY-SEVEN.

OF RECEIVERS.

Sec.

753. In what cases he may be appointed.

Sec.

754. His oath and undertaking.

SEC. 753. A receiver may be appointed in any civil action or proceeding, other than an action for the recovery of specific personal property—

In what cases he may be appointed.

First. Provisionally, before judgment, on the application of either party, when his right to the property which is the subject of the action or proceeding, and which is in the possession of an adverse party, is probable, and the property or its rents or profits are in danger of being lost or materially injured or impaired;

Second. After judgment, to carry the same into effect;

Third. To dispose of the property according to the judgment, or to preserve it during the pendency of an appeal, or when an execution has been returned unsatisfied and the debtor refuses to apply his property in satisfaction of the judgment;

Fourth. In cases provided in this code, or by other statutes, when a corporation has been dissolved, or is insolvent or in imminent danger of insolvency, or has forfeited its corporate rights;

Fifth. In the cases when a debtor has been declared insolvent.

SEC. 754. A receiver, before entering upon his duties, shall be sworn faithfully to perform his trust to the best of his ability, and shall also file with the clerk of the court an undertaking, of one or more sufficient sureties, in a specified sum, to be fixed by the court or judge thereof, to the effect that he will faithfully discharge the duties of receiver and will obey the orders of the court or judge thereof in respect thereto. The sureties must justify in the same manner as bail upon an arrest.

His oath and undertaking.
